One hundred and sixty years ago today, July 26, the post-office system of the United States was established, a small thing in a very small population. The postoffice came one year ahead of the Declaration of Independence.

Today's postoffice disproves the theory that government "is not able to do anything for itself." It is able to carry a letter from Key West to Seattle, for three cents, at least seventeen cents cheaper than any private concern would carry it.

Some will tell you the post-office doesn't pay. It is not planned "to pay," it is planned to give service. It doesn't expect to pay when it carries letters to isolated farmhouses through the rural delivery. It does better than "pay," it "serves."

True, "private initiative couldn't afford to serve without profit." That's exactly the reason why, when certain businesses become sufficiently great monopolies, it will be necessary and proper for the government to take them over, with just payment, of course, no confiscation.

The seventh congress of the Communist International, meeting in Moscow, will "try to unite all labor movements throughout the world," and it will have a job. Labor movements in the United States cannot unite, and some do not want to unite. Ask Mr. Green about the fur workers.

Pravda, official Russian newspaper, asks, "Can Communists wait until the workers combine on a program for the overthrow of capitalism?" and answers itself:

"No—we cannot wait." Wise Pravda! If Communists waited for complete overthrow of capitalism, they would not only be old and gray, their skeletons would be dust and Lenin's embalmed body also turned to dust, or more likely thrown out by some returning Czar, and old Voltaire's ashes were scattered when the imitation French kings came back. Fortunately, scattering Voltaire's ashes did not destroy his ideas or their effect.

Russia says Fascism is "the worst enemy" of Communism, and proposes to organize against it immediately.

Of Russia's 150,000,000 inhabitan?s only 3,000,000 are members of the Communist party. How powerful "an aristocracy," or oligarchy, will those 3,000,000 become, as time passes? Will Russia develop, as India did thousands of years ago, a caste system, with untouchables at the bottom, and "Communist party members" instead of "Brahmins" at the top?

New York politicians, after "stormy objections," agreed to give $120,000 to Thomas E. Dewey, special prosecutor, to deal with crime in New York. The job would be cheap, if it could be done for one hundred and twenty millions. An encouraging fact is that Mr. Dewey, a young lawyer, only thirty-three, remarkably successful in his private practice, earning at least $100,000 a year, should abandon that practice, enter the public service and submit to abuse from friends of racketeers, for a salary of $16,000. Glory, probably, is worth the difference.

Another extremely able prosecutor, Mr. George Z. Medalie, dropped, for years, a private income of at least $200,000 a year to prosecute assorted public enemies, big and little, for $10,000 a year.

Often women change. Mrs. Margaret Waley, on her way to spend twenty years in a Michigan prison for the kidnaping of young George Weyerhaeuser, no longer wishes "to be with my husband (sniff, sniff), wherever he is." In fact, says she, "he didn't get a third of what he deserves." He "got" 43 years.

Mrs. Waley says she is not only through with her one kidnaping husband, but "through with all men forever." "Forever" is long, and Mrs. Waley is plump and young and blonde, and there are always the parole boards. "All men" need not despair.

In Austria, Austrian Nazis are taken into protective custody," to prevent demonstrations on the anniversary of the death of Chancellor Dollfuss. The Nazis, not discouraged, distribute hand bills announcing "trouble" for July 30 and 31.

The "trouble" is probably to celebrate the anniversary of the hanging of thirteen Nazis last year in connection with Dollfuss' death.

Throughout Austria guns boomed and, new feature, all over Austria Dollfuss' last speech was broadcast, borrowed from a phonograph record. It would be interesting to hear George Washington's actual

Everett IOU's Vanish From Police Hands

PWA GRAFT HERE PROBED

I. O. U.'S GONE IN EVERETT PROBE

I. O. U.'s of city officials, center of Everett probe, have mysteriously vanished from an envelope which was in the hands of police.

This charge was made today by Attorney John J. Walsh, Jr., counsel for Harold J. Gibson, accused clerk in the city collector's office.

A charge of subterfuge on the part of police was also made by Walsh in Malden district court.

Gibson was discharged and then arrested on a larceny complaint when a state audit disclosed that a shortage in the collector's funds resulted from I. O. U. loans to prominent city officials.

The identity of the officials have not been disclosed.

Walsh, a former assistant United States attorney, after obtaining permission from Judge Elbridge G. Davis, to examine an envelope in possession of police, discovered that certain papers were missing, he said.

In the presence of police officials, Gibson and his wife, the envelope was scrutinized by Walsh.

Gibson and his wife told counsel that there were two I. O. U.'s amounting to several hundred dollars missing and a telegram money order receipt.

Police denied that the envelope had been in any other hands since taken from Gibson a week ago.

Walsh declared that he would demand in court an investigation as to where the missing I. O. U.'s went and also what persons had the envelope in their possession other than police.

Walsh told Judge Elbridge G. Davis that at 10 o'clock Friday night police obtained from Gibson,

BOY AMOK WITH GUN

Kills 1, Wounds 1, Still at Large

By Associated Press

Philadelphia, July 26—A 19-year-old boy, who killed another lad, wounded a 70-year-old man and fired shots at neighbors to "get even" for fancied wrongs, eluded police today in the alleys of South Philadelphia.

Fearing their quarry mad, detectives moved cautiously in their search of the network of narrow streets around the killer's home.

The youth they hunted, they said, was Charles Pollino, known to the neighborhood as "Crazy Charlie."

"Charlie" appeared suddenly on the doorsteps of his home yesterday, waving a pistol, neighbors told police.

"I'm out to settle with everybody on this street," they said he shouted. "Anybody wants it, come and get it."

A shot rang out.

Across the street, Frank Marsala, 16, at work on an automobile, fell with a bullet under his heart.

Another shot.

Frank's grandfather, Tony Fuffa, 70, standing in a doorway, clutched at his throat.

Bullets whizzed in all directions until the pistol was empty. Romping children fled, mothers screamed. Friends hurried Marsala and Buffa to a hospital, and Pollino disappeared.

The missing youth's father and two sisters could give police no motive for the shooting.

Jubilee Jim hustled to the front in the middle, showed good speed but faltered through the closing three-sixteenths. Lady Carrot was unable to reach the leaders. Joy Flag was outrun. Wise King, in a jam soon after the start, stumbled and unseated his rider. Chessie lost his rider at the start.

DOCTOR MISSING AT SEA

Cruiser Overdue From Portland

Dr. John W. Meachen, of Back Bay and Melrose, formerly of Newton, was reported missing at sea today.

Dr. Meachen, and a companion, Earl Holmes, Lynn engineer, left Portland, Me., yesterday afternoon in a 25 foot cabin cruiser "Naturai." No. C. 8527, bound for Boston.

Coast guard boats from Boston and Eastport, Me., are searching for the cruiser which was due at midnight at the Dorchester Yacht Club.

Friends said that Dr. Meachen motored to Portland with Holmes and Mrs. Holmes yesterday morning. Mrs. Holmes drove the car back to Boston.

Dr. Meachen, who is married and has one daughter, resides on Country Club road, Melrose. He formerly lived in Arnold road, Newton Center.

R. I. DEMOCRATS Nominate Prince

Providence, July 26 (AP)—General Treasurer Antonio Prince was nominated by the Democratic party as its candidate for Congress from the First Rhode Island Congressional District this afternoon.

Prince polled 67 of the 102 ballots, Mayor Felix A. Toupin of Woonsocket getting 30 and Samuel W. Smith, Jr., of Jamestown, receiving only five.

90 Days of Racing Now Assured

Extension of the number of horse racing meet days from 70 to 90 is authorized under the terms of a bill signed today by Governor Curley. The act has attached to it an emergency preamble making the law effective immediately.

The quill with which the governor signed the measure was presented to Charles F. Adams of the Suffolk Downs race track.

The governor estimated that horse racing revenue to the state will amount to approximately $1,000,000.

COOL WEEK-END Promised Boston

Greater Boston will enjoy a comfortable week-end, it was indicated today as the temperature remained in the moderate 70's.

At 11 a. m. the mercury had risen only to 73 degrees in Boston. The record for any July 26 is 96 degrees in 1892.

LEGISLATURE Sits for Record

The legislature will break all previous records this year by remaining in session more than 206 days.

The 206-day record was set in 1921 and today is the 206th day since the session began.

The legislature will end its session next week.

SLAYER VOWS 'INNOCENCE' TO MOTHER

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Worcester, July 26—Down on his knees before his mother, Newell P. Sherman swore his innocence of the "American Tragedy" murder charged against him, the Boston Evening American learned exclusively today.

Tears were streaming down the 26-year-old son's face as he begged his mother to believe in him. He sobbed over and over again:

"It was an accident, mother. You've got to believe it. It was an accident, I tell you . . .

"The police keep questioning me. They kept saying: 'You did it, didn't you?'

"I was hungry. I was exhausted. It seemed like I was there hours with them hammering away: 'You did it, didn't you?'"

The prisoner looked wildly at his mother, then—

"Finally I couldn't stand it any longer.

"I said: 'Yes, I did.'"

Again Sherman sobbed. Then he dropped to his knees. He cried out:

"Mother, I swear I never did it! It was an accident just like I

American Editor Freed by Nazis

By Associated Press

Berlin, July 26—M. C. Harbeck, American editor of the German edition of Golden Age Magazine, was released from jail today after intervention of the United States consulate.

The release order gave Harbeck, who had been in jail ten days, a few days to leave the country, but he left immediately, without escort, for Basel, Switzerland, his home.

(Harbeck was taken into custody in Germany on a claim he had illegally transferred sequestered funds out of Germany. The funds had been tied up by court action against a Watch Tower Bible and tract society printing plant in Germany.)

FLIER AND GIRL Guest Killed

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Duane Howard, 28-year-old flying instructor, and Miss Virginia Thomas, 16, of Berwyn, Pa., were killed today when a monoplane in which they were flying fell in a tailspin at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport in suburban Glenview.

Miss Thomas was visiting her sister, Mrs. Frances Pritchard, in Chicago, and was a guest of Howard on the fatal flight.

Nye Central Bank Bill Rejected

Washington, July 26—The Senate today by a 59 to 10 vote rejected the Nye proposal for a government-owned central bank, offered as a substitute for the main section of the banking bill placing control of the nation's credit in seven reserve board members and five representatives of the regional reserve banks.

Proposed by Senator Nye (R., N. D.) after consultation with Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, the substitute would have set up a "Bank of the United States of America" with full powers over issuance of money and regulation of its value as an agency of Congress.

Balances and Receipts

Washington, July 26—Today's Treasury balance, $1,968,874,458. U. S. customs receipts, $21,831,869.

3 Shot in Gun Duel Of Bandits, Police

By Associated Press

Peoria, Ill., July 26—Three persons, including a woman shopper, were shot and wounded today when three payroll robbers battled police in a downtown gun fight.

One robber who gave the name of Ed Mace of Kansas City was captured after he had been wounded by pursuing police.

His two companions escaped with an undetermined amount of money. Nearly $25,000 was in a bag wrested from a payroll guard, the police said, but much of the money was scattered over the streets as the robbers fled.

A guard for a lavery was probably fatally wounded by a blast, from a 12-gauge shotgun, and a woman shopping on the third floor of a department store, was struck in the forehead by a stray bullet.

LEGISLATORS LINKED TO U. S. QUIZ

Four state senators, 12 or more representatives and several city councilors will be questioned, it was understood today, in connection with the federal probe of alleged PWA graft in Greater Boston projects.

The investigation, under direction of United States District Attorney Francis J. W. Ford, will involve payments alleged to have been made to "bagmen" for state and city officials in connection with employment on the projects.

Huge payroll frauds are declared to be involved and one item under investigation is a $100,000 appropriation for a PWA project.

Special investigators from Washington, sent to aid Ford, are also interested in the activities of a construction company in which Boston politicians are said to be active.

Assistant United States Attorney Cartier will handle the investigation when it reaches the federal grand jury.

A check of all ERA administrators, their connections politically, and their operations in the conduct of ERA in virtually every city and town has been ordered, it was learned.

Six more special investigators from Washington will join the force already at work.

Automobile hire, charged to "labor on jobs," figures in the inquiry. Slips alleged to have been turned in by contractors known to favor politicians with "joy rides" in attending the races are being checked.

Mystic Dragged For Boy Victim

Metropolitan police were dragging the Mystic river around Somerville Beach today as underwear, overalls and sneakers belonging to a young boy were found.

The clothing belongs to a boy in the vicinity of 8 to 10 years old, police say.

No boys have been reported missing to the Somerville police.

The overalls are blue. The sneakers blue.

SHERMAN, ON KNEES, SWEARS INNOCENCE TO MOTHER

SOBS STORY OF 'ACCIDENT,' CHARGES 'THIRD DEGREE'

By ARTHUR J. QUINN

told them in the first place. I swear that's the truth."

Standing silently beside the stricken mother and the sobbing son was the prisoner's father, William P. Sherman.

He, it was learned, was close to tears himself. After the dramatic scene he said:

"Believe him? Of course, we believe him. I never believed the 'confession.'

"I've been a police officer myself for years. I know how a 'confession' is forced. I've seen the third degree."

This dramatic episode took place in Worcester County jail more than 36 hours ago, but until today it was a secret locked deep in the hearts of the mother and father.

KEPT SECRET

Mrs. Sherman herself was crying when she parted from the accused son, but she dried her tears as she left the jail.

It was later that night that she and her husband spoke of what had happened. Then Mrs. Sherman said:

"I believe my boy. He told me the canoe had tipped over accidentally and that he had done everything he could to save Alice.

"I believe him. I couldn't believe my care when they told me the other day that he had said he had killed her.

"I couldn't believe it when he kept saying he had. I thought then he must be crazy.

"He was crazy — crazed with grief. But I believe him now and father and I will do all in our power to help him."

NEAR COLLAPSE

Mrs. Sherman is in a state of collapse today as a result of the emotional experiences of the past few days.

At her home she has said many times, it was learned:

"What I can't understand is why police wanted the boy to say he had killed Alice."

Attorney J. Fred Humes, the lawyer-farmer who is Sherman's counsel, saw his client the same night as the father and mother, but he declines to discuss his case. He said:

"Our plans are being made for court, not for the newspapers."

On the heels of this disclosure of the jail scene, however, state police announced they had gathered another damaging piece of evidence that aims at breaking down Sherman's defense.

FIND CERTIFICATE

Corporal Robert Thompson and Trooper Albert Sheahan have found a "life-saver" certificate, awarded to Sherman by the Red Cross, it was said.

This certificate will be used authorities said, to show that Sherman should have been able to save his wife if the Lake Singletary affair was an accident as he claimed.

Sherman, they declared, is a powerful swimmer, "at home" in the water. His wife was a comparatively frail girl compared with his 240-pound bulk.

Assistant District-Attorney Alfred B. Canedella, the state's prosecutor in the "American Tragedy" case, said that he might question members of the Sherman family some time during the day.

FACES NEW QUIZ

He may talk further with Esther Magill, the buxom 17-year-old who figures as the "other woman" in the case.

The prosecutor scoffed at reports that the story Miss Magill told him in the four-hour quiz two days ago had been disclosed in detail.

The interview with the girl took the form of question and answer, and the catechism was recorded thus by a stenographer, he said. There was no long-drawn out statement.

He said further that while much of the girl's story had been told many times by herself, there are certain facts that will not be disclosed to anyone until Miss Magill takes stand against Sherman.

It was also learned that the amount of insurance carried by the drowned Alice Dudley was only $200, and that she had procured this policy two months ago.

Among others to be questioned today are two persons who are said to have intimate knowledge of Miss Magill's friendship with Sherman.

She had talked with them several times about him and had repeated his remarks about "getting rid of his wife," it is said.

NEW CHARGES IN I. O. U. QUIZ

by subterfuge, an envelope which they have since held.

Walsh moved that the court order police to allow him to examine the contents of the envelope. An agreement was reached in the courtroom to this end without the formality of an order from the bench.

New mystery was added to the case when Joseph Fisher, secretary to Mayor Roche, announced that the mayor had inspected the contents of the envelope and found no I. O. U.'s in it.

It's contents, according to Fisher, were slips showing payment of taxes in an amount not found in Gibson's cash drawer.

Gibson, who claims he is being made "the goat," pleaded not guilty to larceny of $213.60 and was released in $1500 bail when court continued the case until August 23.

Walsh, former assistant United States attorney, moved that the charge against Gibson be quashed because the warrant was issued on hearsay evidence not competent for trial. This motion was denied when Lieutenant J. W. Killion said the evidence submitted was backed up by a State audit.

Motion for a bill of particulars was taken under advisement.

Four state auditors working on the city collector's accounts refused any information to Mayor Roche today, and said their work would not be completed for several weeks.

Still in hiding, Esther Magill, the "other girl" in the Lake Singletary drowning of Mrs. Alice Dudley Sherman, is facing a third intensive examination on her friendship with Newell P. Sherman, held as wife slayer. Sherman claims innocence, saying that the drowning was accidental.

HOUSE PASSES $13,000,000 OF CURLEY'S PLAN

Significant strength for Governor Curley's bond issue and work and wages program developed today in the House when the Governor's $13,000,000 bill for highway construction and public works was voted into the Senate.

A second bill calling for expenditure of $7,500,000 for a public buildings program is next to be taken up.

Today's first significant vote came on the question of substituting a minority bill, calling for expenditure of only $4,000,000.

The roll call showed only 82 for substitution and 140 voting against. There were 222 out of the total membership of 240 present.

There were 115 of the 116 Democrats present, Representative Leo Birmingham of Brighton, who is ill, being the only absentee.

On this measure, Representative Clarence N. Durant of Lee was the only Democrat opposing Curley.

Next came the question of passing the bill to a third reading, and thence into the Senate. This roll-call vote showed an even larger ratio, 143 to 77 in favor of advancing the bill.

MAJORITY VOTE

When the matter of the bond issue itself comes up, however, one-third of those present and voting can block the bond issue.

The work and wages bill itself requires only a majority vote.

On the basis of today's voting, with only one Democrat absent and with more than a dozen Republicans yet to show their strength, the bond issue could be defeated.

Democrats began work this afternoon to strengthen their lines along the route of victory.

Representative Albert Bigelow of Brookline, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, and principal drafter of the minority report which sought to limit the issues, contended that the rural highways item was placed in the majority report to catch the votes of the representatives.

"This item is merely sucker bait," he declared.

Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark said that Worcester, for instance, under the first section of the bill, would receive about $15,000 under the $2,300,00 proposed for Chapter 81 and 90 work.

He held that much needed relief to unemployment would come in the section item which appropriates $4,000,000 for sidewalks along state highways.

A contribution of $1,741,877, he continued, was made necessary in the majority bill under the Hayden-Cartwright act to as to secure an equal amount from the federal government.

$3,958,123 ITEM

Another item of $3,958,123, he said, was necessary to meet land damages and other incidentals in co-operating with the federal government in grade crossing elimination work.

Democratic floor leader Edward J. Kelley of Worcester contended that the Bigelow group reported its measure with provision to meet urgent necessities and that they apparently are not concerned over extending relief for the unemployment situation.

The speaker took Bigelow to task for his charge that the rural highway allotment was "sucker bait." Every governor, he reminded the House, has sought to spread expenditures over the entire state.

Kelley pointed to the pressure from Brookline for an underpass at Brookline Village to relieve congestion from the Worcester turnpike. Land damages alone for this project would amount to $750,000, he pointed out.

Box Patton Got Holds Lobby Stage; Bought Bonds, Too

By Associated Press

Washington, July 26—A surprise witness told the Senate lobby committee today that Representative Patton (D., Texas) carried a small box away from a power company official's hotel room the Sunday before the House vote on the Holding Company Bill.

Simultaneously, Senate and House conferees on the utility holding company bill became deadlocked by a dispute over whether Benjamin Cohen, administration adviser on the legislation, should be permitted to attend the meetings.

"There apparently is a permanent breach on this legislation," said Representative Huddleson (D.), Alabama. He added that Cohen's presence "constitutes executive interference."

Two Republican House conferees, Cooper of Ohio and Holmes of Massachusetts, also were said to have protested Cohen's presence.

E. V. Cellers, an NRA employe, told the lobby committee he had seen Patton carry a small box from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power & Light Company.

A couple of days later, Cellers said, Patton showed him a bond he said he had just bought.

Before Cellers took the stand, Patton had voluntarily appeared to deny any wrongdoing.

The committee questioned him about his investments and he testified he had bought four government bonds of $1000 face value each since he came to Washington in January.

Cellers, a gray-haired man, testified in a low voice that the box carried out of the hotel by Patton did not seem to be a cigar box, which the representative said it was, but "it may have been."

'IT WASN'T PAYDAY'

He told of conversations later with Patton's nephew, who accompanied them to the hotel, in which he said the nephew, Norris Shook, expressed doubt that the package was a box of cigars.

Cellers said the nephew asked him Tuesday if he thought cigars were in the box.

"I told him I didn't know," Charles said he replied. "He said he didn't think so, and remarked, 'Uncle bought a bond today and it isn't payday.'"

Black obtained statements several times from Cellers that he went with Patton to Carpenter's Hotel and the representative left 30 or 40 minutes later with "a light box."

GIRL TO FACE MULLEN QUIZ

Cambridge police investigating the murder of T. Frank Mullen, 31, Ridge Tech teacher, were present in municipal court today at the trial of Marion Davis, 28-year-old South End girl accused of robbing a motorist from whom she solicited a ride.

Miss Davis, who lives in Claremont park, South End, was found guilty and sentenced to an indefinite term in Sherborn Reformatory by Judge Elijah Adlow, She appealed.

She will be questioned by Captain John J. Canney, directing the Cambridge police probe of the fatal stabbing of Mullen.

Miss Davis was charged with stealing $73 from Harry Clair of Pearl street, Brookline, after she entered his car in Newbury street, Back Bay.

Clair told the court full restitution had been made but Judge Adlow remarked:

"There is too much of this going on."

GREETER: Darling, you're home just in time for Bella's week-end party. The Duke will be there!

TRAVELER: I wouldn't miss that I. J. Fox August Fur Sale for a Crown Prince! All Paris is agog, it's I. J. Fox Jubilee Year and our year to buy I. J. Fox furs.

11 CITIES TO CUT CLUB LICENSES

Drastic reduction in 11 cities and towns of the number of clubs licensed to sell liquor after next January 1 is provided for in a new law passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Curley.

Chairman William F. Hayes of the state ABC commission today pointed out that the following cities in all probability will be compelled to make these reductions: Beverly, from 7 to 6; Brockton, from 28 to 11; Haverhill, from 14 to 9; Holyoke, from 28 to 8; Lawrence, from 45 to 12; Lowell, from 19 to 13; Peabody, from 8 to 5; Salem, from 19 to 7; Westfield, from 6 to 5.

Beginning January 1, club licenses must be issued within a population quota along with all other licenses for the sale of liquor. Heretofore, local authorities could issue as many club licenses as they wished.

The new census figures may slightly alter the indicated reductions in the cities cited.

However, the new law allows local authorities to replace a club license with a restaurant or tavern license but they cannot without cause refuse to reissue licenses to those who already hold them.

New Holland Cabinet

The Hague, July 26 (AP)—Queen Wilhelmina charged G. P. Aalberse, Catholic party leader, with the formation of a new cabinet today constituted on as broad a base as possible.

Traffic Police Truly 'Chic' In Hip-Flares and Form-Fits

If Boston Police Department's inspired "Paul Poiret" knows his seams and gussets, your favorite "traffic-cop," when you next see him all "duded up" in his new police uniform, will be what they mean when they say "the glass of fashion and the mold of form."

The new uniform of indigo wool serge, with its hip-flare, form-fit, double-stitching and black silesia lining, is a "honey."

The cap, patterned after that worn by Manhattan's smartly turned out police, is an eight-point regulation police cap, made of eight-ounce (tropics) worsted with non-breakable visor, ventilated band and cravanette lining.

The blouse, of 14-ounce indigo-dyed wool serge, is four-button and single-breasted style, with a straight-front closing.

Form-fitting, there is a "tricky" hip flare over the hips, a rolled collar, double-stitching, button-holes three-quarters of an inch from the edge of coat and an inner yoke-lining of black silesia.

The service emblazonry which formerly completely encircled the arm, are now but one and a quarter inch strip of sky-blue material, each indicating five years of service.

HELD IN $50,000 In Mother-Stabbing

Jacob Poust, 27, Light street, West Lynn, was today held in $50,000 bail for hearing August 8 on charges of assault with intent to murder his mother, Mrs. Bella Poust.

CHILD DYING Struck By Auto

Rockport, July 26—Before the eyes of her mother, Elizabeth Quinn, five, daughter of Motorcycle Officer James P. Quinn, was struck by an automobile today. Her name is on the danger list in Rockport Hospital.

She ran from behind a parked car into the path of one driven by Miss Mary M. Brown of Detroit, a summer resident in Annisquam, according to police.

He Got Out

A Watertown fireman turned instructor today and aided the release of Walter Rundlett, 3, of Beacon street, Waltham, who locked himself in the bathroom of a friend's home in North Beacon street, Watertown.

For a half hour the boy's mother, Mrs. Lena Rundlett, tried to tell him how to unlock the door.

Ladderman Frank McManus climbed to the second floor window of the bathroom. The screen could not be budged. More by move, McManus instructed the boy until at last he finally unlocked the door.

ROAD PLAN SET FOR FARM AID

By Associated Press

Washington, July 26—Word of a vast works-relief program "to get the farmers out of the mud" from Maine to California came today to original advocates of the plan in Congress.

A farm-to-market road-building project, far exceeding the approximately $100,000,000 heretofore designated for back roads, was understood to be in the making.

Another $500,000,000 might be allotted for the road improvements, it was said, although the limit would not be set until a survey disclosed the extent of possible and practical road work.

Representative Bert Lord, upstate New York Republican, said he had been advised of the new road program.

Lord several months ago told President Roosevelt $600,000,000 of the four billion-dollar works-relief fund would put every man on rural relief to work.

Just how much money is to be spent to resurface dirt roads will be left to Lawrence Westbrook, Parry A. Fellows, both assistants in the Works-Relief organization, and a consulting engineer yet to be selected.

Each state is to pick the roads to be improved; then the list is to be considered in co-operation with the bureau of public roads.

TRAILED O'CONOR

A general secretary to Mrs. Lucy B. O'Conor today testified in Middlesex court that after seven months of effort to spy on Charles T. O'Conor and Mrs. Thomas J. Hartigan of Waban he found—nothing!

In addition to his testimony of peeping and ear-cupping, he also admitted that he wrote a verse now and then.

But he indignantly denied he had ever read these effusions to Mrs. O'Conor while holding her hand—or even while not holding her hand—to soothe her to sleep.

The secretary is Michael J. Mercer, former X-ray technician at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Brighton, who now lives at the O'Conor home in Newton—not—he emphatically testified—in the master's bedroom formerly occupied by Mr. O'Conor—but the guest room.

His duties, he said, are taking care of Mrs. O'Conor's accounts and children, and answering her mail. Between these tasks he does the versifying.

He produced a notebook in court, kept since before Christmas of 1934, in which he allegedly recorded conversations he said he overheard in the Hartigan home. He read such notations:

"Finding Mr. O'Conor sitting opposite Mrs. Hartigan engaged in conversation—often with Mr. Hartigan present."

He said he recorded in his notebook on May 19 last that O'Conor left the Hartigan home before 11:45 with the remark:

"This has been a delightful evening!"

Previous to Mercer's testimony, a neighbor, Elliott S. Walsh, identified three photographs of Mrs. Hartigan's car, taken near Mr. O'Conor's home, as those he had made at the request of Mrs. O'Conor. He testified that Mrs. Hartigan's car was frequently in front of or near the O'Conor house.

Mr. O'Conor's sister, Mrs. John J. Hickey of Peabody, testified she had seen her brother drink one or two cocktails, sometimes a highball, but had never seen him noticeably under the influence of liquor.

'Ape Man' Admits He Killed Woman

By International News Service

New York, July 26—Identified as the "ape man" assailant of women in city parks, Oscar Wilson, 34, Negro, today confessed the knife murder of Anna Brooks, 39, whose slashed body was discovered in St. Nicholas Park today, police announced.

Wilson was quoted as telling detectives he killed the woman as the climax of a drinking spree in the park. He also ran amuck with the murder weapon, Wilson reportedly confessed, threatening three other persons.

He was also tentatively identified as the "ape man" killer of Leonora Rivera, 20, in Morningside park July 15, but Albert Martinez, who was with Miss Rivera at the time, said he was not positive of the identification.

Film Man Hunted in Ship Disaster

By Associated Press

Hollywood, July 26—Divers and salvage men were rushed today to San Miguel Island, 50 miles southwest of Santa Barbara, to search for the body of Glenn Strong, assistant cameraman, who was lost when heavy seas late yesterday foundered an 80-foot barge fitted up to represent the British warship Pandora.

Strong was one of a movie company of about 75, at work in the picture "Mutiny on the Bounty," in which the warship Pandora figures.

The coast guard earlier today had understood the sunken vessel was the "Bounty" itself.

After an all night search for Strong, hope that he might have survived was abandoned.

Motion picture equipment valued at $50,000 sank with the barge.

Science Studies Meat Cooking

By Associated Press

Chicago, July 26—Simplified meat cooking means better husbands, less work and a happier home, Dean W. C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota Animal Husbandry School declared today.

Dean Coffey heads a group of research workers who have analyzed about everything but the cow's moo and the pig's squeal.

Now the workers are ready to give some lessons in meat cookery.

"Guess work in preparing this important food has given place to scientific facts which enable the housewife to prepare meat to its full flavor and goodness," Dean Coffey said.

The research workers upset some cooking theories of long standing when they ruled:

"Don't baste your roasts. Searing roasts is unnecessary. When broiling steak turn it only once. Don't turn on the heat full blast when cooking meat. Don't cover your meats when roasting."

The workers routed the covered roasting pan with this finding:

"A perfectly good roast cooked in a covered pan is no longer a roast—it becomes a pot roast."

AUTO SOUGHT To Avert 'Slaying'

Frantic search by municipal and state police was being made today for a vaguely described automobile in an attempt to avert a slaying.

The one slim clue to the mystery suddenly thrust upon authorities was provided when a motorist declared he had seen a "tall" man force a "blonde" woman into an automobile at gun-point.

The sinister circustance, he said, occurred at Queensbury street and Park drive, Back Bay, in the early morning hours. He gave chase in his machine until he picked up police in a prowl car, who joined the chase. They lost their quarry on Jamaicaway.

TWO CHILDREN Of Shepard Saved

Warwick Neck, R. I., July 26—Barbara and John Shepard, children of Robert F. Shepard of the Boston and Providence Shepard stores were rescued by police from their 14-foot sail boat in Narragansett Bay, when it began to ship water.

TROOPS QUELL Labor Strike Riot

Hoquiam, Wash., July 26—Rioting broke out here when members of a crowd of 500 lumber strike sympathizers and on-lookers stoned a company of National Guardsmen rushing to rescue 10 beleaguered comrades.

Lost Girl Hunted

Haverhill, July 26—Miss Florence Hammond, 16, of East Kingston, N. H., is being sought by police today. The girl has been missing from her home since Sunday.

Moods of Mrs. Moody—Mellowness, Merriment, Musing

"Sure, I'll Smile"

This style is quite chic, we would say. Glorious Helen, whose "poker face" is a stand-by on the court, has the smile to fit the outfit. Here she is, leaning on the rail of the liner Washington, tailored smartly in black. Although she possesses her own style on the tennis court, she is certainly up to style in regular clothes.

Astor Heir Finally Named 'William'

By Universal Service

New York, July 26—Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor 3d formally named their new-born son William at Doctors Hospital, "Bill," who is a week old, has been putting on weight steadily.

His mother, the former Ellen Tuck French, has decided she will probably stay longer than the customary two weeks at the hospital.

The family will then go to Newport, for a christening at Trinity Church, and to pass the balance of the summer at their estate.

When they go, Astor plans a monthly vacation from his job in the freight department of the International Mercantile Marine.

Blindness Comes as Curves Go

Trenton, N. J., July 26—Blindness, accompanied by rapid loss of weight, may result from use of any anti-fat preparation containing dinfro phenol, Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, state health director, warned New Jersey women today.

In a bulletin issued by the department of health, Dr. Mahaffey cited the case of a young Camden woman who lost 80 pounds, developed cataracts and became blind within a month as the result of using such a preparation.

Mrs. Moody, Home, To Take Up Golf

By Universal Service

New York, July 26—Helen Wills Moody, having recaptured her laurels in the tennis world, is going in for golf.

Returning in the liner Washington, Mrs. Moody, smart and smiling in tailored black with sables, revealed that she had practiced golf strokes during the trip, and that she thought she would take up the game.

Asked if she planned to add a golf championship to her tennis crowns, the California girl, who staged such a sensational comeback at Wimbledon, laughed gaily and said:

"No, I don't care about championships. But I think it would be fun."

As to her dramatic victory over her perennial rival, Helen Jacobs, Queen Helen was tactful, saying:

"Her game has improved."

Mrs. Moody revealed that she will not play in the Wightman Cup matches at Forest Hills next month, but said she hoped to play for the national championship.

Mrs. Moody will be in New York until Monday, when she will depart for California to join her husband.

CLIPPINGS LINK Man to Crimes

Portland, July 26—News clippings of Boston crimes may lead to further prosecution of a man given a 30-day sentence here today for larceny of railroad property.

The man gave his name as John Fletcher of North Adams, Mass. Police said he has served in New Hampshire and Massachusetts state prisons under the name of Hardy.

Clippings that told of holdups of a watchman in North Cambridge and of a physician in Mattapan, were seized at the time of his arrest.

AUTO VISITORS To Get Stickers

There's a new sticker drive today for motorists. The drivers are to be from out of state and the sticker will say "Guest of Massachusetts."

Thus every person driving an automobile will have a sticker glued on his windshield. Resident motorist have stickers saying their mechanical equipment is in good condition.

FLAMES MENACE BLIND

Cripples Saved in Lynn Fire

An elderly blind woman was seriously burned, a blind man and his wife were rescued, and a third woman was carried to safety during a fire in Lynn today.

Charles W. Emery, 20, grandson of one woman, discovered the blaze as he returned to his home on Lawton avenue.

He traced smoke to the apartment on the street floor, occupied by Miss Ellen Graham.

Against the door Emery found the unconscious form of Miss Graham. He picked her up and carried her to the street.

Putting her down on the lawn, Emery then turned in a fire alarm and returned to the house.

Meanwhile, Patrolman Francis J. Walsh rushed to the apartment of Mrs. Phoebe Emery. Mrs. Emery, who has but one leg, was carried to safety.

Emery ran to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Lello. Lello, too, is blind.

Emery led them to safety, and then aroused Mr. and Mrs. Alson Gilman, who live in a rear apartment.

A police ambulance rushed Miss Graham to Lynn hospital, where her injuries were diagnosed as first and second degree burns, coupled with shock. Her name was placed on the danger list.

Kidnap Suspect Held in $5000 Bail

Thomas J. Kenney, 32, of Park street, Cambridge, was today bound over in $5000 bail to the grand jury by Judge Daniel W. Casey in West Roxbury court, charged with the kidnaping, on July 16, of seven-year-old William Peters.

The Peters boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, Bradfield avenue, Roslindale.

Kenney was arrested after the boy was found, on July 17, on a mattress in the bulkhead of the cellar of a Somerville store.

Mrs. Claire Kennedy, proprietor of the store, heard the boys' sobs, investigated, and calmed his screaming at her approach.

She turned him over to the police after she had fed him.

Kenney pleaded not guilty today. The Peters boy identified him as the abductor.

BOYISH Hepburn HAIRCUT

NEW COIFFURE STIRS FILM FANS

By Associated Press

Hollywood, July 26—Katherine Hepburn's new haircut had Hollywood guessing today.

Wil the star's coiffure—resembling, that of a boy—prove as popular as Claudette Colbert's bangs or Joan Crawford's bob?

It may be adored, but not adopted by the girls of America says Leonore Sabine, president of the Motion Picture Hair Stylists' Club.

"The Hepburn haircut might encourage a new style," Miss Sabine commented today, "but all the stars I know are keeping to longer hair.

"It would be comfortable for the summer, of course, but would not lend itself so readily to evening dress, especially on winter occasions when more formal coiffures are designed."

A new picture role undertaken by Miss Hepburn required her to have her hair cut in boy style.

Set New Styles

The coiffure artist have been known to transform "plain" actresses into alluring celluloid sirens, and through them to affect hair styles wherever movies are seen.

Miss Crawford's bob, Miss Colbert's bangs and Greta Garbo's long bob, all found immediate response among women fans.

Merle Oberon's "coronet braid," worn in a recent picture, caused a wide demand for "switches" in the five-and-ten's, and the Colbert "Cleopatra" hairdress was widely copied.

Miss Sabine, who is chief hair stylist at Paramount, declared that Miss Colbert's bangs have exerted more influence than any other style she has created.

LEAGUE TO ACT ON CRISIS IN ETHIOPIA

By Associated Press

Geneva, July 26—The League of Nations today summoned its members to an extraordinary council session to consider the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia, asking them whether they preferred to meet January 31 or August 1.

J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general, asked the nations represented to reply before noon tomorrow to his invitation which said:

"In a letter received July 25, the Ethiopian government requested a meeting on that date. The president suggests the colleagues should meet July 31 or August 1 and the members are requested to state before midday tomorrow which they prefer."

Italy's Mind All Set Against League Action

By Associated Press

Rome, July 26—Italy persisted today in the hope that its gesture in consenting to revive the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission would make unnecessary action by the League of Nations council in the East African dispute.

Government sources said Italy would not welcome a league council meeting because of danger of a rupture between Italy and the league.

Informed quarters explained the Italian people, under Premier Benito Mussolini's leadership, have their minds set on an occupation of Ethiopia—as demonstrated by the wave of monster Fascist demonstrations sweeping the nation.

Ethiopia Cool to New Conciliation Move

By Associated Press

Addis Ababa, July 26—Authoritative sources said today Ethiopia would refuse to accept a revival of the conciliation commission in its controversy with Italy.

This was made known upon receipt of a new note from Italy, expressing willingness to have a fifth neutral member appointed to the commission which collapsed at Scheveningen, The Netherlands.

1400 Finns Volunteer For East Africa War

By Associated Press

Helsingefors, Finland, July 26—The Italian and Ethiopian consulates said today that 1400 Finns have volunteered for service in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

One thousand have volunteered for service in the Italian army and 400 for the Ethiopian army, but no applications have thus far been accepted.

Col. House, 77, Sees No Italian War

Manchester-by-the-Sea, July 25—Colonel Edward H. House observed his 77th birthday today with a 14-word interview.

At his summer home here he was mum on the New Deal. The brief interview was on the Ethiopian disorder. He said:

"There is no need for undue excitement in regard tothe Italio-Abyssinian situation."

He refused to comment further. The "grand old man" of the Democratic party, wartime advisor to President Wilson, will motor to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Randolph Tucker of Wenham, for dinner this evening.

President Roosevelt is expected to visit Colonel House in August.

TARGET SHOOTER Spotted by Blaney

Lieutenant James F. Blaney, secretary to Superintendent Martin H. King, played detective today from his desk at police headquarters.

He observed a youth shooting at a target on a nearby roof.

Two cruising cars were sent to the building in Columbus avenue.

The lad explained there was nowhere else he might indulge in target-practice and that he used small shots. He was released.

SUN TAN GARB Too Scant on Job

Mishawaka, Ind., July 26 (INS)—Women employes reporting for work at the Mishawaka Rubber and Woolen Manufacturing plant today clad in "sun-tan" dresses were sent home for more modest garb.

"In the interest of public morals" the company, employing 5000 men and women, banned backless dresses.

ROGERS' RITES Set for Tomorrow

New York, July 26 (AP)—Funeral services for Col. Henry Huddleston Rogers, 55-year-old industrialist, who inherited a Standard Oil fortune, will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Andrew's Dune Church at Southampton, L. I.

$10,000 Bank Holdup

Scranton, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Five men held up and robbed the Old Forge Discount and Deposit Bank at Old Forge today and escaped with $10,000.

'Conscience,' Not Censors, Steers Provincetown Ball

Provincetown, July 26—Provincetown, staid old New England port, tonight goes on its annual spree—the artists' costume ball.

Those who should know predict it will be the gayest and most exciting this Pilgrim town has witnessed since the summer art colony was established 40 years ago.

And that's saying a lot, for the artists have put on some mighty gay affairs.

Many years censors have stood at the town hall door to pass on the attire. This year, Antion Van Derek says, there will be no censor.

"The ball definitely will be non-conservative," announces Van Derek, chairman.

"It will be the gayest and most exciting Provincetown has witnessed. It will be a high tempo affair."

All one needs to attend, he says, is artist fisherman or summer resident, is the password and a costume.

The password, Van Derek says, is:

"Let your conscience be your guide."

"The costume," he adds, "may be just as flexible."

Cambridge Clue to Babe in Woods

Mysterious clues to the identity of the blue-eyed baby girl abandoned in Mashpee woods led state police today to the offices of Cambridge physicians.

The trail led to Cambridge from Marblehead. Further examination of the vital statistics gave investigators the belief that the child was born in Cambridge, but authorities refused to state definitely that the findings had been narrowed down.

Meanwhile, troopers assigned to trace the child's blanket search ed farther from the Cape, hoping that they would find the manufacturer who made it.

NAZI BANS WAR VETERANS; NO JEW ON OLYMPIC TEAM

By Associated Press

Berlin, July 26 — Dissolution of the entire East Prussian Stahlhelm (Steel Helmet) Veterans' organization was announced today by Governor Erich Koch.

The stern action against the veterans' organization — Germany's equivalent to the American Legion — was taken under the February 28, 1933, law "for the protection of the people and the state."

It accompanied a broadening of the Nazi three-sided "cleansing act" against semitism, "political Catholicism," and reactionary" veterans.

A new Nazi departmental dictator, Hans Hinkel, assumed power with the specific duty of eliminating Jewish influences from art.

The anti-Semitic boycott was tightened throughout the Reich and renewed move.. were made to isolate Jews.

HELMET PROPERTY SEIZED

All East Prussian Steel Helmet units and all subdivisions were effected by the dissolution order. All property of the organization was to be confiscated.

Koch's order quoted a Steel Helmeter as saying Franz Seldte, leader of the Stahlhelm and minister of labor, was "a traitor," and that he once ordered mourning crepe removed from flags during an anti-Versailles demonstration, contrary to the orders of East Prussian Steel Helmet leaders.

It was learned today that no Jews will represent Germany in the 1936 Olympics because of what the Jews call discrimination against them by Nazi sports leaders and what the Nazis call the incompetence of Jewish athletes.

A nazi official, referring to elimination contests, said:

"Of course, Jews competed in the first test, but none survived."

JEWS ORDERED EXILED

The Jews were said to be considering the complete dissolution of the Jewish Sports Club, their leading athletic organization, with a membership of 800 athletes.

Hinkel's appointment as dictator of non-Aryan art accompanied a tightening of the anti-Semitic boycott.

Prominent members of Berlin Jewry asserted their businesses might soon be ruined "with conditions just as bad or worse because they are not so open as the sensational boycott of April 1, 1933."

Reports from Misdroy, Pomerania, Prussia, said municipal officials have given Jews 24 hours to leave that important Baltic seaport, with even children being forced to vacate the Jewish Children's Hospital.

As business manager of the Reich Culture Chamber, Hinkel has been known as an ardent sponsor of Nordic art. His appointment was interpreted as relentless pursuance by Nazis of their principles of freeing art, music and literature from Jewish influences.

Only a month ago, Dr. Goebbels cancelled the memberships of 1500 non-Aryans in the Culture Chamber.

WAR ON CATHOLICS

From Robert Ley, Hitler's trade union commissioner, came indications of Nazi determination to press on in its three-sided "cleansing act."

"And now we shall proceed unswervingly," Ley proclaimed.

With reference to Catholics, Ley said:

"We National Socialists do not know the conceptions of penitence and confession, but the fight we carried on during hard times for a new Germany is made a religion to us than certain hostile circles want to admit."

The anti-Semitic attack took the foreground, however, with newspapers dropping their lengthy accounts of issues against "Political Catholicism" and the Stahlhelm Veterans' organization.

The Nazi press demanded sterilization for Julius Cohn of Brunswick, who, newspapers said, was taken to a concentration camp for attacking 13 German women.

The women, themselves, also drew criticism, the Nazi press service asserting that they were "by no means innocent."

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, displayed prominent the case of a 15-year-old Jew, Manfred Gottschalk, of Berlin.

It reported that a disciplined crowd protested before the home of the boy, now awaiting trial, after he attacked a 14-year-old girl.

With the anti-semitic wave spreading to Baltic resorts, the administration of Ahlbeck put up posters proclaiming:

"Jews, the road to Palestine does not lead through Ahlbeck."

Scores of public baths were closed to Jews in southern Germany. Signs appeared in restaurant windows saying:

"Jews not served here."

NAZI WAR PLANS HIT BY REDS

By Associated Press

Moscow, July 26—The Communist party today jumped the hurdle of class differences to pledge its definite support of a "Bourgeois" democracy, the existence of which it declared was threatened by Fascists.

Wilhelm Fieck, German Red leader, sounded the keynote of the new policy in the opening address to the Seventh Communist International in session here.

Accusing the German Nazis of preparing war against the small Democratic countries of Europe, he declared:

"A defensive war by the national Bourgeoisie of those countries will be a fair war in which Communists must take part."

Two American Communist leaders, Earl Browder and William Z. Foster, took their places today in the Congress.

They were elected to a praesidium of 42 members, who include the Soviet Dictator, Joseph Stalin, and George Dimitrov, Bulgarian Communist who figured inthe German trial for burning of the Reichstag.

BOY FOUND
Near Former Home

Because 13-year-old James Ring preferred companions of Cambridge to those of Brookline, where his parents moved six weeks ago, he decided to pay them a visit.

At 4 o'clock this morning James' father, William, of Pearl street, Brookline, was called by Cambridge police, who had found James asleep on the steps of Adams House at Harvard University.

What the father told James on the way back to Brookline is not known, but James says he will try to find pals nearer home.

ATWOOD WARNS OF PERIL IN 'SOCK THRIFTY' TAX

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO BEAT NEW LAW

President Roosevelt is "throwing dust into the eyes of smaller property owners" in talking about soaking large estates and $3,000,000 incomes, it is declared by Joel H. Atwood in the current issue of the magazine Boston Business.

Atwood, Boston insurance executive and an authority on estate conservation planning, asserts there is not enough negotiable wealth in all the large fortunes to pay 20 per cent of the deficit the government is incurring.

"Every man, woman and child in this country will have to foot part of the bill," he says.

"People would like to believe that the cost of the New Deal can be extracted from the vast fortunes, and at the moment it may seem to the administration good politics to help them in this delusion.

"Without relaxing for a moment our efforts to avert unsound legislative action in Washington, every person who has property should immediately take steps to protect himself and his heirs to the full extent that the present laws allow.

"In the matter of inheritance levies a great deal can be done to minimize the extent to which one's estate will be confiscated upon his decease. In many instances, intended bequests should be made at once in the form of gifts, either outright or in trust.

"Where such action is at all advisable, it should by all means be carried out before the new tax rates go into effect."

"Cases calling for most careful consideration are those in which the estate holds the controlling interest in the ownership of a closely held company.

"Here, unless the estate has been properly arranged, the burden of inheritance taxation falls with double force, for it not only takes a part of the bequest, but in some instances no embarrasses the company as to result in the heirs losing the entire property.

"One of the main objections in estate arrangement should be to provide definite proof that the value which the owner placed on his stock is a fair one. If one imagines that book value will be taken as the sole measure for estate taxation, he is almost sure to be wrong."

Here's "Sock Thrifty" Tax Bill in Nutshell

By Associated Press

Washington, July 26—Here is the framework of the new tax schedule tentatively approved by Democrats on the House Ways and Means committee:

Excess Profits Levy: No tax on profits up to 8 per cent; graduated upward from 8 per cent of 8 per cent profits to 20 per cent on profits of more than 25 per cent.

Inheritances: No tax up to $50,000 if inheritance goes to close kin; graduated upward from 4 per cent on that part of inheritances between $50,000 and $60,000 to 75 per cent on all over $10,000,000.

Hammond Patents End Film "Static"

Gloucester, July 26—Eighteen patents covering improvements in recording sound have been granted to Dr. John Hays Hammond, Jr., noted engineer, he announced today.

The improvements, resulting from six years of research by Hammond and Ellison Purington, his assistant, cover changes in recording on phonograph discs and sound tracks of motion pictures.

Heretofore, it has been impossible to record sound without certain defects, but Hammond's system, known as its dynamic multiplier, provides an automatic filter which will not suppress sound at high frequency.

Hammond's system has received approval of such artists as Leopold Stokowski, Mary Garden, Ethel Barrymore and Emile Boliak.

GIRL LOSES William Tell Role

Hartford, Ct., July 26 (AP)—The story of William Tell might neyer have been written if the Connecticut Humane Society had anything to say about it.

The society told Chief White Horse that he may not use his three-year-old daughter, Little Fawn, to demonstrate his skill with the bow and arrow. The Indian chief, appearing in a sportsmen's show, substituted his wife.

Walsh Sees Poverty In New 'Sock' Taxes

Senator David I. Walsh, the senior United States senator from Massachusetts, has come out strongly against a "Soak the Thrifty" tax at the present session of congress.

Senator Walsh

In a radio address over a national hook-up the senator asserted that the so-called redistribution of wealth would be, in reality, a redistribution of poverty.

He said: "I do not anticipate a tax bill that seeks to punish or coerce any group."

He said: "The means to be pursued should not be through hastily conceived and arbitrarily decreed confiscatory taxes."

And Senator Walsh also said: "I am opposed, and I believe all straight-thinking Americans are opposed, to any tax plan not based on justice, rather on prejudice."

Financing a government on borrowed money, said the senator in opening his address, as at best a temporary expedient.

"Continuous spending in excess of income," he declared, "ends in bankruptcy just as certainly for the nation as for the individual."

'Sock Thrifty' Tax Socked By Leaders in Congress

By International News Service

Washington, July 26—The new tax bill tentatively framed by House ways and means committe Democrats today faced attacks from all sides.

It was ridiculed as providing only enough money to run the government 10 days, as a repudiation of President Roosevelt's tax message and as a "sock-the-thrifty" measure that will strike a heavy blow at industry and recovery.

Chairman Doughton (D.), North Carolina, of the committee, however, again vigorously defended the measure as "a good bill, providing revenue and doing no injustice to anyone."

Most committee members estimated the annual yield of the bill at $245,000,000 a year. Some experts contended it would bring in less than $200,000,000 a year.

House Republicans flayed the proposals and may oppose the entire bill as a "futile gesture." Their leaders weighed demands for an overhauling of the entire tax structure in a drive to balance the budget.

RETTICH GANG Off to Atlanta Soon

Some time between midnight Monday and midnight Tuesday the Rettich gang, consisting of Carl Rettich of Warwick Neck, R. I.; Joseph Fisher of Providence, Thomas Dugan, John "Sonny" McGlone and Charles Harrigan, both of New York, will be taken under heavy guard to the Atlanta penitentiary.

They will begin serving sentences of 25 years each for robbery of the mail truck of $129,000 in Fall River on January 23 this year. The exact time of departure is being withheld.

TWO INJURED In Duxbury Crash

Duxbury, July 26—Collision of a Brockton Light Company truck with an automobile containing seven passengers at Cox's Corner resulted in severe injuries to two persons.

Thomas Carnea riding with Clarence Millett of Bevey street, Brockton, driver of the truck, suffered a fractured pelvis. Mrs. Gordon Starrett of Hudson, Ontario, riding in the auto, received a fractured collarbone.

RELIEF FIGURES SHOW DECLINE

By Associated Press

Washington, July 26—A decline of 6.8 per cent in the number of families receiving relief between May and June was reported by Harry L. Hopkins, administrator.

The report, which did not include single persons, transients, rural rehabilitation or other special programs, said 4,100,932 families were on relief in May and 3,830,871 in June.

Total expenditures, including special programs, declined 9.8 per cent from $188,323,706 in May to $169,-860,125 in June, the report said.

Hopkins' regulations have given first consideration to the May relief population in providing jobs with the $4,000,000,000 appropriation. Relief rolls have declined slightly every month since February.

6 BREAK JAIL, Bore Through Wall

Cadiz, O., July 26 (AP)—Six prisoners pounded a hole in the wall of Harrison County Jail and escaped today.

Within an hour, Sheriff Arthur Helping organized a posse of 100 searchers. He brought bloodhounds to track footprints still visible in the swamp west of town.

Charles Edgar Smith, 34, and Eugene Denton, 41, who walked away from the Lebanon honor camp, addjacent of the London prison farm, Saturday, led the break.

CUT, NOT BOOST IS TAX NEED

By Universal Service

Chicago, July 26—Strong protest against the national administration's "soak the thrifty" tax scheme was being forwarded to Washington today by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Directed to Representative Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has drafted the proposed legislation, the protest urged the committee to turn instead to ways and means of reducing the alarmingly increasing cost of government.

Framed by James L. Donnelly, executive vice-president of the association, the statement said, in part:

"We submit that the real need of taxpayers of all types, individual and corporate, at the present time is not additional taxation, but more income to tax!

"This additional income can only result from the stimulation of private business activity which will follow from substantial reductions in our present tax burden."

100 Vets Stricken

Northport, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Made ill apparently by tainted food, about 100 World War veterans were believed to be recovering today at the United States veterans' facility here, with one death recorded.

Monkey Shines, Loss $1500

Before long, if things keep up the way they've been going, Mike may find that he hasn't any home at all because he has ripped it up entirely.

Mike is a monkey, the pet of Dr. Barry H. Burgess and family of 26 West Emerson street, Melrose—the interior of whose home resembles part of a cyclone belt just now.

For the second time since Sunday, the monkey got out of his cage today and in the absence of the family created about $1000 worth of havoc—ripping down curtains, tearing up books, tossing bric-a-brac and pictures around and even hurling the gas stove covers and blowing out the pilot light.

Last Sunday, Mike got out of his cage and did damage estimated at $500. Policemen subdued him on that occasion, but today it took a neighbor after four policemen had been unable to coax Mike back into his cage.

MADISON SQUARE Garden Dividend

New York, July 26 (AP)—Madison Square Garden Corporation declared a dividend of 15 cents on the capital stock, payable August 30 to stock of record August 15. This is the first dividend since July 16, 1931, when 15 cents was paid.

KNOX ACCUSES ROOSEVELT

Los Angeles, July 26—Two of former President Hoover's Palo Alto confreres—both possible presidential candidates—today loosed shafts of criticism at President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago News, speaking with "a full sense of the meaning of my words," accused President Roosevelt of promoting enactment of laws "for the deliberate purpose of undermining the power and prestige of the Supreme Court."

In Oklahoma City, Hoover's secretary of war, Patrick J. Hurley, predicted for President Roosevelt the same bitter defeat in 1936 that his own chief suffered in 1932 at the hands of a "Frankenstein monster" the "Democrats have created."

"With a full sense of the meaning of my words," Colonel Knox declared, "I ask, are such acts in accord with the sacred oath taken not only to defend and to protect, but to preserve the Constitution? Upon what food does this, our Caesar, feed?

"What madness has seized upon him? Does he not see how dangerously close this comes to conspiracy to break down our institution of government?

"I charge the President and his advisers with deliberately promoting the enactment of a group of laws which they have every reason to expect will be declared unconstitutional as soon as they reach the Supreme court."

Fishermen Get Sad Message

Gloucester, July 26—While coast guard were searching today off Cape Cod for the mackerel seiner Three Sisters, the boat arrived here to receive bad news for one of the crew.

Edward Feener of Hampton street was told his wife was critically ill and that the coast guard had been asked earlier to pick up the Three Sisters.

The Chairman of the Board

MAKES A REQUEST

LAST September at a Directors' Meeting of the American Oil Company, the Chairman of the Board made a request. He said: "Gentlemen, I want to talk a few minutes on a subject very close to my heart. You know, next year—in July 1935—we celebrate the 25th Anniversary of our company.

"As we look back at our small beginning and the progress made in 25 years, we should realize one thing. We owe much of our growth to the motorists who bought and liked our products. I feel, in celebrating our anniversary, we should do something that further merits the continued support of those motorist friends.

"We have a new refinery that's the last word in every respect. Our chemists have a lot of new ideas. Let us put both refinery and chemists to work on some new things. Let's first try to improve Amoco-Gas—if that is possible. And then let us bring out a new regular gasoline—something modern, different from and ahead of any other regular gas on the market.

"Perhaps we will be asking a lot; I imagine most of our people think we are turning out just about the best products it is possible to produce. But for this important 25th Anniversary year, let us strive still further to better both of these products."

THE ANSWER... TWO SILVER ANNIVERSARY ACHIEVEMENTS!

MARCH 1935! GREATER AMOCO-GAS!

The opening achievement for American's 25th Anniversary! An improvement in the famous Amoco, the original special motor fuel that holds more official world's records than any other gas or motor fuel. Hundreds of thousands of motorists have proved to themselves that GREATER AMOCO-GAS is the biggest gallon of motor fuel on the market. It takes less fuel to get more results.

JULY 1935! ANNOUNCEMENT SOON!

In a day or two, announcement will be made of our second achievement for American's 25th Anniversary. It's a radical improvement in another famous American Oil Company product—Orange AMERICAN GAS. This new regular gasoline is different from and superior to any other regular gasoline on the market. Watch for our announcement! It means a lot to your motor and a lot more to you! It's a real new note in regular price gasoline!

Love Crimes

SLEW WIFE

Dubois Cemented Body in Cellar After Killing

This is the third in a series of passion crimes that have stirred New England during the last quarter century.

Like Newell Sherman, Charles DuBois had a girl of whom he dreamed, a wife who was in the way and a plan to get rid of his wife.

Like many other murderers, he figured that he could commit the "perfect crime."

And like Newell Sherman and many other murderers, he tried to make murder look like accident.

For one week everybody who reads newspapers in New England was sure that Charles DuBois killed his wife, but could not guess where her body lay.

That was what made the DuBois murder mystery one of the most intriguing in American annals.

All that time DuBois walked the streets a free man. A free man, but a victim of what fearsome thoughts. A victim of what excruciating imaginings.

Story Exploded

His false story was exploded and the entire force of the state police was searching for the body, in order to pin the crime on the dapper husband. The state police were using the full force of publicity to increase his burden. Reporters were running down clues. He read of the search day by day. He knew they were coming closer. And in the end he killed himself.

Four hours afterward his wife's body was found under cement in the basement of their summer cottage at Great Herring Pond in Plymouth.

Du Bois was middle-aged, a jewelry salesman, a neat dresser with a small mustache which he shaved off during the days of his aimless wanderings about the streets of Quincy when the authorities were waiting to pick him up, once they found the missing body of his wife.

He killed his wife with a shotgun as she lay in bed at the summer cottage on the night of August 9, 1932.

After burying the body and cementing it over, he received visits from a Middleboro girl, as he had done before, and they danced above the grave to radio tunes, the 24-year-old girl unaware that it was a macabre dance of death.

He told her his wife had gone on an auto trip.

Tells of Death

He told his wife's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Hjnlein of Braintree, that she had been killed in an auto accident while riding in Canada with Mrs. Ruth Butler of Foxboro, a vaudeville actress.

The Heinleins were suspicious of DuBois. They checked with the Canadian police to the best of their ability and were convinced that there had been no such accident.

They told the police on September 9 and on the following day a blood-stained towel was found in a woodpile at the DuBois camp.

Then the story of the other girl was laid bare with the finding of a note, signed "Grace," expressing relief that obstacles to their marriage had been eliminated by accident.

DuBois was arrested but, cool and suave, he withstood the questioning and Judge Elmer Briggs, in Plymouth court, said he could not hold him. DuBois was released.

The authorities did not have a body. The first necessity in a murder case is a corpus delicti. They could not prove that Edith DuBois was dead.

Through excellent reportorial work, the Boston Evening American found the "other woman."

Also the Boston American found Ruth Butler, talked with her by telephone at Lunenburg, N. S., and proved she was very much alive and that there had been no motor accident.

DuBois' goose was cooked. It was only a question of time. To drive him to confession, if possible, the authorities announced that even the national guard would be used to hunt the corpse.

Then on Sept. 16, the day after Ruth Butler had been located, DuBois went to the office of his lawyer, Jeremiah J. McAnarney, in Quincy, and left a sealed envelope which, when opened, was found to contain a statement.

He wrote:

"I have lived in a void with no real happiness."

He said he had lied because he could not bear to have the name of the other girl dragged through the courts.

He insisted—and this was his latest statement—that his wife shot herself.

At 12:40 p. m. that day, he shot and killed himself in the bathroom of a lodging house on Hancock street, Quincy, where he had registered as "Ralph Harrison, New York City."

At 4:40 p. m., exactly four hours later, Edith DuBois' body was found.

Clippings, recording how the noose was tightening around his neck, were found in the pockets of the dead jewelry salesman.

PWA ORDER HIT AS FOREIGN AID

By International News Service

New York, July 26 — An order signed by a PWA deputy administrator on May 25 today stands as a threat to the American steel industry's potential share in the $4,000,000,000 public works funds — a share which may go to foreign competitors — according to Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

After a meeting of the company's directors Grace declared American workmen may suffer as a result of the order which, he said, specifies:

"A borrower of money must buy foreign material where the value of the order is $10,000 and the price is 15 per cent less."

The order applies to all construction materials.

Grace declared the order holds the threat of increased unemployment among American steel workers, as steel imports have been increasing at an alarming rate.

'SHAVIANISMS' On 79th Birthday

Malvern, England, July 26 (INS)—George Bernard Shaw worked on his 79th birthday today, ignoring the event but for a single outburst of characteristic Shawian wit.

"Don't remind me," he said when he received congratulations. "When a man reaches 78, he doesn't want to discuss the fact. "Anybody can have a birthday. Public interest in me depends on things I can do that nobody else can do."

LEON GORDON And Wife Separate

Hollywood, July 26 (INS)—Leon Gordon, film playwright, who ten years ago wrote the stage success, "White Cargo," today admitted he and his socialite wife, Nancy Gordon, had decided "to live apart in the hope of finding happiness."

A divorce is not contemplated, Gordon said.

45 WARD PLAN Hearing Monday

Proposed redivision of Boston into not more than 45 wards will be considered further by the state Senate on Monday.

Senator Thomas M. Burke of Dorchester led the fight against the measure warning that it would cost the taxpayers $80,000 a year.

FOY TO AIR El Removal Views

Proposed removal of the Forest Hills elevated structure will be discussed by Frank H. Foy, state director of the National Emergency Council over station WMEX this afternoon.

Nantasket, Paragon Park Cut Rate Trip Monday

Hundreds of mothers and their children from all sections of Metropolitan Boston are anxiously looking forward to the Boston Sunday Advertiser excursion to Nantasket Beach and Paragon Park, scheduled for next Monday.

Coupons entitling parents and their children to the special rates arranged by the Boston Sunday Advertiser will be published in all editions of the newspaper next Sunday.

Presentation of a Boston Sunday Advertiser coupon and 25 cents will entitle an adult to a round trip to Nantasket on the Nantasket Steamship Line. Presentation of the coupon and 10 cents will entitle a child to a round trip.

Coupons admitting readers of the Sunday Advertiser to the many amusements in Paragon Park will also be published in all editions of the Sunday Advertiser.

Frazier-Lemke Bill Dead, Leaders Say

By Associated Press

Washington, July 26—House administration leaders passed word around today that the inflationary Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance farm mortgages with $3,000,000,000 in new money "is dead for this session."

They based this prediction on the fact that they had made new progress in their campaign to remove signatures from a petition to force a House vote on the measure. The total stood at only 203 signers today, 13 short of the 216 signatures needed.

600 FACING Loss of Jobs

Palmer, July 26—Six hundred mill workers face unemployment here.

Charles V. Nichols, agent of the Otis Company plants in Bondville and Three Rivers has announced that as soon as present orders are filled there will be a shut down at the Palmer mills.

CURLEY URGES 10 Percent Surtax

The only alternative to adoption of a 10 per cent surtax on incomes and inheritances is a sales tax or increased levy on cities and towns, Governor Curley said today.

He urged the income tax as the most practical at this time.

Granted Divorce

Los Angeles, July 26—William Gibbs McAdoo, United States Senator from California, and Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, were formally divorced here.

Gala Newport Season Now At Its Height

By BETTY ALDEN

TO A BRITISH MAID an invitation to make her curtsey before King George and Queen Mary is the mark of social acceptance and pre-eminence in the Island Empire . . . In this, the overgrown, precocious and unruly colonial country which outgrew the guidance of Britain's maternal hand, we have the social parallel to the Court of St. James . . . The dowagers and chatelaines of Newport form a much more lofty and awe inspiring reception committee than can be found in any royal court throughout the world . . .

MRS. CHANNING WELLS

As a matter of fact many daughters of prominent and influential Americans have made their bows at St. James Palace and yet would not dare to hope for an invitation to the villas of such Newport celebrities as Mrs. A. Hamilton Rice, Mrs. Henry Waters, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Watts Sherman and other high-ranking dowagers . . .

Jane Pope Honored

THE CURRENT CROP OF DEBS in Newport is very large and scarcely a day passes that some highly placed hostess does not announce plans for a tennis week party for one of these fair maids, to place upon the beginning of their budding career the stamp of approval of the supreme social court of this country . . . Tennis week is the climax of the summer season in the Queen resort and every deb covets a party in her honor at that time when the town is packed with visiting young eligibles and tennis celebrities . . .

Eclipsing all other balls of the season is the one which Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice give every summer for one of the new crop of debs . . . This year it is Jane Pope who is the lucky one for whom they are entertaining at their lavish marble villa, Miramar . . . Jane is the pretty daughter of adoring parents who will also give a party for her, and still another occasion for her to gleam in the social spotlight is the dinner dance which Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan are planning for her and Elena Villa, also during tennis week . . .

Elena Villa is the eldest daughter of the Count and Countess Alfonso P. Villa of New York and Newport . . . Her mother is the former Helen Lippincott of Philadelphia, a family of unrivalled social prestige and the titles of her fond parents give the new debbie a little air of individuality . . .

Mrs. Francis Bradley (Katherine Howe) and her baby have been visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Howe, at Dark Harbor, Maine, while Mr. Bradley is on an Oxford Group house party . . .

Contract Bridge Parties on Cape

WHILE MONDAY EVENINGS down on Cape Cod are devoted solely to the opening performances at the Playhouse in Dennis, the socialites save Tuesday evenings for contract bridge and every week gather in large numbers at the Wianno Club for a session of duplicate contract . . . Mrs. McMillen, who supervises the duplicate parties of Boston's best during the winter, is managing the Wianno parties . . . Mrs. Channing Wells, who loves to play and seldom misses a Tuesday evening, was favored by Lady Luck last week and won two prizes . . .

The Gables, the summer home of the Frederick S. Whitwells in Hyannisport, has been very gay lately with echoes from several informal parties given in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pitman of Cohasset . . .

But to digress again from our local summer resorts to Newport, we find the galaxy of social buds there having their first taste of the duties incumbent upon their ranking as debs at all the charity concerts and lectures . . . The other afternoon they added prestige to the annual concert at the Arts Association by serving as ushers and assisting the lofty patronesses to their seats . . .

Dorothy Robinson Among New Debs

ALTHOUGH NOT SPENDING the summer in Newport, Dorothy Robinson is another New York deb for whom a lot of social functions are being planned to enliven the months preceding her actual debut in the autumn . . . Dorothy is the daughter of Mrs. Elbridge Gerry Chadwick and of Mr. Monroe Douglas Robinson, and through the latter she is related to the Theodore Roosevelt family . . . She possesses more poise and intelligence than the average deb and is a very popular member of the young set at Syosset, L. I., where the Chadwick home has already been the scene of a gay midsummer dancing party on the terraces overlooking the ocean . . .

Eileen Bramwell, who is scheduled to make her bow to Gotham society in the fall, has many connections with distinguished Boston families, as her mother was a daughter of the prominent Ames clan . . .

Backed by an unquestioned social pedigree is Hope Bacon, daughter of Mrs. Paul Gardner and of the late Elliott Bacon, and a granddaughter of the Bradford Normans of Newport . . . Bradford Norman, Jr., her uncle, is one of the Queen City's most delightful hosts and Hope is coming in for a lot of entertaining at his famous home . . .

Alumnae Luncheon

The first alumnae luncheon of the Kendall Hall school was held yesterday on the new property at Peterborough, N. H. The school was formerly located at Pride's Crossing, Mass.

Among the many graduates of this exclusive school who attended the luncheon were Miss Elizabeth Wilkinson and Miss Carolyn Brown of Salem; Miss Betty Pembroke and Miss Phylis Lambert of Beverly and Mrs. Calvin Kennard of Marblehead.

DEBS Are Ardent Tennis Fans

MISS NANCY CASSELS MISS BARBARA BREWER

TENNIS FANS are these two debutantes who were snapped watching a thrilling match on the courts of the Essex County Club. Besides being sister debs they have a lot in common in that they are neighbors on Marlborough street in the winter and spend their summer playtime as neighbors in Manchester. Miss Nancy Cassels is the daughter of Mrs. J. Donald Cassels and Miss Barbara Brewer is the daughter of the Robert E. Brewers . . .

Alice Sherburne Joins Engaged Group

IMPORTANT AMONG the week's announcements is the engagement of Miss Alice Sherburne, daughter of Mrs. Harris Sherburne of High street, Brookline, and General John H. Sherburne of Boston to Dr. John A. Reidy, of Albuquerque, N. M.

Miss Sherburne attended the Winsor school and the Chateau Brillantmont in Lausanne, Switzerland, and is a member of the Boston Junior League.

Dr. Reidy is the son of Mrs. John A. Reidy and the late Dr. Reidy of Albuquerque, N. M. He was graduated from the University of New Mexico and the Harvard medical school and is at present on the staff of the Boston City Hospital.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Lute and Arthur Vernon Pettingill of Stoneham is announced. Mrs. Pettingill is the daughter of Mrs. Ella M. Lute and is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire in 1930.

Mr. Pettingill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Arthur Pettingill and was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1930.

Mrs. Peter F. Murphy and her daughter, Frances Mary, of Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, are summering at the Marshall House at York Harbor, Maine. Recently Miss Murphy and a group of friends were dinner guests at Spachawk Hall at Ogunquit, previous to their attending the Play House at Ogunquit.

Miss Murphy will return home late in August for a cruise to South America and later enter college.

Mrs. Edmond L. Grimes of Chestnut Hill and her daughter, Virginia and Dorothy, are cruising to the Canadian North Capes. They sailed from Quebec on Tuesday.

Summer life on Hull Hill is in full swing . . . prominent among the new arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly and family of Newton. Dr. and Mrs. John A. Foley of Dorchester, Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Toole of Newton, and Maj. and Mrs. Edward J. Sampson of Brookline.

When the S. S. San Gil left port for points south, she had several well known guests aboard including Mrs. Edward Harold Crosby, wife of the late Mr. Crosby . . . Dorothy Q. Adams, of Roslindale, and Mildred C. Faunce of West Roxbury, who are spending their summer vacation in Havana.

Garden Tour Planned at Rockport

THE Rockport Art Association will conduct visitors on a tour of the picturesque and historic points of interest of the old seacoast town on Saturday.

Mrs. Harrison Cady, wife of the originator of the well known cartoons of bug life, heads the tour committee which has laid out the itinerary for the first tour.

The house and garden of Mrs. Frederick G. Morrill will be open for the tourists, as will the gardens of Mrs. Sterling Poole, Mrs. Charles R. Knapp, Mrs. Isaac Hall and Mrs. Charles J. Rosebuit.

The quaint studios of Mrs. Harrison Cady, John M. Buckley, William B. Hazelton, Prescott Jones, Galen Parst and Mrs. Anthony Thieme will also be opened.

Members of the tour committee are Mrs. John M. Buckley, Miss Elizabeth Wilbington, Miss Helen Perkins, Mrs. Charles R. Knapp and Mrs. Helen Perkins.

Another tour will be held on Saturday, August 24.

After the tour a dance will be held at the galleries of the Art Association on Saturday evening. Mrs. Frederick Hornsby is directing the arrangements for the dance.

Corinne Kudlich August Bride

Dedham Ceremony Planned

MISS CORINNE KUDLICH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans V. Kudlich of Dedham, has completed the plans for her wedding to Mr. John Phillip Hartt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Phillip Hartt, also of Dedham.

The ceremony will be performed at 1 p. m. on the afternoon of August 1. The Rev. Francis Lee Whittemore will read the ceremony.

Mrs. Roger O. Ingalls of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., will be the matron of honor and the only bridal attendant. Mr. J. Phillip Hartt, father of the bridegroom, will be the best man.

Miss Kudlich has been studying music in Boston during the past season. Mr. Hartt attended the Fay school and St. George's school in Newport, R. I.

After their wedding trip Mr. Hartt and his bride will make their home at 394 High street in Dedham.

Art Dance In August

NOT TO BE OUTDONE by its neighbor, the Marblehead Art Association, which will hold its annual costume ball at the Fo'cas'le next Wednesday evening, the Rockport Art Association is planning for its own annual costume affair, which will be held on the evening of Friday, August 16.

The committee has selected a Friday this year, instead of Monday as in the past, in order to enable those who week-end at Rockport to attend.

Modernism will be the keynote of the gallery decorations for the ball, and only those who come in costume will be admitted to the dance floor. The committee comprises Mr. George T. LeBoutillier, Mr. Maurice S. Compris and Mr. Samuel F. Hershey.

Society Notes

MRS. CHANNING WELLS of Brimmer street, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Woodbridge of Brookline, and Mrs. Taylor Lyndon of Beacon street, are all visiting New York city and staying at the St. Regis Hotel.

Other New York vacationers are Mr. Guy Bancroft of Commonwealth avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart French of Cambridge, and Miss Ethel R. Cobb of Boston are staying at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Auxiliary Elects

Mrs. Harry Cole Heads Workers for Home

MRS. HARRY COLE of Newton is the newly elected secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Mount Pleasant Home for Aged Men and Women, which is located on Huntington avenue.

Mrs. Willard P. Richards of Newton is president of the Ladies Auxiliary. Mrs. Edith Washburn Clarke, vice-president, and Mrs. Arthur W. Hurlburt, treasurer.

Mrs. James A. Neal of Longwood Towers in Brookline, is president of the board of directors.

Assisting Mrs. Neal are Mrs. Harry T. Barnes, Mrs. David Lee Mauseby, Mr. William W. Davis, Mrs. Francis B. Howard, Mr. Frederick M. Lamson and Miss Dorothy F. Long.

Mrs. John Montague heads the visiting committee of the home. The committee includes Mrs. Walter Powers, Mrs. Charles W. Hawkes and Mrs. Walter Washburn.

Market Place On Green

ONCE AGAIN the village green in Pepperell will be transformed into a European Market Place, as Miss Gladys Johnson is now laying plans for the second European Market Day and Street Fair which will be held on August 8.

Miss Eleanor Greenwood, is assisting Miss Johnson with the preparations and the sponsors are Mrs. William A. Graves, Mrs. George Keyes, Mrs. Kenneth Mariner, Mrs. Samuel Peabody, Mrs. A. Dudley Dowd, and Mrs. Henry T. Patch of Newton Centre; Mrs. John Evenzole, Mrs. Howard Cashman and Mrs. Clarence Ebert of Groton, and Mrs. William Stanley Parker of Boston.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

At the Turn of the Stair

I have hung my mother's picture at the turn of the stair. There, as I come up out of the day's work, tired and discouraged, I find her waiting for me.

ELSIE ROBINSON

Her face is not as I remember it. This picture was painted when she was only 20—with a teasing smile on her soft young lips and a proud confidence in her lovely eyes.

The years were to hurt the softness of her lips and dim the shining of her eyes, but I do not think that she ever regretted it.

She was a brave gambler, and wise—seeing plainly that life is worth whatever it costs. And eager, until the very end, to see what lay around the bend of the trail.

SENSE OF YOUTH

Then, at 87, she was gone, leaving behind no memory of wrinkled skin or crippled foot, but only the sense of her imperishable youth.

And though I never knew her at twenty, that picture is more real to me than any actual photograph. That is how she really was, in her gay and impudent heart—my indomitable little mother.

And that is why I have placed her at the turn of my stair—because, when I am weary and discouraged, I so desperately need the challenge of her laughter, the strength of her young confidence that nothing could ever conquer.

And, coming upon her so, I cannot say to myself—"Dear, you are dead!" For there was never any death in her. There was no place in her real self that death could touch.

Her aging flesh was only a garment which she wore as nonchalantly as she wore the shabby dresses of our pioneering days.

What did she care if that faded dress was torn or soiled in the planting of her rose garden or the building of a pool? And it bothered her deep spirit as little if her hair grayed in the course of her endless adventuring.

Long before she died she had learned, I am sure, that death is only a dark bogeyman we mortals have created out of our own fear and loneliness.

And that certainly is on her, like a dawning, as I come to her at the turn of the stair.

ALL LIFE IS ONE

"See," she seems to say, "I am waiting! Come now—one step and then another—and don't be frightened. There is nothing to fear ahead. Life, this side of the turning, is no different than it was before. All life is one . . . part of the same long climb.

"And I? I am not lost—I have only gone ahead. I am with you as much as I ever was—close to you, helping you, waiting for you, darling, around the turn of the stair!"

Almost, I hear her voice as she says this—feel the warmth of her hand—see the laughter and the challenge in her eyes.

So I think it is with all of them—all those we have loved and lost. The father who was both comrade and guide. The dear mate who slipped away.

The friend who was part of your spirit. Your little girl—my previous lad. There they are, all of them, waiting for us.

And some day, when the day has been harder than usual, and our tired feet drag . . . and our weary eyes fail, at last, to pierce the gloom . . . suddenly, I think, we will come upon them, face to face.

And instantly we will know—between a gasp of terror and a great, waking shout—that it has always been so. They were never dead—really.

They were always there—just a little way ahead—ready to go on with us, once more—around the turn of the stair!

This Is Life

by ROBERT E. ROGERS

I am told that it is a difficult and fractious job being minority leader of the legislature or an anti-administration city councilor or anything of the sort.

I can think of other jobs full of portents and responsibility, about which one will never cease to hear if he guesses wrong.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

But at this moment I know of no job I'd sooner exchange for Mussolini's or Hitler's or Roosevelt's—sic semper tyrannis!—than that of deciding on a humid, glowering, foggy, uncertain, dog day morning whether or not to set out on a little hundred mile picnic into the edges of the old state of Maine.

The children, one visitor—one by act of God—want to call on a classmate or two and a beloved teacher up at the most famous summer settlement in Maine. The missus wants to see the Wedding Cake House again and sample the cooking of a famous tea room which the ethics of the advertising department forbids me to divulge.

And I am toying with the idea of dropping in on the long suffering Kenneth L. Roberts, whom I have never met, but have paeaned from afar, simply on the flimsy excuse that he is writing a novel, about a namesake of mine who was a soldier, trader, dramatist, renegade and all round traitor during the French and Indian wars.

In most homes, it is the lady of the house who is the worrier. In my home far otherwise. It is I who rise stealthily and perambulate the home—rocking chairs and all, not to mention the porch, in search of the dawn's early light.

Once at three a. m., once at five, once at six. I peer in vain for what the late Lord Tennyson calls "the awful rose of dawn". It is not on deck these mornings. Nothing but intense and monotonous grayness. No sign of a clear day.

Back to Sleep

Then I fall asleep and remain asleep till awakened violently by the entire family at about nine-thirty. I am reproached. I had promised to get everybody up. Even the dog looks daggers.

Bright sunlight variegated with streaks of cloud. Fog on the horizon. Heavy humidity. The very ground smokes with mist. Heat unbearable. The breakfast air is full of the tiffs of those who have slept not wisely but too hot.

By the end of breakfast the sunshine has disappeared. The wind switches uncertainly. The missus is pessimistic, having a grim dislike of thunderstorms, especially on the road. The children are determined the day shall be perfect and are getting out their most perishable calling costume, on the principle of sympathetic magic—as if that will bring the blazing dry heat we all want.

I—poor, mindless dolt!—wander up and down, new down in the mouth, now up in the air. I consult the barometer, but it is weeks since I last looked at it and I can't tell whether it is rising or falling.

Mentally the missus tries to plan a dress which shall be a mixture of fashionable calling costume of the lightest and thinnest and something suitable for a three-day northeaster. I waver between white linen with a watermelon pink cravat and tweeds, wool socks and a windbreaker.

Fortunately the long-drawn-out agony—10 o'clock, 11 o'clock, 12 o'clock—is not complicated by the packing of any lunch. No picnic lunch. Quite apart from the agony of assembling one, there is the dreadful agony of getting it eaten back in the drizzle and consuming it, all cold and clammy, in the airless and dank kitchen.

The help is taking its day off and is going fishing. It has no hound wishes of any sort. The menus for once will overcome her suspicion of the roadside tea-room, about which she has very strong and probably inaccurate prejudices, and will try out a meal, providing it does not contain fish, seafood, milk, ice cream, or other perishable comestibles. Which reduce the lunch to hot dogs.

All Off

The latest bulletins up to the deadline for catching the mail are that the fog has settled impenetrably without hope of lifting. The missus has washed her hands of the whole proceedings. The children are stoical or sullen, according to individual character. I still tap the barometer, hoping against hope.

For the Peach Edition: Rogers family decides not to go. The fog begins to lift. A gleam of sunshine.

Sports and racing edition: The Rogers family dresses to go. It begins to rain.

Five star final: A perfect hiatus of emotion. The Rogers family departs on its long trek.

Stop press news: Cloudburst at Portsmouth, flooding Ignition.

Watch for further accounts of the expedition in papers for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Extra, Extra, Extra! Professor Rogers caught with concealed weapons in the office of Weather Bureau. Talks incoherently when he hears that Weather Man has gone quadrantid. Is disarmed and sent home. Wife and children will not speak to him.

Martha Lee's Raspberry Recipes

By MARTHA LEE

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

It is now the peak of the season for raspberries, so do plan to make either jam, jelly or preserve, to keep them for future use. Weather conditions affect this delicate fruit, so act quickly.

Raspberries are selling at 12 cents to 15 cents a pint box. They may be combined with currants, selling around 15 cents a quart basket, in jellies or preserves. The combination of flavors is delightful. Gooseberries also are available for preserves and make a tart, spicy mixture which will add appeal to meals during the winter months.

RASPBERRY JAM

4 cups (2 lbs.) raspberries.
6½ cups (3¾ lbs.) sugar.
½ bottle commercial pectin.

To prepare the fruit, crush or grind about 2 quarts fully ripe raspberries. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into a large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in the commercial pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin and cover. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

RASPBERRY JELLY

4 cups (2 lbs.) raspberry juice.
7½ cups (3¾ lbs.) sugar.
1 bottle commercial pectin.

To prepare the juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 2 quarts of fully ripe raspberries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out the juice gently.

Measure sugar and juice into a large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add the commercial pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin and cover.

Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

RASPBERRY AND CURRANT MARMALADE

4 qts. red raspberries.
Sugar.

Wash the berries and currants and place in a preserving kettle. Mash the fruit thoroughly, add ¾ as much sugar as fruit and boil the mixture for 10 minutes or until it jells when cooled. Stir constantly to prevent burning. Pack hot marmalade into clean, hot jars. Seal immediately.

BAR-LE-DUC

2 cups large currants
1½ cups sugar

Add the sugar to currants which have been washed and stemmed and let boil slowly for 5 minutes. Pour into hot, clean jelly glasses, cover and keep in a dry, cool place.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW NATIONAL DIRECTOR

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

Everett Tasker, 19, of 161 Salem street, Medford, who has long hammered at the door of Opportunity in model plane tournaments only, to have his knock go unanswered, found Dame Fortune within reach yesterday when his all-Balsa glider, with an endurance flight of 41 2-5 seconds, captured first place in the Junior Birdmen contest for beginners at the Playstead in Franklin Park.

His victory was deserved. He had stayed up most of the night before fashioning his glider, gladly sacrificing sleep for the chance of winning the main prize.

This is a $25 merchandise order good at the Boyd Shops of Kennedy's store, 32 Summer street.

The contest attracted the largest number of entries of any ever held under the auspices of the Boston American wing, more than 125 signing for the event.

Despite showers which interrupted the flying and a muggy atmosphere which prevented any record-breaking flights, most of the 125 entries took part and battled until the final blast of the whistle for the 26 prizes.

GIRLS COMPETE

Five girls competed, one of them, Barbara Keith, 17, of 73 Marlboro street, Belmont, taking tenth place. The future Amelia Earharts added no more odds than some of the boys. Good showing was made by each of the others, Marion Chase, 17, of 36 Wilson avenue, Belmont; Anneliese Dorrachter, 14, of 105 Dunstan avenue, Roslindale, and Bertha, 15, and Marie Jenkins, 11, of 46 Summer street, Hyde Park. Each of the girls scored longer time than some of the boys.

The contestants were divided into four groups and assigned to four timers, Charles French of Cambridge, William Rivers of Lexington, David Adelstone of Medfield and Robert B. Shea of Brighton.

Unofficial results are given below. These results are expected to stand up under one more recheck

All times are in seconds and fractions thereof.

Second place, Leslie Woodman, 17, of 41 Bartsmouth street, Everett, time, 57.3; third, Herbert Michaels, 16, of 6 Lewis street, Medford, 52.2; fourth, Joe Bloom, 20.4; fifth, Ray Smith, 13, of 128 Florida street, Dorchester, 58.3; sixth, Fred Cassania, 56.1; seventh, Arthur McLean, 17, of 20 Ritterson street, Roslindale, 28.

Eighth, Norman Welderman, 16, of 12 Mendelssohn street, Roslindale, and ninth, Albert Cohen, 15, of 47 Stanwood street, Roxbury, each 55.3 (preferred position went to Norman on the strength of the next longest flight of the two).

Tenth, Barbara Keith, 58; 11th, William Mast, 16, of 10 Pauline street, Winthrop, 52.4.

Twelfth, Paul Bostwick, 17, of 59 Sharon road, North Quincy, and 13th, Alverne Anderson, 17, of 8 Sylvia street, Jamaica Plain, each 51.2 (preferred position went to Paul on strength of next longest flight between the two).

Fourteenth, Julius Abrams, 18, of 154 Howard avenue, Roxbury Fifteenth, William Shea, 40 Dunbar street, Brighton and 16th, Ray Townsend, 17, of 1035 Canterbury street, Roslindale. Each of these had 27 seconds flat (preferred positions given on basis of next longest flights between the three).

Seventeenth—Charles Counter, 15, of 12 Everett street, Medford, 21.1; Eighteenth—Joseph McCarthy, 15, of 79 Fulton street, Medford, 20.1; Nineteenth—George Heal, 15, of 84 Court street, Medford, 20; Twentieth—Sanford Gringer, 15, of 46 Mount street, Dorchester, 19.4; Twenty-first—Thomas Heidelberg, 15, of 57 Nichols avenue, Roslindale, 19; Twenty-second—Jack Golden, 15, of 57 Claflin street, Brookline, 17.5.

Twenty-third, twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth—Allan Kenney, 16, of 16 Clarence street, Everett; Marin Phillips, 11, of 16 Rosendale avenue, Everett, and William Barry, 15, of 41 Mendelssohn street, Roslindale, respectively. Each had 17 seconds and were ranked according to their next best flights.

Twenty-sixth—Leonard Whitenberg, 15, of 8 Greenleyes street, Roxbury, 16.4.

In addition to the $25 merchandise order, the prizes consisted of:

Second—A wrist watch; third a fountain pen and pencil set; fourth—a camera; fifth—a set of three tennis balls; sixth—a Boy Scout four-bladed knife with compass in the handle; seventh—a quantity of Balsa wood contributed by William Rivera of the Woburn Model Airplane Shop.

Eighth and ninth—year's subscription to an aviation magazine; tenth to fifteenth—complete sets of 10 Junior Birdmen handbooks, contributed by the General Envelope Co, 100 Summer street; sixteenth to twenty-fifth—pairs of guest tickets to the Metropolitan theater, good week of July 28.

These winners will see "Broadway Gondolier" starring William Powell and Fred Allen in "Town Hall Tonight" with national radio winners in person.

Paul Muni With Dick Powell On Hollywood Program

By N. F. T.

Listeners who like drama for their dial diversion will make for the "Hollywood Hotel" highlight on the air (WNAC) from 9 until 10 o'clock tonight.

It will feature Paul Muni, the screen star.

"N. F. T."

Muni is making his "mike" appearance as the guest of Louella Parsons, prominent Hollywood writer for the Boston Evening American. Dick Powell is mastering the ceremonies as is usual. Muni has in mind to re-enact selected scenes from his successful pictures such as "I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" and "Black Fury" with film players from the movie studios in the supporting cast.

FRED'S FAVORITES

Twenty-five first prize winners of Fred Allen's "Town Hall Tonight" National Radio Contest have been organized into a unit by Fanchon and Marco and will headline the stage show at the Metropolitan Theatre for the week beginning today.

"Blue Room," from "The Girl Friend," and "Time Will Tell" sung in duet by Vivienne Segal and Frank Munn, are vocal highlights of the "Waltz Time" program with Abe Lyman's orchestra to be presented this evening (WEEI) at 9:00 p. m. E. D. S. T. Instrumental numbers include "The Words Are in My Heart," "Song of Surrender," "The Key to Paradise" and "The Song Is Ended."

SHRINE SETTING

The Feast Day of St Anne de Beaupre, at her shrine near the city of Quebec in Canada, to which thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the world come for relief from their afflictions, will be described to listeners (WEEI) tonight at 9:30 p. m.

Chanting of hymns, a description of the procession to the shrine, the benediction, and organ music and chimes will be heard.

The world-famous shrine is located at the foot of the Laurentian mountains near Quebec, and miraculous cures are reported to result from appeals to its patron. Pilgrims come by the thousands every year at this time, their prayers culminating in the feast day which will be described in detail to the air audience.

Radio Questions and Answers

Q—Who was declared "Miss Radio of 1924" and how was the contest conducted?

Ballots, of Braintree.

A—Numerous such competitions were staged, the principal one by a radio magazine. Irene Beasley won the title in that voting which was among radio editors of the country.

Q—What is the full name of "N. T. G." who has the new network program on the air? We don't catch his entire name.

W. K. of Woburn.

A—He is Nils T. Granlund.

Q—On what station and what hour is "Okay and O Yeah" the Chinese gangsters?

Ethel R., of Roxbury.

A—Never heard of the team.

Q—Could you kindly tell me the location of Boston studios of Stations WBZ, WEEI and WNAC?

Stumped, of Brighton.

A—The WBZ studios are in the Hotel Bradford, on Tremont street opposite the Metropolitan Theater. The WEEI sound sanctums are in the Edison Building, near the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets. The WNAC broadcasting rooms are in the Hotel Buckminster, in Kenmore square.

Q—Will the Bill O'Connell and Carl Moore "Rambling Rhymster" program return to the 10:45 place each night? We miss them a lot.

R. M., of Allston.

A—No plans indicate that they will. This also answers some 19 or more questions asked by readers on the same point.

Forward your radio questions to the Radio Editor of the Boston Evening American then watch this space for the information you seek.

DESERT HERITAGE

By P. C. Wren

Author of Beau Geste

Sees 'Fourth Woman'

CONSUELA opened the French window at the end of the big drawing room, stepped backinto the room, and seated herself upon a huge settee.

A minute later she saw a mu come softly up the steps, cross the terrace and enter the room, bowing, as he did so, a broad-brimmed felt hat and a cloak on the long white seat that stood outside, against the wall, beside the door.

"Ah!" whispered Maine. "You have done wisely, my dear. Is that other door locked?"

"No."

"Then go and lock it, you fool. The key is this side. I took note of that this afternoon . . . Yes, with that door locked and this one open, I shall have my line of retreat safe, if anyone comes."

"And suppose someone came to this terrace-door?" asked Consuela.

"H'm. That would be awkward. For him. Look here, have you a little game on? Is this a trap? Because if so, you are in it, too—for I'd wring your neck as soon as look at you."

"And your money, then?"

"Don't you worry about my money. I'll look after that. And there are other things besides money, too . . . Anyhow, if your alleged brother, or the excellent Mr. Geste comes to that French window, it will be the last win-dow he'll ever come to, for I'll shoot him like a dog. And you, too. So if that is the game you'd better say so—and make some other arrangement."

"There's no game and there's no trap," replied Consuela. "Don't be frightened."

FRIGHTENED! Spanish Maine drew a sharp breath audibly.

"You said you wanted to speak to me," continued the girl.

"Ah, that's better. It is all right, eh? And we can talk busi-ness? Got the whole night to ourselves, haven't we?"

The Meeting

"I've come to hear what you've got to say," replied Consuela. "If by 'business' you mean blackmail, haven't you said it all, and had your answer? Or is there any-thing new? Have you anything fresh to propose, or is it the old blackmail story?"

"Well, that stands, of course, but I isn't what I came to talk about tonight. Let's forget all about that for the moment, shall we, my dear?"

"Forget!" . . . whispered Consuela.

"Yes. We'll forget about that for the moment, for something else. The matter of whether the wedding-day is to be fixed—and also of a little debt. Yes, of a little debt, Zaza. Do you remember? Do you remember that night in Bouzen when you deserted me? That night when you took two things away with you—my money and my heart."

"Your money? I no more took your money than I took the heart that you haven't got, the heart without which you were born. What do you mean—I took your money?' I have never stolen money, or anything else, in all my life."

"COME, come, my love! I wasn't born yesterday. When one installs a light-o-love for the week-end, and she van-ishes in the middle of the night, I ask you! What view would my friend the Chief of Police have taken, do you think? Anyhow, I want that money back."

"I didn't take your money."

"Don't let's waste time, my dear. I want to get on to—other matters. I made an ar-rangement with you, and I kept my side of it—and you are going to keep yours. I want payment in cash or kind . . . and in kind-ness."

"What I say. I want the money you took. We'll call it five hun-dred pounds, at the present rate of exchange, I wish to be fair. Or I want its equivalent in . . . What have you got? Pearls, diamonds, rings? If you can't pay your hands on the cash, the lack would do. And I want the kindness as well."

"The kindness?"

"Yes, Little Innocent. The kind-ness, the kisses, the love, the ardour . . ."

CONSUELA rose to her feet and the, seizing her arm, pulled her down again beside him.

"That's what I've come for to-night, Zaza—to tell you to hurry up the wedding and to collect a debt. A double debt. And I want payment in full. I don't go until I have got five hundred pounds in my pocket—and had you in my arms."

Talk of Money

The girl struggled to her feet. The man rose, seized her, thrust her back upon the settee and held her there.

"What's the idea? What's the game? What are you strug-gling for? What are you kick-ing at? What are you boggling over—the cash or the kisses? What are you? Have I strayed into a Nunnery, by any chance? Keep still, damn you . . . What? Business first? . . . Now you're talking, my little dove . . . "

Spanish Maine released the girl and sat up.

"Business first, then . . . Have you five hundred in the house?"

"Of course I haven't."

"Has Vanbrugh? Or Geste?"

"Is it likely my brother would have five hundred pounds lying about in cash? Or Mr. Geste either. And suppose he had?"

"Well, if we knew that he had, and we knew where he kept it —there might be a burglary, mightn't there. That's an idea, Zaza, isn't it? Suppose I left him, he forced her head back with his other hand and fixed his mouth upon hers.

"There!" he said at last, re-leasing her and drawing breath. "There! What about that?"

"I think it was what they call —yes—the last straw," said the girl quietly.

"Not it. Not the last—by hun-dreds," laughed Spanish Maine softly. "Now, like all women, you chatter too much . . . Busi-ness first . . . How much money can you lay hands on, now?"

"Of my own? Scarcely any."

"Well, then, you can go and write a check. And you'll just make it out as an open bearer check. We'll see about that in a minute, and I'll go with you."

"Come with me."

"Yes. Where is your check-book? In your bedroom, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Are your pearls there too?... Those three very nice strings—might almost call them ropes—that you were wearing, on board the Amazon. Are they in your bedroom, too?"

"No."

"Don't you tell me they are at the Bank, because you are only staying here a few days."

As he spoke, Spanish Maine suddenly snatched at the girl's left hand.

"Hullo, where's the engagement-ring? . . . Now then, which is it to be? A check for five hundred pounds or shall we say the pearls and the engagement ring instead? You can tell the young man that the ring fell off your finger while you were trailing your hand in the water when you were out in a boat on the lake. Say I was rowing you!" Spanish Maine laughed softly.

"ARE they in your jewel-case in your bedroom?"

"No."

"Where are they, then?"

"Mrs. Geste was rather nerv-ous about my jewelry, in case there were a burglary while I was in the house."

"Knew I was in the neighbor-hood, you mean?" laughed Span-ish Maine.

Suggests Excuse

"THERE'S no trap," said the girl, "and I'm not your ac-complice. You are a blackmailer. A low, foul sewer rat. A swin-dler of women, and . . . "

"And you are sitting nice and cosy beside me on the sofa, eh?" And flinging his right arm about the girl, imprisoning her right hand and crushing her to

POPULAR DESSERT FOR LAGGING APPETITE

YES, even now, in midsummer, pie is the great favorite.

Here's one—luscious cream-topped chocolate filling in a flaky crust that comes straight from—the refrigerator.

Serve with frosty Orange Squash. Ah..h! what a perfect ending for a summer meal!

This is an off-season for appe-tites. Try serving light main courses with something extra-special for dessert. Salad and cold sliced meats, for instance, followed by this perfectly deli-cious chocolate pie. Here's the recipe:

Chocolate Refrigerator Pie

1 (tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
2 squares (ounces) unsweetened chocolate
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Previously baked pastry shell
Whipped cream

Soften gelatin in cold water. Cook chocolate and boiling water together until smooth, using dou-ble boiler; add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Now add beaten egg yolks, half the sugar, and the salt and vanilla. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in (using a wooden spoon) the stiffly beaten egg whites, into which remaining sugar has been beaten. Turn into a baked pastry shell and chill thoroughly. Just before serving spread, or pipe on, a generous quantity of whipped cream over the surface of the pie. Incidentally, your pastry shell will be nicer and less likely to break if you build up the edges with a half-inch strip of pastry.

For the sparkling Orange Squash you need only: glasses half filled with cracked ice, juice of one large orange for each person, and sparkling water. Garnish with orange slices and sprigs of mint. (Note: chocolate pie and an orange drink make a grand flavor combination.)

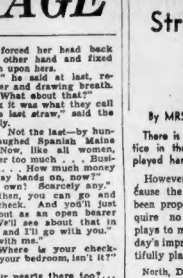
ON Stretching the BID

By MRS. CULBERTSON

There is apparently little jus-tice in the most interestingly played hands.

However, this is only be-cause the hands which have been properly bid usually re-quire no such complicated plays to make them as did to-day's improperly bid but beau-tifully played notrump Slam.

North, Dealer.



The bidding.

North	East	South	West
1♡	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♡	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT	Pass	5NT	Pass
6NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's original forcing re-sponse of three clubs, while justi-fiable on the basis of 3½ honor tricks, was probably not advis-able when holding a singleton heart and moreover a response of two clubs is forcing for one round in the Culbertson System.

Having given a force at the first opportunity, however, his later leap to five notrump is con-siderable of an overbid, particu-larly because of his own poor support for partner's hearts and his partner's inability to support either his clubs or spades.

North, who gave minimum bid-ding throughout, cannot be blamed for the Slam contract.

East opened a low spade and the entire fate of the hand de-pended on declarer's play at this point.

He realized the only hope of making contract was a success-ful club finesse and a split in that suit, so he assumed that fact, automatically counting five club tricks.

The opening lead indicated the spades would not split, so with only three spades, two diamonds and one heart, one more trick had to be found to produce the Slam.

There were two possibilities for this—either a finesse in hearts or a squeeze. Accordingly, and this was essential to the success of his play, he took the spade trick with the Queen in dummy.

When three rounds of clubs, including a finesse on the second round, had proven that suit solid, the King of diamonds was laid down.

West won with the Ace and im-mediately shifted to a heart. North decided East probably had the King and elected to play the squeeze instead of the finesse.

He won with the Ace of hearts, re-entered dummy with the Queen of diamonds and cashed the Jack of diamonds and two clubs.

He still retained the King of spades which proved vital, for with 40 seventy to the North hand, East could have discarded the King of hearts.

As it was, he faced a Hobson's choice of unguarding a spade or throwing a heart, and either se-lection was fatal.

Fashion Flashes

ORDINARY BLACK shoe-strings are used for shoulder straps on a black and white dotted Swiss dance frock, the straps being tied in a bow on each shoulder.

Sheer cotton voile in a bold awning-striped design fashions another striking evening gowns seen at a snooty beach club re-cently. Backless, it has crossed straps of solid color repeating the accent of the widest stripes in the fabric.

Mousseline in a foggy grey makes another cool and gauzy dance frock with diaphanous pleated skirt and wing-like pleated cape.

THE REEFER DRESS is smart and new, cut exactly the lines of the double-breasted reefer coat, and worn with a high-tied ascot scarf. It is effec-tive in one of the new light-weight colorful tweeds, with the ascot in necktie silk.

Necklines are high, with little mannish collars, scarfs and what-not.

Belts are sometimes three or four inches wide, often in polo-belt style, and shown in contrast-ink prints or crocheted versions as well as in leather.

Sleeves may be either severe and tailored or full and picture-esque. Afternoon and semi-formal frocks are going in for big sleeves trimmed with lots of tucks or fagoting.

The day of the skin-tight skirt is over. All the new frocks have skirts employing fullness or drap-ery in some manner. Front full-ness is still the most important trend, but many new silhouettes having gored fullness at the back, or achieve a new line with pleats, ripples or shirring.

DICKY DEMANDS THAT MADGE TELL ALL

CHAPTER 405

I CAST a distinctly wary glance at my hus-band when we had heard the last of the footsteps retreating up the stairs.

What would his mood be, now that we were alone and he no longer had to play a part for the benefit of others, and especially, I guessed, for Edith Fairfax?

My gratitude to him for not playing into Edith's hands, when she had been determined to hu-miliate me by telling the story which Avis Arlen had related to her, was still awaying me. His manner had been perfect. No one could have guessed what I knew —that he had been furiously angry and jealous when Edith ushered him into the room where Hugh lay wounded and ill, and he found me bending over the sick man with his hand clasping mine, his voice protesting that he would not hurt or annoy me for anything.

DICKY STILL ANGRY

Later, in the living room, in discussing the football game, I myself had been able to detect nothing in his voice save appre-ciation of the way I had played up to him in the matter of the Yale-Army game, to which Edith was trying to invelgle him to take her. But now—was he acting a role again, or had his anger died swiftly, as it often does?

"You'd better look scared." Dicky's voice struck across my mental self-questioning and gave me the answer. Unbelievably, he was in royal good humor. I knew that by the burlesque truculence in his voice.

"What d'e mean, scared?" I countered with my voice gruff, and a bit of a swagger in my shoulders. "If you think I'm frightened of you, or two more like you, you'd better—"

Dicky crossed to me almost at a bound and threw his good arm around me.

"ONE CLOWN IN FAMILY"

"Don't you get fresh!" he warned. "In the first place, it isn't becoming to your 'step' as the saleswomen say, and in the second place, I'm the only mem-ber of the family with a license to pull the rough stuff. There's room for only one clown in a family, and I'm it, in this one. So don't forget again that you're a perfect lady, drunk or sober."

He was jesting, but I knew that beneath the jest was a queer note of truth Dicky likes best in me what he is pleased to call my "cool, poised dignity." He rails at it often, and I have sometimes mistakenly thought that he was contrasting my demeanor, and unfavorably, with the frank, joy-ous rowdiness which, in certain moods of his, is delightful in Lillian.

But experience has taught me that, though he delights in these moods of Lillian's, he would strongly disapprove of me were I to imitate her, or to develop a "rough house" technique of my own.

"Very well, m'lud," I said de-murely, I shall endeavor to adapt my conduct to your lordship's wishes. What would you like me to say?"

I was looking up at him now, laughingly, provocatively, and he suddenly crushed me closer against him and kissed me rough-ly.

"You adorable devil!" he said fondly. "I ought to be taking a strap with a buckle to you, in-stead of mooning over you like this."

"I much prefer this to the strap," I told him, putting my arms around his neck. "But why do you think I need a strap?"

"Better not go into that," he said darkly. Then he let forth a short laugh and drew me over to a big arm chair facing the fire. It was so high and commodious that no one sitting in it could be seen from the doorway or, indeed, from most parts of the room.

"I guess we will go into it, after all," he said, and my pulses ac-celerated with uneasiness as to his meaning.

"You might as well sit down comfortably while you're 'fessing up'," he went on, seating himself in the chair, and pulling me down into his lap.

"But I haven't anything to 'fess up'," I protested.

"Maybe not, but you have some-thing to explain," he retorted. "Not that I want any explana-tion," he went on a bit shame-facedly, "but I want to be pre-pared, so that if Eds begins to bluff with the cards, I'll know what she's doing, and be ready to meet her and call her. So you just tell me what it was that Avis told her, and she was trying so hard to spill when old Lil took her in hand."

INVITATION By Note to Home WEDDING

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to have a home wedding.

Relatives only are to be in-vited, and as there will not be more than forty guests, my mother intends to invite them by sending them a note.

Would you tell me what sort of a letter should be sent? Most of those to be invited are rela-tives of the groom, and my mother has never met them, al-though I know them very well.

When an invitation is sent to an aunt and uncle who have grown daughters, would such an informal invitation have to be sent to each of the children, or could it be so worded as to in-clude them? ISABELLE.

The note of invitation that your mother would write to, let us say, the groom's aunt and uncle and their family, would be addressed to the aunt, and would be worded something like this:

Dear Mrs. Brownand:

My daughter, Isabelle, and your nephew, Andrew, are to be mar-ried on Tuesday, the first of August, in our home, and we want very much to have you and your husband, your daughters, Mary and Jane, with us here for the ceremony and for the informal gathering after-ward. We are inviting only the relatives of both families, and we are looking forward with spe-cial pleasure to having you and your family with us on "The Day."

Friendliest greetings to you.
Cordially yours,

MARY SMITH BROWN.

NOTHING TO DO

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—A few months ago my boy friend and I got sore about a date. We had an engagement to meet at a certain place, but he didn't keep the date.

He said he did, but I didn't see him. We had an argument about it, and I haven't seen him since. Please tell me how I may become good friends with him again, for I really love him.

Would it be all right for me to call him up? Please tell me what to do.

2—The other day my girl friend went to a dance. A boy asked her to dance, and after the dance, he thanked her. What should she have said? WONDERING.

1—There isn't anything that you can do in the face of such rudeness and carelessness as this young man showed. He not only didn't keep the engagement, but didn't mind telling you a false-hood about it.

Apparently he isn't very inter-ested, or he would have made some gesture of asking you for another engagement. If you call him up, you'll be very foolish, and probably will be as rebuffed as you were when the engagement was not kept.

2—When a man thanks a girl for a dance, she says some gra-cious comment that indicates that she too enjoyed the dance-something like, "It was delight-ful," or "I enjoyed it too, very much."

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer question on Good Man-ners submitted by readers.)

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Don't Let Love Be Wrecked By Gossip

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TO BE the subject of gossip is the common lot of all mortals. But the sensible person is indifferent to tattle, and goes his or her way unconcerned.

Hardly a day passes that I do not get a letter from one or more readers, telling how they have been made the victims of malicious chatter. The following letter from Molly S. is typical:

"I did not know that my fiance was going to call on me that evening, so I went to the movies with two girl chums. After we had left the house he did call, and a girl who lives in the building, half in fun and half because she likes my intended herself, told him a lot of nonsensical lies. She said I had gone out with a man who has a very bad reputation in this town, that I went out with him often, and wasn't the angel child my friend thought I was; that I smoked, drank and petted.

"I indignantly denied these charges and called the girl to account. She apologized and said she had been joking, but the mischief was done for me, and I feel as if I could never think as much of Ed again. How could he have believed such things about me?"

LACKS CONFIDENCE

Perhaps it may be a blessing in disguise when a match is broken by the acceptance of baseless and unconfirmed gossip. What kind of love is a boy or girl capable of, who will listen to every chance rumor? The very foundation of love is faith, and if the word of a tale-bearer is accepted at third hand, the breaking of an engagement with one of these ready listeners is not the calamity it seems.

The world has never known a man or woman who amounted to anything, who has not at some time or other been the subject of petty lies. Envy, jealousy and malice are at the root of these baseless charges, human nature being what it is—half the world bitterly hating the other half, and hating to see it get on.

And while we are on the subject of lies and gossip, let's consider for a moment the mistake of mothers who implant in their daughter's minds the fear of being talked about, as a means of keeping their girls straight.

INNER INTEGRITY

Fear is the poorest of correctives, and the worst foundation on which to build one's morals. Self-respect should be the North Star by which one sets the compass of his daily life; and should depend on inner integrity, and not on the things people are likely to say or write anonymously about you.

If you tell a girl she must behave so that no whisper of scandal or gossip can touch her daily life, you're asking the impossible—and very likely you're nipping in the bud those gifts which depend on spontaneity and originality.

Shakespeare summed up the situation in the unforgettable lines: "Be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny."

SEPARATED FROM WIFE, BUT NOT DIVORCED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A's love with a man who is separated, but not divorced, from his wife. We lunch together every day in a downtown restaurant, and I was hurt to the quick when my girl chum's mother told me that she preferred to have her daughter see less of me.

The court will not allow this man to get a divorce. If he could get one, he says he would marry me. I thought people were more liberal about divorces than they used to be. I hate losing this girl friend; we were like sisters.

MARIANNE.

If a man is not actually divorced, in the eyes of the law, he is still regarded as a husband. And your girl friend's mother objected to your friendship with her daughter probably on that account. If the man is unable to get a divorce, it looks, doesn't it, as if his record is not entirely blameless?

The question you've got to put to yourself is, "Do I care enough to give up my youth to a man I cannot marry?"

SHOWERS ARE NOT GIVEN BY NEAR RELATIVES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is it proper for a mother to give a baby shower for her own daughter? I would very much appreciate a prompt answer.

INTERESTED.

It is not supposed to be the proper thing for a near relative to send out invitations for a shower, as gifts are expected to follow such an invitation. It is better taste if the shower is given by a friend. You might intimate to a close friend that you would appreciate her cooperation in giving a shower. But it would be better to have her appear as the giver of the party.

How Beautiful—In Any Costume

By Nell Brinkley

THESE bathing scenes Nell Brinkley puts side by side, to show how far the modern bathing suit excels in beauty the bathing suit of long ago. •On the left, you see how young women used to dress "for a swim." The picture is from a drawing by Leech, made 66 years ago.

The two little girls on the right, and their costume, are taken fresh from the imagination of the marvelous Nell Brinkley, an artist without her equal.

This picture will interest young women, and ought to interest young men, because it shows that the youthful female of the species is a remarkably beautiful specimen, no matter what she wears.

The young man SEES more of the two little Brinkley girls on the right.

On the other hand, he IMAGINES a great deal more about the two little girls on the left. And in this world, where the imagination is 90 per cent of everything, what we IMAGINE is far more important than what we crudely SEE.

That genius of American humor, the late "Ted," used to say, sarcastically: "Marriage is like the alphabet; you have to go through so much to learn so little."

But marriage is not as simple as the alphabet for a man with imagination. Up to his last day, when she is old, and he is older, he finds in her new interest, new charm, still wonders why he should have been found worthy of such good fortune.

They are beautiful arms, legs and backs that these young modern bathers possess. But they SZOW everything, and, therefore, nothing is particularly interesting after a few showings.

The modest little girls on the left are just as beautiful, and every man knows that they have backs and legs as pretty, if not prettier—they leave something to the imagination. They save for the future husband a beauty unknown to the beach life-saver and the hot dog man.

There is beauty in Nell Brinkley's undressed picture, but naked beauty grows tiresome after a while, like a butcher shop.

There is greater interest, romance, with endless imagining in the left-hand picture.

Young girls, remember that it is IMAGINATION that leads to marriage. So be modest, in spite of the modern trend, and above all, get married.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Cotton Dance Frocks

AS the mercury climbs, so does the popularity of cotton dance frocks, and if you drop in at any fashionable resort hotel or beach club these days you'll see our best debutantes whirling around the dance floors cool as ice cream sodas in frothy organdies, dotted Swisses and gingham evening gowns.

The rick-rack trim is a feature of a prize-winning dinner dress submitted in a recent contest and it decorates a demure Gay Nineties frock in robin's egg blue handkerchief linen. Cotton rick-rack braid in a deep wine tone is used as bands on the puffed sleeves and to outline the fitted bodice.

Gingham evening gowns, in bold plaids, also have employed rick-rack trimming for shoulder straps and to outline the decolletage.

SHORTER and fuller is the billing for fall fashions.

The first advance showings of autumn styles are stressing skirts from 11 to 13 inches from the floor, with front fullness, flared hemlines and plenty of new tricks to mark them as 1935-36 models.

NEAT AND PRETTY

For the Little Girl

By MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9487

Marion Martin pleases the little girl who wants to look "pretty" and the mother who wants her to look "neat" by cleverly combining features of both in pattern 9487.

You must admit that collar and smooth yoke are as neat and prim as anyone could want—so is the tailored front panel releasing into pleats!

And little sister will note with glee it has precious puffed sleeves and a party bow that make her feel as dressed-up as can be.

Five pretty buttons make an inexpensive trimming for a dress that's ready for every occasion.

Make it of dainty dimity, or sturdier gingham, percale or chantung. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9487 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 10 requires 2¼ yards 36 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern.

Beauty Answers to Readers' Queries

Question—My girl friend is to be married shortly and I am anxious to give her a present that she will really like. She is very pretty and takes great pride in her appearance. As she has all the cosmetics and week-end bags that she needs, I am puzzled as to what she would like. I want to give a personal gift if possible.

CLAIRE T., Norwood.

Answer—The very nicest gift that can be given a young woman is a vanity table, equipped with a beauty box to hold all the precious props that are necessary for smart appearance. Such an outfit means that rouge won't be put on carelessly, nor will lips carry pigment that is spotty. It is nice, too, to have all the little jars, bottles, boxes, combs and brushes in order. Such a gift would be welcome by any bride.

Question—I am tired of the way I have been wearing my hair and am sure that it is not the most becoming coiffure I can find. My hair is naturally wavy and I have an almost oval shaped face. Would a middle part be becoming?

DOROTHY D.

Back Bay.

Answer—When planning a new coiffure, consult a three-way mirror. Regard not only the front, but sides and back as well. If the curls are placed low at the back, have the wave at the rear hug the head so as to give it a presentable outline. That nice nip at the nape line is youthful and trim. A middle part should be very glorifying for your type of beauty. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my illustrated Hollywood leaflet showing twelve becoming ways of arranging the hair.

Question: I have been using henna packs for nearly a year, and now find that I have blossomed into a carrot top. I would give a good deal to get my hair back to its own natural shade. Is there anything I can do to recondition it?

Frances D., Boston.

Answer: First of all, use hot oil freely. Mineral oil is good and olive oil will serve. Put it on daily for a week or longer. Yes, your hair may look pretty terrible, but that's the penalty for playing with hair-coloring agents about which one is not properly informed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my recipe for restoring bleached or dyed hair. It will restore the natural color without injury to the roots or scalp.

Question: Do you happen to have Dr. Hauser's famous recipe for potassium broth? A friend of mine to whom you recently sent Hauser's Elimination Diet said that you sent her one. I am ten to fifteen pounds overweight and would appreciate having the recipe for the broth. Will you tell me whether this broth has to be taken hot or cold?

Mrs. E. D. S., Cambridge.

Answer: Potassium broth can be served either steaming hot or iced-cold. The recipe for the broth is included in the Hauser Elimination Diet. If you will forward a stamped, self-addressed envelope I will see that you receive this diet. The Hauser Elimination Diet is for one week and affords your system a complete cleansing. It's a pleasant diet to follow, too.

Question: Do you approve of trimming eyelashes? I have been told that they will grow in thicker and longer if they are trimmed every few months. How do you go about cutting them? Mine are quite long, but not at all thick and they seem to be falling out steadily.

E. V. F., Atlantic.

Answer: Never trim lashes. That practice does not help the growth. Cutting merely removes the delicate little unturned points and makes the eye curtains look stubby and horrid. Eyelashes are frail little threads, anyway, and don't last long. The growth is always shedding and renewing. If you would have your fringes longer, thicker and curlier, apply gauze pads that have been dipped in ice cold witch hazel. Let them remain on until the flesh is warm and steaming, then apply again. At night apply a rich nourishing eyelash cream. There are several excellent ones on the market.

HYSTERICAL WOMEN

ARE you nervous and sur reasonable? Subject to sudden tears and violent outbreaks of temper? These are often symptoms of feminine upset. Take Lydia E. Sun-Kissed Make-Up

Gives Illusion Of Youth

By JULIET SHELBY

NOW, behold, we are told to rouge all over our faces, instead of just on the cheeks or a dab on the chin!

The cosmetic house that advocates this drastic innovation claims that loss of pigment in the skin has caused women to look older. So, say they, why not supply that pigment artificially, with rouge that is especially blended to look like the genuine glow?

It is true that a woman with a sallow, fading skin looks older than her years. The disarming youthfulness that shows in the face is soon lost through sickness, worry or age.

The "sparkle" which we call youth is, in fact, fresh lovely color shining through the outer skin from within. And quite right are they who say that at least an illusion of youth can be supplied by a little color underneath our powder.

In other words, with more rouge than you have used before, a more natural effect is possible. The thing to remember is that, to get "radiance," lighter, brighter rouge and lipstick are required. And when it comes to face powder, the paler tones in the popular deep sun shades should be selected—those with an ivory rather than a pink tinge.

And as long as it was their suggestion and their experiment, these cosmeticians have gone ahead and mixed the shades you require. You apply the rouge delicately all over your face, with the deepest color in the spots where it would ordinarily be. And it is really amazing what a fresh, animated appearance this method brings!

If you wish to know the name of this new sun-kissed method of make-up, call Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000 or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TRAGEDY OF 'GHOST VILLAGES' KILLS BEAL'S COMMUNISM

By FRED E. BEAL
ARTICLE 17

In the spring of 1933, when the last of the Winter snows had melted away, I made a random visit to a Ukrainian collective near the village of Chekhuyev.

In company with a Russian-American comrade from the factory, I took the train from our little station of Losseve and rode for two hours to Chekhuyev. From this place we walked east for several miles. We did not meet a living soul.

We came upon a dead horse and a dead man upon the side of a road. The horse lay still harnessed to the wagon. The man was still holding the reins in his stiff lifeless hands. Both had died from starvation, it would seem. The atmosphere itself seemed filled with death and desolation.

We arrived at a village which presented the worst of all possible sights. The only human there was an old woman, who passed us on the village street. She hobbled along with the aid of a stick. Her clothes were just a bunch of rags tied together.

LIVING GHOST APPEARS

When she came close to us she lifted the stick as if to strike us. But the movement petered out in weakness. She spat at us and mumbled something incoherent, something my friend could not make out, though he knew the language well. Her feet were dreadfully swollen.

She sat down and picked her swollen feet with a sharp stick, to let the water out of the huge blisters. There was a large hole in the top of her foot from continuous piercing of the skin. She was stark mad. She laughed when she sat down and screamed with pain when she squeezed her foot. She spat again at us. We moved on.

The village was dead. Going up to one of the shacks, we looked into a window. We saw a dead man propped up on a built-in Russian stove. His back was against the wall. He was rigid and staring at us with his faraway dead eyes.

I had seen many dead people before who had died naturally. But this death was from a definite cause with which I was associated and had been supporting.

SOVIET "IDEALS" SHATTER

Now that deathly gaze pierced me! As I look back, I think that unforgettable scene had more effect than any other in deciding me to do what I could to rectify my horrible mistake in supporting the Stalinists of Russia and the Third International.

We found more dead people in what had been their homes. Some bodies were decomposed. When we opened doors, huge rats would scamper to their holes and then come back out and stare at us.

At one house, there was a sign written on the door in crude Russian letters. My friend read it: "GOD BLESS THOSE WHO ENTER HERE, MAY THEY NEVER SUFFER LIKE WE HAVE."

Inside two men and a child lay dead with an icon alongside of them.

There was a sign on another door. It read: "MY SON, WE COULDN'T WAIT, GOD BE WITH YOU."

Two old people were dead there. We took it to mean they couldn't wait for a food package to arrive, possibly from Moscow or even from America. Maybe their son had been in the Red Army. Perhaps he was a factory worker.

Many of the houses were empty. But, in the rear, the graves told a story of desolation and ghastly death. More signs were stuck up on these graves by those who buried them:

"I LOVE STALIN. BURY HIM HERE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE."

"WE TRIED A COLLECTIVE. THIS IS THE RESULT!"

"DEAD" VILLAGES BURNED

I had seen enough of villages and collectives and communes. On our way back, near the station, people told us that the village we had visited was to be burned. Three or four others in the vicinity had already been burned. Not a trace of the houses or of the dead bodies in them was left.

A terrible weight of sadness and hopelessness settled upon me. These horrors could not make me hate the responsible ones any more than I did, but I felt terribly helpless about getting out of Russia and where to go.

I felt that I could not go back to America. It would be hard to take up again existence in the outside world without helpful friends, and most of my friends were Communists or Communist sympathizers.

They, in all probability, would hate me for upsetting their beliefs and illusions as to Stalin's glorious way out for mankind.

More revelations of Soviet cruelty by Fred Beal, one who knows, in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

DEATH ENDS Reconciliation

New Bedford, July 26—Death has blocked the path of a divorced couple who wanted to start life together again. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brodeur had planned to go to a lawyer to cancel decree nisi given Mrs. Brodeur a month ago.

But last week she was stricken ill and removed to Acushnet Hospital. Her former husband kept vigil in vain over her bedside.

Patrol of the southwest cutoff on the Worcester highway by state police has brought about a substantial reduction in the number of accidents this year.

There has been a 66 per cent drop in fatalities, 50 per cent drop in accidents and 33 per cent in property damage, it was reported

The Man Who Would Cut Himself Slice of Fruitcake

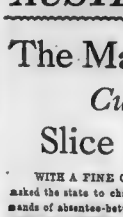
WITH A FINE OLD IDEALISM, Mr. Bill H. McMasters has asked the state to charter him as an intown broker for the thousands of absentee-bettors who are too busy or too indolent to attend Suffolk Downs race meetings. Mr. McMasters unselfishly consents to skim no more than 10 per cent of the kitty and share the usual 5½ per cent with the state.



Austen Lake

Mr. McMasters is pained to find that more money is gambled through the little bootleg offices remote from the track than is wagered in the presence of the horses, and estimates that at least $400,000 of the peasants' money is fed into these illicit mills every day. This form of gambling, like the hideaway table games where the people bet on the turn of a card, the roll of the freckled cubes or the spin of the wheel, is not subject to state tax on the state's assumption that it does not exist.

Being high-minded, Mr. McMasters would stamp out the bootleg bookies as tappers of the public wealth and purify their petty sinfulness in his big brotherly monopoly.

The profit, which would be immense, is secondary to Mr. McMaster's piety.

Revolt of the Angels

THE SUFFOLK DOWNS PEOPLE think this is pretty presumptuous of Mr. McMasters, and smacks of an attempt to ride to fortune on their coat-tails.

The horse track owners say they have invested more than $2,000,000 for a scenic fly-trap, replete with a horse saucer, palatial clubhouse, horticultural exhibits, horse barns and expensive machinery. And they say, it costs $25,000 a day to pay its hordes of employes and furnish the race prizes.

So, they demand, why should Mr. McMasters be allowed to set up an intown office with a small outlay for rent, furnishings and a handful of clerks to scoop up more gravy in a single afternoon than the track can make in two weeks.

Not that Suffolk Downs denies the merit of Mr. McMaster's idea. But they feel, if anybody is going to safeguard Boston's absentee bettors, the state should charter the track operators to open its own intown brokerage and thus double its normal take, which in its swell dump has been pretty thin.

Braddock and Sister Minnie

CONCERNING THE APPOINTMENT of James J. Braddock, champion knuckle-duster of the universe, to police the O'Mahoney-George wrestling match next Tuesday, I have been receiving a stream of screams by post from mat maniacs who find employing a prizefighter as wrestling referee a travesty on the ennobled sport.

At the risk of offending Sam Smith and Leon Burbank, members of the local mat judiciary and jovial fellows both, I would say that even your little sister, Minnie, could referee a pro wrestling match without loss of face. There are only a few inconsequential details, such as the strangle-hold, kicking an opponent in the features unless it is done with both feet at once, yanking hair, gouging or wrenching off individual toes or fingers, and separating the performers when either or both are under the ropes.

Since this is a contest between lodge brothers, a referee, who is a house dick or promoter's tallman, is not required to see that the drama runs according to the script. Thus Braddock, for all his inexperience, calls more for confidence than ridicule.

Braves' Daily Fiduciary Report

SOME MONTHS AGO I WROTE that when the fuss and fury of sorting over possible Braves buyers had calmed down, the most likely person to salvage the wreckage was Charles F. Adams, as the club's foremost creditor.

This still goes. An outside buyer, whether the O'Malleys or the Marshall syndicate, which I suspect are playing possum until the guillotine falls on August 1, must either pay about $450,000 for the whole property, or spend a proportionately larger sum for control.

It would require court consent for the trustees to sell out at $450,000, which is slightly more than $30 a share, and I am certain that a die-hard band of the 50-odd majority investors would yell outrage and perhaps block the deal.

Failing this a prospective buyer, wishing merely to purchase control, might pick up 5000 of the Adams-Wetmore's 9500 shares for $250,000 and then be obliged to assume a large chunk of the First National Bank's $200,000 lien while leaving 7000 shares still in minority hands.

This gives you some inkling of the terrific tangle of the Braves' financial affairs as Fuchs turns his picture to the wall.

Reason for Braves' Collapse

THE BRAVES' MONEY DEPRESSION, coupled with the Babe Ruth hoke-pokus, is the cause of the team's collapse on the field now. Even before the club had left the soft summer zephyrs of Florida, the players were gathering in little groups and whispering among themselves.

Whispering huddles on a major league ball team mean only one thing, disgruntlement over some political or financial problem. Several of the athletes said openly that there was no incentive to play all-out baseball, what with Babe's physical husk drawing the big money, the press spotlight and public worship.

One of the heroes explained, "We can play our brains out and all we can look forward to next winter is a salary cut. I hope I'm traded."

Result today is that a team which should be no worse than fifth is bogged down lower in the league's last place than it was in the wooden-leg, wheel-chair day of Dave Bancroft's cripples.

Only Logical Heavyweight Fight

WITH RIVAL PROMOTERS chattering and scolding like monkeys in a banana tree, there is only one heavyweight prize fight that would tease a full payload of customers through the gates next fall. Not a Louis-Schmeling, or a Schmeling-Baer match. Nobody cares much about the beetle-browed German!

Only logical fight is Louis-Baer, bringing together a boxing thumper and a wild swinger and setting the scene for the winner's meeting with Braddock next summer and the inevitable succession of the crown.

$1,000,000 in Mat Earnings At Stake in Don-Danno Go

WIGWAM

Bout Tuesday to Settle Big Debate

By Ringside

Ed Don George and Danno O'Mahoney today opened the final drive in their training for their world's heavyweight championship mat battle at Braves Field on next Tuesday night.

George, the champion, was to work out this afternoon at Worrick Inn, Hull, while O'Mahoney was billed to try to wreck his sparring partners at Mansion Inn, Wayland.

George is determined to drub O'Mahoney in straight falls. He says a victory will mean $1,000,000 to him.

$1,000,000

While a drizzle soaked his training camp at Worrick Inn, Nantasket, George lolled about after a hard workout. He played cards, joked with his training partners and finally talked with reporters.

"What's the title worth? Well, it will be worth a great deal more after Tuesday night than it ever was before. After all the wrangle the past six years and with Tuesday night's winner to be recognized as champion all over the world; I'd say the championship should gross around $1,000,000 in a couple of years, maybe more.

"Why with all the dispute and despite the fact that I'm not recognized in 28 states I have made $400,000 in two seasons," spoke Ed.

So that is just one of the incentives ahead of the men next week. George is quite confident that he will pin the bulging shoulders of the Irishman and thus go on to more fame and fortune.

Danno Speeds Up

While rain put somewhat of a damper upon George's workout, it added zest to the hour long session Danno went through at Mansion Inn, Wayland.

He had complained of the heat all week and to celebrate the first cool day he practically ruined four training partners. All went down before the Irish Whip and immediately upon arising were pinned for good with the flying scissors.

It is Danno's hope that the weather remains cool, for he thinks his chances will be much better.

The Irishman is unusually confident.

The preliminary card is Promoter Paul Bowser's masterpiece of the year, with Jim Browning returning to meet Chief Little Moose in the semifinal.

In other bouts, Gus Sonnenberg clashes with Boris Demetroff; Billy Bartush takes on Bibber McCoy; Count Zarynoff tangles with Karl Pojelio; Henri Piera faces Dick Daviscourt; Gino Garibaldi meets George Saunders.

Leo Numm will battle Frank Sexton; George McLeod comes to grips with Jim Wallis; Jack Ross will try to pin John Spellman, and Danny Winters clashes with Andy Bush.

The ticket sale continued spurting along, despite the rain, and it is now a certainty that the bout will set a new record for attendance in New England. Tickets popularly priced may be obtained at 115 Chauncey street, Room 204, Braves Field, or at 264 Washington street, in Newspaper Row. They are scaled from $1 to $3.

OUIMET

In Bald Peak Golf

Melvin Village, N. H., July 26—Francis Ouimet and Jesse Sweetser were the headliners as play opened today in the qualifying round of the Bald Peak invitation golf tournament.

Match play runs through Sunday, with both Ouimet and Sweetser facing difficult grinds before they can move into the title final.

FREDDIE MILLER

Kayoes Briton

Liverpool, Eng., July 6 (US)—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati's hard-hitting southpaw, recognized by the N. B. A. as the world's featherweight champion, scored a two-round knockout over Seaman Watson, of England, in a scheduled 10-round bout here.

SWINGING ON TOWARD COLLISION AT TEPEE

(Picture by Boston American Staff Photographer)

Ed Don George mixes golf with his training for his mat classic which will find the heavyweight championship at stake when he meets Danno O'Mahoney for the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund at Braves Field next Tuesday. But George seems to be off form. He hasn't got his eye on the ball. However, he promises to be wide awake for Danno.

Semifinal on at Seabright

Seabright, N. J., July 26—Mrs. Marjorie Van Ryn met Gracyn Wheeler here this morning for the rubber set of their rained-over semifinals match in the annual tennis tourney here.

When Van Ryn halted the duel, Mrs. Van Ryn had won the first set, 7-5. Miss Wheeler snatched the second, 6-4.

PAL VICTOR

North Adams, July 26—Willie Pal won over Louis Dira in the feature bout of eight rounds at Meadowbrook Arena here.

Wilson

Has 17 Horses in Money

Dave Wilson comes through again.

The Boston Evening American's ace handicaper selected four Thursday winners at Suffolk and his second choices won the other three.

Dave pulled one for the books when he had 17 horses in the money.

Of 28 possible money horses Dave had only four out of the money—that, is picking the baggage as they should be.

Canzoneri Ring Victor

By Universal Service

Chicago, July 26—Tony Canzoneri, world's lightweight boxing champion, either couldn't, or wouldn't fight against Bobby Pacho, Mexican walloper from California.

But two judges, Ed Klein and "Rube" Metz, and Referee Tommy Gilmore awarded Canzoneri the unanimous decision over the Mexican at the end of their ten-round bout here.

The decision brought a storm of protest from the 4000 customers.

BEATS Austin at 19th HOLE

PUTTER SAVES DAY FOR VICTOR

By Bill Grimes

Cohasset, Mass., July 26—In the first extra hole finals in the annals of the event, Gerald Anderson, Green Hill, became the junior champion of the State this morning at the Cohasset Golf Club when he defeated Richard Austin at the 19th hole.

Without a question, it was the greatest of all time junior windups. Anderson went to the turn in 37, one under par figure, to be two up, against Austin's outward medal of 39.

But, Austin came home in 38 to Anderson's 40, and they were both 77 for the round.

Anderson putted himself out of many tight pinches, but his unusual steadiness on the greens saved the day. He got down in one putt on six occasions, four times for wins and twice to halve holes. He played perfect golf going out and did not hit a sour shot until he attempted to iron his way to the 10th green.

The turning point of the match was at this hole, for Anderson had played four shots when he reached the putting surface and he was still about 20 feet by the cup.

Austin in Rough

Austin was on the bank to the left of the green in two, but in heavy rough. Dick chipped on, but was short of the cup. Yet, it looked like his hole. After careful study of his line, Anderson holed the 20-footer for a five and got a half when Austin's ball slid by the cup.

Although he goes into the records as the runner up, Dick Austin gave one of the greatest exhibitions of courage in the history of junior championships.

He did not get a single break until Anderson missed a putt on the 15th green, but he never displayed the slightest sign of faltering.

He was shut off from a try for a win by a stymie at the 5th and again at the 8th, and even after he had three putts to lose the 15th and become two down with three to play, Austin refused to crack.

Instead, he bore down on Anderson and won the 16th and 18 h to square the match. At the 19th his second shot went over the green, but the down slope carried it beyond the cup and he missed coming back, losing the hole and the title to a regulation four.

Paul Bowser Guides Salem Race Meet

Salem, N. H., July 26—Paul Bowser, the man who worked magic with the sport of wrestling, will turn his hand to horse and buggy racing in the near future.

Starting a week from Saturday, the Grand Circuit will conduct a major trotting and pacing meet for seven racing days at Rockingham Park, and Bowser will direct the show.

Even at this early date, the meeting seems destined to be the greatest success in its three year old history. Bowser has secured the American and National Stakes as features of the meeting.

Already more than 100 thoroughbreds have encamped and are working out daily.

At the stables, they are already chattering about Albert Crossman's Countess Zabetta the little three year old filly. The Countess is the champion trotter of the half mile tracks. She will take a lot beating over this slick, fast mile oval.

W. S. Garrison is here with seven horses, with his hard-hitting trotter, American Hanover leading the list.

What the Stars Did

By Associated Press

Hal Schumacher, Roy Parmelee and Mel Ott, Giants—Schumacher and Parmelee pitched brilliantly in double triumph over Cardinals; Ott led attack with two doubles, triple and two singles.

Red Lucas, Pirates—His pinch hit in ninth drove in winning runs against Phillies.

Tex Carleton, Cubs — Limited Dodgers to five hits and fanned six.

Mat Tickets

3 Offices Selling Danno-Don Seats

There are three offices where tickets may be purchased for the great Christmas Basket Fund wrestling show which will feature Danno O'Mahoney and Ed Don George in a world's championship match at Braves Field on next Tuesday night.

They are at No. 264 Washington street, Braves Field and No. 115 Chauncy street.

The tickets are priced at $1, $2, $3, and $5 plus the federal tax.

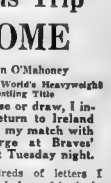
DANNO Plans Trip HOME

By Dan O'Mahoney
(Claimant of World's Heavyweight Wrestling Title

Win, lose or draw, I intend to return to Ireland soon after my match with Don George at Braves' Field next Tuesday night.

The hundreds of letters I have received from friends in County Cork, Ireland, during the past few months have made me homesick.

Nothing would please me better than to spend at least two months in the Old Country following my bout for the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser Christmas Fund.



Dan O'Mahoney

I have talked the matter over with my manager, Jack McGrath, and he says that anything I want to do is satisfactory to him. He has received offers for us to appear in Dublin, London, Manchester, Paris, Berlin and Rome.

However, I do not wish to accept so many match-es in Europe. What I desire most of all at the present time is a good rest, and I am opposed to appearing in more than four bouts during the trip.

Don Sure He'll Conquer Gael

By Ed Don George
(World's Heavyweight Wrestling Champion.)

When I step into the ring at Braves Field next Tuesday night for the defense of my title against Dan O Mahoney, I well realize that I will have much at stake.

Ed George

In the event I defeat the Irishman, which I am confident of doing, my earnings for the next twelve months alone will be a half million dollars. An undisputed heavyweight champion stands to make himself enough money to retire and this is what I will be shooting for when I square off against the "kid."

It is my ambition to retire as the undisputed world's heavyweight wrestling champion. After I defeat O'Mahoney, I plan to defend my laurels against every logical contender. Then I want to follow in the footsteps of Gene Tunney and get back into the life of a private citizen.

O'Mahoney may be the fifth holder in the ten of a lot of silly commissions throughout the country, but he surely cannot claim the undisputed championship until he defeats me. Many grapplers have attempted to accomplish this feat, and they are all still waiting at the well-known "switch."

The title that belongs to me is the only real championship in the heavyweight wrestling division.

LONG TRAINING JOCKEYS' NEED

WALL TELLS OF CAREER

By Walter Kiley

Nick Wall will resume riding this afternoon after having served his 10-day suspension on the ground. Nick is one of the better riders at Suffolk Downs, and was recently placed under contract by Ed Haughton, trainer of one of the most pretentious strings at the local track.

Incidentally, he is one of the few local boys to make his mark on the turf. Boston has left the manufacturing of jockeys to other parts of the country, notably Idaho and Kentucky, but Nick defied tradition and has since become known as one of the best hooters in the game.

It happened in this wise:

He was riding an unwieldy horse to the blacksmith shop one day when a street car passed. It was a rainy, slippery afternoon, and the horse became alarmed, and it was all young Wall could do to bring him under control. The street car stopped at the next block, and a man disembarked. He called to the boy.

"Are you a jockey?"

"No," said Nick, "but I'd like to be one."

"Very well," answered the stranger; "come with me."

The man was a horseman named O'Tuggle, and he had a stable of four horses which he was campaigning at the smaller tracks of the country. Nick expected to be put in stike at once, but it didn't turn out that way.

For three years he did nothing but gallop, walk and exercise horses, sitting pensively on the white-washed rail during the afternoon watching other youngsters booting the babies home.

5th in First

His own time came at the Maple Heights track in 1926 when he was tossed up on Betty May, coming under the wire fifth. He showed much promise in that race, however, and when he moved on to the Akron track he won his first race —astride Zero. After that his progress was rapid.

He was one of the leading apprentices of a year which developed such riders as Alfy Robertson, A. Pascuma and R. Workman, and has always been high up on the roster since. Last year he drove home with 112 winners, which is a lot of winners in any man's language.

"The best horse I ever rode," Nick said the other day at Suffolk Downs, "was Boom. I drove this fellow into first place in three $5000 handicaps, and in many other features. Last year I rode Ted Ciark in most of his stake engagements, winning the $10,000 Wagoner Handicap, but I have never believed he was a truly great thoroughbred.

"He had a spectacular burst of speed and is was almost like flying to be up in the saddle on him, but he's still got to show me he's as good as they say he is.

"The trouble with riders nowadays is that they are made entirely too fast. I spent three years on the grounds absorbing knowledge of how to ride. Today a boy shows promise, and he is boosted into the saddle after about six months.

"These boys can't ride. They can only sit on horses and steer them around. Jockeys like Stephenson, who have been around horses for a long time, are standouts over the rest of the crew, and you can't wonder why.

Long Training

"Many is the time I sat in the stable aisles with Workman, Pascuma, Robertson and others and talked over what we would do when we got the chance to ride. We'd been exercising horses for years then. All of us are still at it and still bringing them home in front because we laid a foundation for our future. Where are the champion apprentices of last year? With few exceptions they are grubbing around for an occasional mount because they didn't have the background or the necessary experience to keep going."

Nick has had several bad falls in his career, the most serious being last year when he broke his collarbone and shoulder in a spill in Canada. He was slated to ride Ted Clark in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap last winter, but he fell again the day before he was to go west, breaking his wrist.

He's back in the running again, however, and under the Haughton aiks should show all the riders at Suffolk Downs just how it's done.

Jackson Son

May Not Lose Eye

New York, July 26 (INS)—William T. Jackson, one-year-old son of Travis Jackson, third baseman of the New York Giants, may not lose the sight of his right eye after all.

It was previously reported the boy would be permanently blinded in his right eye, but physicians at the medical center, where he is confined, said today it would be several weeks yet before it can be determined whether his vision will be impaired.

The little boy accidentally pierced a stick holder, used by his mother, into his eye while playing last Saturday in his uptown home.

SUFFOLK Handle Is Record BREAKER

Suffolk Downs set its first New England seasonal record Wednesday with a mid-week pari mutuel handle of more than $385,000. The previous record in this section for a week day was $376,311, which passed through the machines at Narragansett, June 19.

The Eastview stakes, two-year-old stake which will feature the final day at Empire City, Saturday, promises to attract a small but select field The probable lineup will be Royal Fox, Bien Joli, Aroused, Grand Quest, Postage Due, Parade Girl, and Triumphant. Postage Due and Parade Girl will run in A. G. Vanderbilt's silks and are the probable choices.

Bold Venture, crack juvenile owned by Morton L. Schwartz, of New York, arrived in Chicago yesterday to be pointed for his engagement in the $60,000 futurity at Arlington Park a week from Saturday. The Fighter, one of the outstanding candidatas, was given a useful three-quarter trial yesterday, breezing over the training track at Arlington in 1 17 2-5.

Hold Regatta

The Samoset Canoe Club of West Roxbury will stage a monster canoe regatta on the Charles at West Roxbury Sunday, August 4.

The events will start at the Spring street bridge at 2 p. m.

The meet is sanctioned by the American Canoe Association and all recognized clubs in New England are being invited to participate. There is no entry fee and entries close at 8 p. m. July 30.

BRAVES Get Needed REST

By Joe Cashman

The belabored and bedraggled Braves, getting an early start when rain halted their final game in Cincinnati, reached home today to rest up for the opener of a three-game series with the Phillies at the Wigwam on the morrow.

If ever a ball club needed a breathing spell, it is the Tribesmen at this writing.

They return after the most dismal road trip experienced by either Boston ball club in 30 years.

They weren't anything to write home about before they left, being deep in the cellar, but the worst was yet to come. And that's putting it most charitably.

They started off by winning a game in Philadelphia to break a six or seven game losing streak.

Then they began unraveling the longest defeat string of the season, dropping 15 straight decisions before nosing out the Reds on Monday last.

They came back to make it two in a row over the Rhinelanders, but they were edged in their third start in the first championship night game they ever played.

So their record for the entire jaunt was 18 setbacks and three wins.

Naturally, after that collapse, the Tribesmen are buried too deep in the basement to hope to get out this season.

Still this flop is not to be greatly wondered at, even though the team that made it is the same one which finished in fourth place the past two seasons.

Playing under the cloud of a front-office anarl which has more or less upset the whole league, the players have lacked incentive to get excited about wins and losses.

The Braves will stay home only a week this time.

The Phillies play a single game tomorrow and a twin-bill Sunday. Then come the Dodgers for a single game Monday, doubleheader on Wednesday and single game Thursday.

SIX CRAFTS In Cup Race

Bolton Landing, N. Y., July 26 (AP) — Six speedy craft churned placid Lake George today in final trials for the 32nd running tomorrow of the Dole Cup championship motorboat classic.

Sportsmen gathering for the gruelling 90-mile test gave much attention to Bill Horn of Newport News, Va., and his one-time champion Delphine IV, considered likely to give the defending title-holder, George Reis of Lake George, its stiffest competition.

BABE ACTIVE ON GREEN LINKS

Golf life begins at 40 for Babe Ruth, the Sultan of Swat in baseball circles, as he ambles through the rain in making his debut as a tournament player in the qualifying round of the Westchester Invitation Tournament. The Babe travels in fast golf company when he plays, for his partner is Bill Meany, medal winner in last year's Metropolitan Amateur championships. But Babe missed qualifying by one stroke. He posted an 81.

"No cheating, Babe," says the caddy when Babe Ruth, the former Sultan of Swat, marks up his golf score as the rain patters on his shoulders in the qualifying round of the Westchester Invitation Tournament. The Babe registered a 40 for the first nine holes but when he increased his score on the second nine by one stroke he missed qualifying. His caddy evidently would stand for no cribbing, for he stood by until that eliminating point was chalked up on the card.

Babe Aspires To Play in Amateur Tilt

By Associated Press

New York, July 26—Babe Ruth, having made a successful debut as a tournament goofer, sees no reason why his name should not be among the starters in the national amateur at Cleveland.

"If I can play like this in the rain, and at that a bit careless, I don't see why I shouldn't be able to qualify for the amateur," said the Babe after he missed by only one stroke getting into the championship flight in the Westchester Country Club's invitation tournament.

"If I can arrange my business affairs, I sure intend to give it a try, anyway."

It was the rollicking Babe of baseball days who splashed through the rain yesterday for an 81, one stroke in front of Dick Chapman, defending champion.

"We're off," the Bambino shouted to a small cluster of fans as he sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie three on the first hole. "It's too bad they can't make this a double-header for tomorrow, the crowd would be bigger."

A few minutes later he was apologizing for three-putting the water-soaked green.

"I knew that birdie was too good to be true," he said.

At the 14th he called time out and invited his partners, caddies and small band of admirers to have one on him at the refreshment stand.

Smoke in Eyes

The Babe then lighted a big cigar and started for the tee. Everything went fine until he reached the green. Then, on in three and only 12 feet from the pin, he took four shots to hole out.

"Smoke got in my eyes," he said, shaking the ashes off his cigar. "Now that I'm used to it, watch me go."

With his No. 7 iron, the Babe lifted the ball high on its way toward the 15th. The little white pellet landed a foot from the green's edge and buried itself in the mud.

"Fine poor boast," Chapman advised, but the mighty Babe decided to use his bulk of 230 pounds. He drove his niblick into the turf behind the ball. Mud flew everywhere, but the impact lifted the ball to within 18 inches of the cup, whence he got his par 5.

"Just as I thought," he said, smiling. "Weight will help once in a lifetime in golf—and this was the once."

The Babe's 81 left him nine strokes behind the medalist, William Tobin of Plandome, whose 72 was one of the best competitive rounds of the current season considering the adverse weather conditions.

BOLD LOVER OUT TO BEAT RECORD

STAR FIRE CLASS IN 8TH RACE

By Dave Wilson

BEST BET—BLACK HIGHBROW

Suffolk Downs, East Boston, July 26—Black Highbrow, Mrs. E. Haughton's fast stepping Blackwood juvenile shapes up not only as the probable winner of the $3500 added the Bay State Handicap, but as the outstanding wagering proposition on a sparkling card of eight races here tomorrow afternoon.

FIRST—BLACK SCOUT, MAIDEN DREAM, PRETTY BUSY

BLACK SCOUT, sturdy hearted son of The Scout, appears nicely placed here. The E. K. Bryson color-bearer was up against it last trip, and that effort may be tossed into discard. In front of that he turned in a sterling performance to graduate from the maiden ranks. A breezing four paces in 0:48.3 tapered off his training. MAIDEN DREAM is from the fashionable stables of Leo J. Marks and looms all over the one to fear. The San-Utar filly drubbed John Tio and other fleet platers last time out and has worked briskly for this affair. PRETTY BUSY, on New York form, figures to share in the spoils.

SECOND—HIGH DELIGHT, UNKIE TOM, IDLE ALONG

HIGH DELIGHT has a splendid Detroit record to recommend her for main honors here. Under a feather of 98 pounds, she figures to take the top and never be headed. UNKIE TOM is as unreliable as they come. He turned in a cracking good second to Hogans Fox only a few days back, and a duplicate of that performance would stake him hard to drub. IDLE ALONG has had quite a bit of it lately, but on general form she is entitled to at least a fighting chance.

THIRD—GOLD SIGNET, OLD REB, HUG AGAIN

GOLD SIGNET ducked out of today's third race to await this spot. His recent fourth to Wee Wink was a corker considering that it was his first performance in a little over a year. He concluded his training with a blazing three panels in :35.2. Contention, if any, will likely be furnished by OLD REB. The latter flashed a good effort to lead home a fairly shifty field last trip. HUG AGAIN, a slow beginner, figures to be along in time to save the show award.

FOURTH—DARK ZENI, CHEWAWA, CURRANTS

DARK ZENI, a smashing second to Jubilargo, has only to duplicate that most recent performance in order to grace the winner's circle here. The Fairfield stable colorbearer is sharp and good and apparently needs only intelligent handling in order to clinch brackets. CHEWAWA, a hard knocking mare minus a shifty field that included Morshist last trip. She will be hard to whip, especially if the Gumbo comes up. CURRANTS has evidently gone back in the betting. The dominant gelding failed to show a thing in his debut, but, mayhap, he'll come to life.

FIFTH—BOLD LOVER, ADVISING ANNA, NEW DEAL

BOLD LOVER has been treated royally by the handicapper in the one mile and 70 yards of this number. The Haughton colorbearer has been assigned 116 pounds, three less than he carried in establishing a new one mile and 70 yards track record only a few days back. ADVISING ANNA'S recent dull performances goes for the old gent that manicures the morgue. The Blondin filly was not persevered with when she couldn't match strides with Discovery that day. A breezing mile in 1:40.1 since then indicates that she is coming up razor sharp. NEW DEAL trained over at Narragansett and is reported to have worked brilliantly.

SIXTH RACE—BLACK HIGHBROW, JAIR, STE. LOUISE

BLACK HIGHBROW shapes up as much the best under the weight arrangements in this number. Under the favorable impost of 111 pounds, the Haughton color-bearer is dropping four pounds off his last effort, which was run in the excellent time of 1:14. Five furlongs in 1:00.2 hard held this morning tapered off his training. JAIR, runner up to Maerlei in the Mayflower stakes, is coming up a dead fit animal, if morning trials are any criterion. STE. LOUISE, a winner of two straight races and a recent victory over the top one, must be accorded a good chance, although the weight shifts are against her.

SEVENTH—SGT. BYRNE, DREEL, FRISKY MATRON

SGT. BYRNE is generally regarded as the cream of the sprinting brigade in this sector. He has been assigned a top heavy impost of 122 pounds, but the dope discloses that he has carried similar burdens and won in the past. A breezing six furlongs in 1.16 shows that he retains all of his speed. DREEL is from the fashionable A. G. Vanderbilt stable and is in nicely under 114 pounds. The Trojan colt is strictly the one to fear if past performances are any criterion. FRISKY MATRON is game and honest as they come. She is in well under 107 pounds and must be accorded at least a fighting chance.

EIGHTH—STAR FIRE, MARMION, PRIMUTE

STAR FIRE, a mare with oodles of class, came up a "red-hot" paddock tip last trip. She was all but knocked down going to the first turn that day, and had but scant chance thereafter. Prior to that, she turned several miles around 1:40. MARMION was installed a short-priced favorite over a shifty field only a few days back. In receipt of a weird ride by Jockey F. Mauro, he had scant chance to prove his true worth that day. PRIMUTE figures best of the others.

GIANTS CINCH LEAD WITH TWIN WINS

Mr. Boston

Wilson Popular Choice

By JACK CONWAY

SPEAKING of news: The naming of Allan Wilson as General Manager of Suffolk Downs was a popular move. Wilson is a practical racing man. He has been associated with trotters and pacers for years. He knows horsemen and speaks their language.

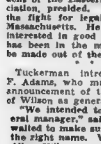
Wilson managed the Grand Circuit races at Rockingham last season. He also has numerous show horses and has won his share of ribbons with them.



Mr. Boston

Wilson has been a successful business executive. His chief asset in his new job will be the fact he knows people, and he is a diplomat in dealing with the different types one meets at a race track.

The announcement of the appointment of Wilson as general manager of Suffolk Downs was made at a dinner tendered to the press in the penthouse over the clubhouse at the East Boston track.

Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., president of the Eastern Racing Association, presided. Tuckerman led the fight for legalized racing in Massachusetts. He has been more interested in good racing than he has been in the money that may be made out of the sport.

Tuckerman introduced Charles F. Adams, who made the official announcement of the appointment of Wilson as general manager.

"We intended to name a general manager," said Adams, "but waited to make sure that we had the right name. We agreed that Allan Wilson was the man for the job."

JOE Tomasello, Mortimer Mahoney, William Almy, Jr., Gus Rooney, Howard Reynolds, Mickey Brooks, Eddie Hurley, former Lieut. Gov. Barry and myself expressed confidence in the appointment of Wilson. So did everybody else at the dinner.

"Judge Bryan," said Bayard Tuckerman, "told me the only trouble with Suffolk Downs has been with the road. I think we have fixed the leak."

Wilson will be on the job today. He says he will have his office in the administration building.

"My desk shall be on the ground floor," said Allen. "I want to meet people. Come in and get acquainted."

Wilson's summer home is at North Scituate. I do not believe he sees much of it.

"I only require four hours of sleep," said the new general manager. "I shall spend the rest of the time at Suffolk Downs."

$15,000 SALE

THE advance sale for the world's championship ring bout between Danno O'Mahoney and Ed Don George at Braves Field on next Tuesday night has passed the $15,000 mark. Paul Bowser says the rush for reservations means the biggest gate in the history of New England wrestling.

By tomorrow night the advance sale should have passed the $25,000 mark. The drive for tickets on Monday and Tuesday of next week will be terrific.

The Christmas Basket Fund will receive 12½ per cent of the receipts.

George will receive a guarantee of $25,000 with the privilege of accepting 37½ per cent of the receipts.

Danno will pull down 12½ per cent.

George still remains a 10 to 8 favorite in the betting. The speculative element likes to string along with the champion.

CUBS In 2d Place THREAT

CARDS SKID TO THIRD

By Universal Service

The New York Giants, supposedly crushed and crippled, had regained full control of the National League pennant situation today.

They handed the Cardinals, their most persistent opponents of the past few weeks, a double-drubbing, 3 to 1, and 13 to 2.

The victories ended the crucial six-game series with the Giants safely perched in first place with a lead of three full games.

The Cards, weakened by their desperate efforts to blast the Giants out of first place, dropped to third, with the Cubs moving into second through a victory over the Dodgers. The standing of the three teams today follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Giants	57	36	.655
Chicago	56	35	.615
St. Louis	54	34	.614

There was no doubt following the double triumph that the Giants had reconstructed their shattered forces. The pitching of Hal Schumacher and Lyn Stout in the opener was excellent.

Roy Parmalee turned in a steady performance in the nightcap. The Giants backed these performances with 12 hits in the opener and 17 in the afterpiece.

175 BOATS In Edgartown REGATTA

By Ed Schriftgiesser

Today a large fleet of sail from southern Massachusetts waters was gathered at Edgartown for the opening contests of the Edgartown Yacht Club's annual regatta. For the first time, the races will continue over two days. Nearly 175 boats from Nantucket, the Vineyard, Buzzards Bay and the Cape were expected to compete.

All the Beverly Y. C. and Marblehead boats of the Thirty Square Meter Class, which have been sailing in Buzzards Bay for the President Roosevelt trophy, raced through Woods Hole and across Vineyard Sound to be at Edgartown today. With them was the Swedish boat, Lil-Sinpva, in which Eric Nilsson, won the Roosevelt bowl.

Skippers of the American Thirties were commended for not "ganging up" on the Swedish boat in order to permit the American craft Bacardi to slip by in the last race and win the trophy. Odd that such elementary sportsmanship should be thought worthy of comment!

Tomorrow at Marblehead the Corinthian Yacht Club concludes its first championship series. Winners of first series titles in the Eastern Yacht Club are yet to be determined, as a missing mark cancelled races in four classes last week, and results must be arranged.

Race Week, or if you prefer, the Marblehead Midsummer Series, is only one week away. In order to allow yachtsmen to have their craft cleaned and refitted for the eight days of interclub racing, no interclub regatta is scheduled in Boston harbor this Sunday. Next week's schedule, too, is nearly a blank until Saturday opens Race Week under Eastern Yacht Club colors.

WES STAR-GAZER

Sore Arm Perils Career

(This is the fourth chapter in the life story of Wes Ferrell, Red Sox pitcher, who has won 25 games and provided spectacular punch hitting.)

By Joe Cashman

It is generally supposed that Wes Ferrell first hurt his arm while pitching against the Browns in St. Louis on April 16, 1933. That was the first time he had to stop pitching because of pain in the wing.

But the trouble, which was in his right shoulder, really started almost two years before. Soon after he had turned in a no-hit game against the Browns on April 29, 1931, to be exact.

After pitching the final game of a series in Detroit he went to the clubhouse and sat down to rest, as is his custom, before undressing and taking his shower.

This evening, though, he was ordered to take off his sweat shirt immediately so that it could be tossed in the trunk and shipped to the next town. He obeyed and then, unwisely, sat around naked to the waist.

Sore Shoulder Defies Cures

The next time he went to the hill he felt a sharp twinge in his right shoulder. He could wind up and start his delivery without discomfort but just before he would let the pitch go, especially the fast ball, his arm felt as though it were falling off.

He went to bone-setters, chiropractics and surgeons. He tried a dozen different diets, one of which reduced him to almost the size of the "Thin Man."

The shoulder got no better.

It was now that he became an addict of astrology to see if this occult science would help any. Much has been written about this idiosyncrasy of his, but it's never before been revealed how he happened to become a star gazer

Worrying over his arm, he became a changed pitcher. He never threw his fast one because he couldn't. He relied entirely on his curve.

There was much criticism of his habit of throwing so many hooks. It was said he was losing games he might otherwise win if he would throw his fast ball occasionally, and it was predicted he would ruin his arm.

The critics never knew he couldn't throw any other way

Maybe hostile batters did, but their knowledge wasn't helping them any.

Wins Despite Creaky Arm

Under a handicap which would have scared the average pitcher into refusing to lift his arm, Wesley won 22 games in 1931 and 23 the following year. This gave him the amazing and unequalled total of 91 victories for his first four years in the majors and in two of those seasons he was suffering from a lame whip.

But we're getting slightly ahead of our story.

It looked for a spell as though Wes might not play in '32. It wasn't arm trouble. It was contract trouble.

He wanted $20,000 for the season. The sum offered him was much less. It was reported at the time that he had offered to gamble with the management and sign up for $1000 a victory. He denies he ever made such a proposition.

Anyway, an agreement was finally reached, with Wes signing for $19,000.

He had a stormy campaign, despite his success in turning in triumphs. He was rebuked for his astrology antics. Nobody ever had sense enough to imagine his arm might be bothering him. If he had a bad day he was accused of being temperamental and not trying.

Feud With Boss Hits Climax

His feud with Manager Peckinpaugh finally reached its climax at Fenway Park late in the race.

Wes had beaten the Sox every time he faced them that season up to that afternoon. He started off poorly on this occasion, the first five Sox reaching and three scoring.

This didn't disturb our hero. He figured he could quickly quell the native uprising and that the Indians would eventually win out.

Peck had other ideas. He stopped the tilt and waved Wes to the showers.

Wes' protest over being taken out will never be forgotten by those who saw it.

He kicked foot-deep holes in the mound. He booted the resin bag out to center field. He threw his glove from the hill to the bench. Finally Umpire Bill Dinsen had to go out and threaten him with suspension before he would retire.

He didn't escape the suspension. Peck told him to rest for 10 days without pay, which was a fine of approximately $1200.

PARK LOOP

Race Hits STRETCH

Tonight's games in the Park League mark the conclusion of the eleventh week of the schedule, with but one week left for the teams to make up postponed games, in addition to the regular schedule.

All games must be played before August 5, the date set by President Billy Mullen for the starting of the playoffs.

Of the four games carded this evening the Casey-Roslindale game at Fallon Field, Roslindale, is the standout. In four games these clubs have played to date, each has taken two.

At the Dorchester Town Field the Jordan team will entertain the Hennigan Club of Roxbury.

Muldoon Club will play the Maddens at Marcella St. Playground, Roxbury.

CUBS DEFEAT Dodgers by 4-2

Chicago, July 28 (U8)—The Cubs continued their winning way, making it five in a row over the Dodgers with a 4-to-2 victory behind the five-hit pitching of Tex Carleton.

A three-run rally in the third inning proved to be the deciding factor. Four hits, a wild pitch and a walk produced the tallies.

1ST LOSS For Police COURT

Police Court, the wonder dog of Wonderland Park, suffered his first defeat in seven starts when Brown Sugar owned by Sid Manor copped the feature event at the Revere oval. Camden Lazer and Dance Tune took second and third respectively

The famous Police Court, winner of his last six starts, was never a threat being far back in the early running and not improving his position to a great extent.

A crowd of about 9000 fans poured $121,361 through the parimutuel windows. The daily double paid $43.60. The winning combination was Lady Cutlet in the first and Baby Stars in the third.

Your entry must reach the "Daily Double" Handicap Game Editor of the Boston American, P. O. Box 1946, or deliver to 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, not later than 1 P. M. Saturday, July 27

Here are the Rules:

To play the "Daily Double" Game name the horses you think will win the first and third races at Suffolk Downs. Then place the names of the horses you believe will run second and third in each of the two races.

20 pairs of tickets to the Suffolk Downs Races will be given each day to winners.

Winners will be picked under the following rules:

Entries that pick the "Daily Double" will be given first consideration. Should there be fewer "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, winners of the remaining tickets will be scored as follows: First counts 8 points, second counts 4 points, and third counts 2 points in each of the two races. The entries scoring the largest number of points will be declared the winners.

In the event there are more "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, the prizes will be given to the "Daily Double" winners who score the largest number of points in selecting the horses that run second and third in the first and third races. In scoring these winners the following rules will be observed: Place counts 4 points and show 2 points for each race. Tied contestants will each receive a ticket.

In the event any of the horses you pick are scratched, the next horse will be automatically moved up one space on your list. For example, should your first choice fail to start, the second horse named becomes your first choice and the third horse your second choice.

Except where horses are scratched, your selections must run in the order in which you list them on your entry blank in order to be counted. ONLY THE NAME OF ONE HORSE MAY BE SELECTED WHERE THE HORSES ARE COUPLED IN BETTING, AS IN ENTRIES AND FIELDS. The decision of the judges will be final and no entries returned

A coupon for Monday's "Daily Double" selections will be printed Saturday.

Each day's winners will be printed in all editions of the Boston Evening American the day after the races are run (Saturday's winners in Monday's editions).

Watch for the Suffolk Downs Daily Double

U. S. FAVORED IN DRAW

ALLISON In Ideal SPOT

MUCH DEPENDS ON BUDGE

London, July 26 (AP) —America's hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup, lost in 1927, soared today as Wilmer Allison, veteran Texan, was drawn to meet England's H. W. (Bunny) Austin in the opening singles match of the challenging round, starting tomorrow at Wimbledon. The second match of the opening day's program will pit Donald Budge, red-headed Californian, against Fred Perry, king of the world's amateurs.

Their chances of lifting the cup apparently resting entirely on the ability of both Allison and Budge to whip Austin, the Americans were openly delighted by the luck of the draw which gives the 31-year-old Texan his crack at England's second-string singles ace on the first day while he still will be fresh.

No longer boasting the stamina he once had, Allison will play all three days of the series, singles tomorrow and Tuesday, when the opening day's pairings are reversed, and in the doubles with John Van Ryn against George Patrick Hughes and Charles Raymond Davys Tuckey on Monday.

STRONG HOPES

Had the draw turned out otherwise, Allison would have had to face the all-but-unbeatable Perry on the opening day and Austin on Tuesday. After two previous matches the Texan might not have been anywhere near his best against Austin.

Tickled by the turn of events, Joseph W. Wear, America's non-playing captain, said:

"The draw suits us right down to the ground."

If Allison should defeat Austin tomorrow, America's chances of regaining the historic tennis trophy would be better than even. Experts figure the American combination of Allison and Van Ryn will win the doubles and count heavily on 19-year-old Budge to topple Austin on Tuesday in the final match of the series.

The California youngster defeated Austin in the recent all-England championships and climaxed his sensational play abroad in the Interzone finals with Germany by defeating both Henner Henkel and Gottfried von Cramm, the Teuton ace who is generally regarded as second only to Perry in the list of world amateurs.

SPEEDY In Taunton 8TH RACE

The featured eighth event at the Taunton dog track tonight will be over the long five-sixteenths of a mile distance, and will see in action some of the best hounds at the track including Speedy Event.

Speedy returns to his warfares of the racing strip tonight after a short but well earned rest, and will go to the post a very short priced favorite, for this longer distance seems to be to Speed's liking.

Pitted against Gus Males' star will be a notable pack of hounds including such familiar names to the Taunton dog racing fans as My Daddy, Reckless Tom, Ridge Band, Triumph, Just Allie, Chase Me, and Just Rip and Tare.

The track secretary, William Pineran, has nine other well balanced fields on tonight's card.

Extra Class in Revere Feature

By Sam Cohen

Extra, Freda Koontz' crack son of Not So Bad, comes back in the featured eighth race at Wonderland Park tonight and appears beat.

He finished three lengths behind Mutton Roll in a 26-second schooling quarter and off that effort is good enough to score. He is a distance greyhound but breaks fast.

Miss Traffic Court, a fast breaker, drew the red hole and will be out there winging. Wolf Larson prefers a route but has been running up front in his last two efforts.

CHIEF JUSTICE, MY QUEEN LADDIE, BLACK CANNON

FIRST RACE—Quarter-Mile

5	Chief Justice	1-2	86	L. Freeman
2	My Queen Laddie	4-1	55	Jess Bingham
1	Black Cannon	5-1	53	Sarah Ann
7	Silent Jr.	5-1	82	Golden Bear
3	Wink Mary	6-1	81	H. Shumberger
6	Red Warwick	7-1	66	K. B. Japaut
4	Zeno G.	8-1	57	K. M. Shea
8	Marsha's Laddie	9-1	66	Mrs. M. Faiffax

CHIEF JUSTICE has more early foot than MY QUEEN LADDIE and gets the call. The latter is strictly the one to beat. BLACK CANNON may upset the dope

FEARLESS SPEED, TEXAS OFFICER, ESCORTESS

SECOND RACE—Futurity Distance

5	Fearless Speed	2-1	87	Clyde Bond
8	Texas Officer	4-1	66	Clint Blair
1	Escortess	5-2	55	Art Mann
3	Just Lee	6-1	48	Ray Courtney
7	Wishful Leader	6-1	89	Cedar Point Ken
2	Wrisdreams	8-1	85	Freda Koontz
6	Three Point Tan	8-1	56	Doc Austin
4	Crab Orchard	8-1	60	Copper City Ken

FEARLESS SPEED is dropping down and should win easily. TEXAS OFFICER and ESCORTESS should fight for the other two places.

LEADEM LADDIE, COOLCOWER, NOW MAMA

THIRD RACE—Five-Sixteenths Mile

2	Leadem Laddie	4-1	58	Mrs. J. Krauch
5	Coolcower	3-1	57	D. Callahan
1	Now Mama	3-1	58	Capt. Cook
6	Ed's Sister	9-4	55	Clint Blair
7	Comma Fido	5-1	57	Chas. Bishop
3	Bad Maid	6-1	50	P. Conway
8	Jan Palomba	8-1	61	P. Whitehead
4	Baby Starr	7-1	55	M. Hitchcock

LEADEM LADDIE has been improving and should score. COOLCOWER has had poor luck but tries hard. NOW MAMA's speed may beat ED'S SISTER for third.

LEADING TRAFFIC, TRAFFIC MAN, IMA CUTIE

FOURTH RACE—Quarter Mile.

3	Leading Traffic	7-2	76	Lewis Randall
2	Traffic Man	4-1	86	Ted Traffic
8	Ima Cutie	6-1	68	Bud Sunday
7	Princess Regrate	6-1	87	Pat Call
5	Cedar Maid	8-1	85	R. White
1	War Chief	8-1	87	J. Shaffer
6	Sue Arthur	10-1	66	J. W. Ford

LEADING TRAFFIC, running from the inside, appears the best wager on the card. TRAFFIC MAN ran a powerful race last out. IMA CUTIE can be up there if she tries

IRON MASK, BLACK DICE, JUST FLINT

FIFTH RACE—Butterfly Distance

4	Iron Master	2-1	78	W. Dickinson
3	Black Dice	4-1	57	F. Albanowsky
1	Just Flint	5-1	58	R. McElvoy
2	Sun Red	8-1	57	D. Austin
7	Officer Dave	8-1	67	William Baker
8	Dr. Rebel	7-1	61	Art Wilson
6	Flora Du	8-1	55	N. L. Allen
5	Harlem	10-1	66	A. N. Chinn

JUST JUDGMENT, TUFF TRAFFIC, PLATINUM

SIXTH RACE—Futurity Distance.

3	Just Judgment	4-2	76	Arch DeGeer
2	Tuff Traffic	3-1	57	Mrs. M. Fallfax
1	Platinum	5-1	58	J. W. Ford
5	Peter	6-1	61	Sid Manor
6	Laura's Son	8-1	60	L. E. Thompson
4	Ima Mint	8-1	56	Mrs. D. Sheridan
7	Captain Al	8-1	61	Ed. Boyle
8	Golden Trumpet	8-1	61	Doc Pineran

JUST JUDGMENT is a powerful finisher and if he avoids early trouble it won't be TUFF TRAFFIC in fast and consistent. PLATINUM loves to hug the rail. CAPTAIN AL is tops just now.

ALMIGHTY DOLLAR, JUST WILBUR, ANDY'S LADY

SEVENTH RACE—Five-Sixteenths Mile

6	Almighty Dollar	4-1	68	Arch DeGeer
4	Just Wilbur	7-2	70	W. Fraser
5	Andy's Lady	3-1	57	F. Thompson
1	Keen	3-1	67	Ann Hughes
8	My Valentine	6-1	65	M. Highstone
3	Never Late	6-1	65	L. Pauley
7	Dandy Andy	7-1	61	C. W. Monteith
2	Kitty Dear	8-1	51	H. Alderson

ALMIGHTY DOLLAR might run well from the outside here. It is the tightest fit on the card. JUST WILBUR should be close. ANDY'S LADY can win but out and may be ready.

EXTRA, MISS TRAFFIC COURT, WOLF LARSON

EIGHTH RACE—Quarter-Mile Distance

4	Extra	2-1	83	Freda Koontz
1	Miss Traffic Court	5-1	54	Dan Oswald
7	Wolf Larson	3-1	75	Dink Cassis
3	Red Whisk	8-1	70	P. Whitehead
2	Lady Ida	8-1	56	Fred Starr
5	Dorchwood	8-1	56	Chris Zeniz
6	Irish Penny	8-1	71	Charles Perrin
8	Tarse	8-1	61	Doc Barrett

EXTRA schooled unusually fast and off that race can win here. MISS TRAFFIC COURT might figure from the inside. ANNA GLEN has a world of class if she's ready.

BLACK TERRY, MABEL TODD, BATTERY'S ALIBI

NINTH RACE—Quarter-Mile Distance

1	Black Terry	4-1	87	H. E. Alderson
7	Mabel Todd	4-1	58	A. N. Chinn
2	Battery's Alibi	4-1	57	R. H. Aspinall
6	Bob The Officer	5-1	66	Dan Oswald
5	Red Hanger	6-1	57	P. Cowan
8	Coming Day	8-1	65	B. Callaghan
3	Betty Ella	8-1	58	Dink Cassis
4	Royal Flint	10-1	66	W. Dickinson

BLACK TERRY got in a break from the inside from this sprint box and may stay up there. MABLE TODD has been running well but may find trouble on the outside. BATTERY'S ALIBI is dangerous.

MISS BELLE, HERMAN, KASHMIR HANGER

TENTH RACE—Five-Sixteenths Mile

8	Merry Belle	3-1	55	H. Alderson
6	Hermann	4-1	57	J. W. Ewell
1	Kashmir Hanger	3-1	57	N. G. Allen
3	Lady Miramber	5-1	55	Art Wilson
2	Who Why	6-1	65	L. Randall
7	Just Means Bye	7-1	57	C. W. Monteith
4	Matchbox Officer	8-1	65	Wm. Baker
5	Red Roll	8-1	72	Doc Austin

Pale Moon	Alva D
Mirz	Blue Builder

EIGHTH RACE—5/16 MILE

OLYMPIC Head Defends GERMANS

ASSURED ALL IS O. K.

By Associated Press

Chicago, July 26—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, said today he knew of no racial or religious reasons why the United States should not be represented in the Olympic games at Berlin in 1936.

"I haven't heard of anything to indicate discrimination against athletes of any race or religion since last year when there were reports that Jewish athletes might not be permitted to represent Germany in the games," he said.

"That question was answered by assurances from German political and sports leaders that there would be no racial, religious or political interference of any kind. I know of no reason for questioning these guarantees.

"I don't know what charges of discrimination Mr. Mahoney (Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic Union) had in mind yesterday when he said he would, if they were substantiated, vote against participation at Berlin.

Comm. Rules

"In any case," he continued, "Germany has nothing whatsoever to do with the management of the games. The Germans provide the facilities and make preliminary arrangements, but that is all. Every individual sport on the program is under the full and complete control of the international federation governing that sport, and the entire program is under the sole jurisdiction of the international Olympic committee.

"The time and place for the Olympic games of 1936 were fixed by the international committee long before the present German government came into power. The Olympic protocol provides that this must be done at least three years in advance since it takes at least that long to prepare for this great enterprise, it would therefore be quite impossible to change the route now even if it were desired.

"Both the International and American Olympic committees have every assurance, which there is no reason to question at present, from both German political and sports leaders, that there will be no interference with the games and that all the rules and regulations will be enforced to the letter."

"The strength and importance of organized amateur sports comes from its independence. It establishes and attempts to maintain the highest standards in its own field of endeavor, and will not tolerate political, racial or religious interference of any kind. It cannot, therefore, with good grace or propriety, interfere in the internal political, religious or racial affairs of any country or group."

ALDERSON Hound Set FOR WIN

West Springfield, July 25—With a record of 11 times in the money in 12 starts Fast Fly, diminutive hound from the H. E. Alderson's string is favored to win the tenth on the greyhound card here tonight.

Despite the fact that she has been out of the payoff ranks but once this season the little lady has won but one victory to date.

Four of her defeats being heartbreaking finishes at the wire.

She runs into plenty of competition, Mickey Mc, who showed winning form his last time out, being listed in the field along with Pat's Pal and Over Night.

Old Gas Users Can Use Quarter Meter

By "THE TROUBLE FIXER"

It seems that one of "The Trouble Fixer's" remedies, in adjusting the trouble of one party, backfired at the same time and caused a bit of embarrassment for another party.

A short while ago, in answering a correspondent, "The Trouble Fixer" explained that the Boston Consolidated Gas Company will install quarter gas meters only in the homes of welfare recipients or of people who owe back bills.

This explanation, misinterpreted, caused a little embarrassment for a Mrs. M. L. of Watertown, who had told a friend and neighbor that she used a quarter meter.

Mrs. M. L. was slightly peeved in writing to "The Trouble Fixer" and telling him to set things right. Writes Mrs. M. L.:

"I am not on the welfare. But I do use the quarter meter. Furthermore, I can still afford to pay $45 per month. In fact, I have had the quarter meter for the past five years."

The trouble lies in the interpretation of the explanation by "The Trouble Fixer." He said that the gas company will not install any more 25-cent gas meters.

However, it is also true that old customers who already have the gas meter are allowed to use them.

THE REAL ISSUE

"Shall Utility Holding Companies Be Destroyed and the Entire Electric Industry Be Put Under Federal Control?"

THE attitude of the Associated System on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill is and has been well known from the outset. It has been stated in advertisements published throughout the nation, in letters to Associated security holders, in published statements and reports. The Associated System came out into the open to fight this bill. It did not become a member of any committee. We deemed it preferable to defend, over our own name, our 300,000 security holders from this threat to their savings and our 1,450,000 customers from the political bureaucracy which is grasping for control of their service.

THE REAL ISSUE

The real issue in the fight on the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility bill is the death sentence for utility holding companies and ultimate complete control of the public utility industry by the Government. In the Senate bill the sentence is absolute. In the House bill provision is made for life imprisonment with an optional death sentence. In addition, the two bills provide for control by Washington bureaus of the financial and management policies of utility holding companies, accompanied by an entering wedge by the Federal government into the regulation of the operating properties.

If either bill is passed, undoubtedly State regulation will ultimately be superseded by Federal regulation. Government ownership will be the final step.

Those demanding this bill are grimly determined to destroy utility holding companies. These companies are fighting not only for a principle, but for their very lives.

We believe this legislation is unconstitutional, unfair, and an unjustified destruction of the property of American citizens. It has become increasingly apparent that proponents of the bill would try to jam this bill through Congress in spite of nation-wide opposition.

PROPER RECORDS KEPT

As to protests against the bill, whether by telegraph or mail, which the employees of the System assisted in obtaining, they were definitely intended to be authentic in every respect. The sending of any such telegrams or messages which were not authentic did not and does not have the sanction of the System and would not under any circumstances have been permitted if known. Authentic protests were easily secured from both investors and customers when once the nature of the bill was known to them.

The fact that there have been thrown away some so-called "records" is attempted to be made to appear a heinous offense. These were made up principally of newspaper reprints, cartoons, editorial comment, and memoranda as to the provisions of the legislation, which were used by employees in attempting intelligently to urge Associated customers and security holders to protect their own interests and oppose the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

No fair-minded person could think that such material contained anything which would reflect on the campaign conducted by the System. Yet this single act is being used to make it appear that our methods in this campaign of self-preservation have been dark and our motives sinister.

The System keeps proper permanent records of all business and financial transactions. These include expenditures in connection with its fight against the utility bill. They are open to authorized investigators who wish to examine them.

The purpose of this advertisement is to make our position clear, and to remind the public that it has been clear from the beginning. We urge utility investors and customers to make their position equally clear to their Senators and Representatives. The real issue is the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

BOSTON TRADE

Report SHOWS LITTLE Change

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

Business conditions in the Boston trade area are reflecting the normal letdown of summer. Thus far July, after the more than seasonal decrease of June, fails to show material improvement.

According to the Dun & Bradstreet weekly review of conditions business reports are of a mixed sort. Wool and textiles are still making a favorable showing. Cotton textiles are down, however, and building is making a poor showing. The business reporting service notes at the same time that prices on some cotton lines have been advanced and mills are beginning to take in some raw material. A pickup in demand is badly needed by New England's largest industry

Shoes and leather furnish cheerful news as the industry is reported to have scored a gain of 5 per cent over last year, which is more than it did a week before normal. Shoe manufacturing in principal Massachusetts centers picked up considerable in the past week as preparations were rushed to produce the sizable orders received during the middle weeks of July. Although hide and skin markets are somewhat slow, prices in general have held firmed steady and all grades of leather are subject to increased call.

Notebook: A development both bullish and bearish is a rarity but it can happen . . . Witness the situation in the packing and canning industry . . . Large packs of canned peas, corn and tomatoes are feared because of their effect on prices . . . California Packing, Libby, McNeil & Libby and Snider are handled gingerly by traders as a result . . . But the ran companies, such as American and Continental, and the tinplate makers will view the same happening as a shower of good fortune . . . Demand for their products will be stimulated.

Switching operations are a decided factor in the mixed markets now troubling some traders. A number of brokerage house reports indicate that fair-sized selling of industrial shares and replacement with rails, in line with policy adopted here, is responsible for the uneven trend. While in the industrials as a group will undoubtedly test most recent highs we continue of the opinion it will be in the nature of a topping out movement and rail shares enjoy the better prospects of moving into new high ground.

Shorts: The cement issues are reflecting the import situation . . . We warned about it here when the Belgium trade agreement was signed. . . The group acted well for a fair period after that. But until Washington produces enjoy better protection we must avoid the group. . . Preliminary scuttling of the "sneak the thrifty" tax plan in the House will help sentiment . . . Rails, rubbers, avia tions, appurtenances and coppers are likely to have their day as the other groups take it easy . . . Or feel the effect of profit-taking.

CURB Prices Move HIGHER

UTILITIES HOLD FIRM

New York, July 26—Firming tendencies among utility and specialty shares gave the curb market an improved appearance today. While advances among power and light stocks were relatively small, the majority of trading was concentrated in this group, especially among the lower priced shares.

Prominent on the upside were such issues as American Gas, Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, International Petroleum, Pioneer Gold, Niagara Hudson Power, Brown Williams and Wright Hargreaves, all on which were reactions to nearly a point higher.

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

WELL, folks, we never suspected there was so much artistic talent hidden away among our adventure readers! The Editor has been simply swamped with sketches of the old story-snooper! Wish we could publish ten a day, but space is limited and we must be satisfied with solo specimens.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Here's a very fine contribution sent to us by Henry Bahm of 139 Lucerne street, Dorchester, Mass. Our compliments, Artist Bahm, and many thanks!

Try to get an original slant to your idea of the headline hunter, boys and girls, so that we can have plenty of variety in this Gibbons Gallery. —The Editor

Romance in the Park

She Was a Blonde and He a Brunette and It Was Spring!

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

Did you ever pick someone up or get picked up yourself? Well, this isn't a "true confession" column, so you don't have to answer! But I know someone who did pick up "a nice girl" one night and just wait until you hear what happened to him!

Antonio Leal of 8 East 109th street, New York city, is the name and he makes the Adventurers' Club in what might certainly be called an unusual way. Tony makes it with the story of the girl he picked up.

As Tony strolled through the park one evening in the spring of 1934 he felt at peace with the world. He was working and today was payday. He patted the $30 in his pocket lovingly and pitied those that he saw around him sitting on benches, obviously not as free from financial worry as he.

Near a fountain that reflected his gay mood Tony sat down on a park bench and heaved a sigh of contentment. He took out a cigarette, and reaching for a match, started to light a well-earned smoke. As the match flared up a pleasant feminine voice broke into his reverie:

"I wonder if I could have a cigarette," the voice said.

Tonny turned, and, in the flare of the match, saw what he considered one of the most beautiful girls he had ever seen. Quickly he withdrew another cigarette from his case, and, with a courtly bow, inherited from his Spanish ancestors, handed it to the fair stranger, who shared his bench. As he held the tiny flame for her he congratulated himself on his luck.

He saw that she was blonde, had blue eyes and was well dressed. "Just my type," Tony thought, and moved a little closer. As she took a deep inhale of her cigarette she sighed and turned her blue eyes gratefully toward him.

"Thank you," she said, and Tony noticed her voice was lovely. It had that soft, low tone of the movie stars. Tony thought himself lucky, indeed. His heart was brimming over with generosity.

"Would you like something to eat?" he asked.

Her eyes danced. Of course, she would. She hadn't eaten all day. As they strolled to a nearby restaurant Tony got her full story. Broke—homeless—friendless. Tony admired her tall, stately figure. She was taller than he was, he noticed, but he liked that, and her fair hair was a delightful contrast to his raven locks.

Their little meal finished, Tony paid for it proudly out of his roll of bills and had a feeling of well being and satisfaction as they left the restaurant together. He suggested that they walk over to his sister's apartment. Perhaps his sister would have a room for the homeless girl. Tony says that he already had a strong feeling of sympathy for the girl he had met under such peculiar circumstances and sympathy, he had been told, was akin to love.

They walked arm in arm to the apartment. It was just around the corner. As Tony went to ring his sister's bell in the empty entrance hall his companion's hand suddenly closed around his wrist. The grip seemed strong as steel. Surprised, he turned and looked to see what had alarmed the girl

And he looked right into the business end of a revolver!

Tony says you could have knocked him over with a feather. His guest did not keep him long in doubt. A cold, bitter shone in those now hard, blue eyes. The rouged lips that had seemed so appealing a moment before were now a thin red line.

"Keep your trap shut," they snarled, "and shell out that roll."

Tony says he did as he was told, but his eyes roamed over the features that he had thought so appealing. He couldn't keep the surprise out of his face as he noticed how greatly they had changed. They seemed even masculine in their intensity.

Tony handed over his hard-earned salary with a bitter thought at the cruel ingratitude of the feminine sex and then he got the shock of his Latin life.

His fair, but ruthless, companion lifted up her skirts to place the money—as he thought—in her stocking, but instead she placed the roll in the pocket of a man's pair of trousers.

Tony's "pick-up" was a man.

And the shock, Tony says, was even greater than the shock of losing his money. He stood there—too flabbergasted to move —while his "Lady Fair" and his bank roll disappeared together.

And Tony, as Kipling says, "Learned about women from him."

There's no moral to this story, boys and girls, unless, of course, you see one, but Tony says he has learned a lesson that will last him for the rest of his life. I guess you are taking a chance when you speak to a stranger, and maybe the stranger is taking a chance when he or she speaks to you.

Be that as it may, flirtations now and then do turn out all right. I know couples who have met that way and married and lived happily ever after. But I think those are the exceptions that prove the rule, don't you?

And now, boys and girls, if you will pick up your pen and write me that most exciting adventure in your life I might pick up my check book and send you a check for ten dollars, just as I am going to do for Tony. And I am giving you tomorrow a swell adventure. It's "Walls of Air."

It's as easy as just reaching for it—and a heck of a lot more fun. That's what hundreds of Boston American readers say of the $10 and $100 bills they have received from headline-hunter Floyd Gibbons for their TRUE adventure stories. Floyd says everybody has had at least one thrilling experience, and he wants to write up yours. Send him the facts, and win a pocketful of dough, like Mrs. Henry W. Gould of Worcester, who drew a $10 check and a $100 prize.

HOW TO WIN $100.00

And Membership in The Floyd Gibbons Adventurers' Club

It's all very simple. There are no rules, and everyone is eligible. Just write down the facts of your most thrilling adventure and mail it to Floyd Gibbons, care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. Remember, the story must be TRUE. Don't worry about how well you can write. Floyd will take care of that. Floyd will pay $10 for every story printed and an extra prize of $100 for the best story of the month. Keep a copy of your story if you wish to have it, AS NO STORIES CAN BE RETURNED. Do not send valuable pictures or souvenirs of your adventure. Send the FACTS.

Louella Parsons' Filmdom Gossip

George Brent and Ginger Rogers Head "In Person" Cast

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service.

Los Angeles, July 26—I call it excellent business on Jack Warner's part to trade some of his own stars for stars from other studios. It gives Warners a variety of players and gives the stars a chance to have different releases and to make new contracts.

George Brent, who has been in many Warner pictures during the past year and who is growing increasingly popular with the fans, has been loaned to RKO to play opposite the flaming-haired Ginger Rogers in "In Person," her latest movie, to be directed by William Seiter.

Louella O. Parsons

In exchange for Mr. Brent, Warner Brothers will find a vehicle for Gene Raymond who recently signed a long term contract with RKO. There are several other swaps on the fire equally interesting now in negotiation.

Ronald Colman is sitting in the very excellent position of having all the producers want him. He will make a picture for David O. Selznick after March 1, 1936, and because David is eager to have all of his new United Artists' productions good when he goes East he will find a play for Colman.

Meanwhile, the very popular Ronnie is due to finish "The Man Who Broke the Bank of Monte Carlo" for Darryl Zanuck and "The Last Horizon" for Columbia. But according to the figures of all concerned it should be about March 1, 1936, when he appears in a picture for Selznick.

The most talked of girl in Hollywood at the moment is Eleanor Powell, who has all the young Hollywood gallants talking to themselves and rushing to the set at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer just to take a look at her. She is traveling to New York to do a show by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, "At Home Abroad" for the Shuberts, and she will share the spotlight with Bea Lillie and Ethel Waters.

But she is coming back to Hollywood. Louis B. Mayer made sure of that, for he signed her on a five year contract with the provision that she return to Hollywood when the show closes to start her new movie career.

Any play that Ferenc Molnar produces is first tried out in Budapest or Vienna. Then they are brought to this country. I remember very well in Budapest seeing them present for the first time "Humanity," and being impressed with his rehearsals which were all dress rehearsals for the entire last week. He has written a new play, "Grosse Liebe," which has not yet been presented in America but news travels fast and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is now trying to buy the play, a story of two sisters and a man. If they take up their option on the play, Jean Harlow will be starred as the younger sister.

Snapshots of Hollywood

CAROLE LOMBARD now admits her tennis game is pretty near okay; she beat BING CROSBY in a hard-fought contest; CARY GRANT, with the best tan in town after cruising on HOWARD HUGHES' huge yacht, at the Cocoanut Grove with ADELAIDE MOFFAT; in the same party the handsome CESAR ROMERO, with RUTH MOFFAT.

Pretty MARSHA HUNT, new Paramount player, who is the big moment in JACK OAKIE'S life, at the Grove with JACK, who looks grand these days; GROUCHO MARX'S daughter never smiling once at her dad's and uncle's antics while she watched them on the set; she's probably used to MARX humor at home; who is the mysterious Englishman who made several trips here to see VALERIE HOBSON?

DICKIE MOORE, playing with the small pigs on the "So Red the Rose" set, got nipped by one, as he reversed the old story and "slowly walked away"; MARGARET LINDSAY is traveling with JANET GAYNOR and her mother to Honolulu. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Donat's New Film Hit

Scheduled for a showing at the RKO Memorial shortly is the British film, "39 Steps," with Robert Donat in the star role.

Playing to capacity audiences in London, where it has been acclaimed as one of the finest films of the English studios, "39 Steps" will in all likelihood have its American premiere at the Keith house in Boston.

Donat, who scored his biggest success in the title role of "The Count of Monte Cristo," is once more a daring young adventurer in a thrilling spy story taken from a novel by Colonel John Buchan.

Mr. Donat began his career with amateur performances and recitals. At 15, he appeared before church societies, clubs and other organizations in and around Manchester and the north of England.

Fields Romps On Two Screens

"The Man on the Flying Trapeze" Packs Fun Aplenty

By JOYCE DANA

W. C. Fields doesn't go in for acrobatics in "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," in spite of its title.

But admirers of the rotund William, who juggled his way to fame long before talkies were born, will find plenty of unadulterated pre-picture Fields at both the Paramount and Fenway.

A good deal of the charm of the Joseph Hergesheimer novel, "Java Head" has been recaptured in its film version, which takes up the other half of the new program.

Fields is Ambrose Wolfinger, which is the first laugh. He's a memory expert, all in the way of bigger and better laughs.

And to polish off the broad humors, which are planned with an emphasis in regard for Mr. Field's slapstick antics, he has a most obnoxious family on his hands.

Catastrophe camps on Ambrose's trail. First he goes to jail for making apple-jack in his cellar.

Worst and funniest, to get the afternoon off, he tells his boss that his mother-in-law, a one hundred per cent Carrie Nation at heart, has died after a drink of poison liquor.

Floral tributes flooded the Wolfinger home, and Ambrose's return form a wrestling match, much the worse for having one of the contenders landed unceremoniously on top of him, is hardly a joyful reunion.

This high point in hilarity is not to be thought of along with Mr. Hyde' Micawber of "David Copperfield." In spite of the wit and waggery it reaches for, you may find it wearing thin and getting tiresome.

Sympathetic direction and a splendid cast distinguished "Java Head."

Anna May Wong is the calmly beautiful Tzaou Yuan, who comes to the port of Bristol as the bride of Gerrit Ammidon, played with dignity by John Loder. Elizabeth Allen makes a young and very lovely Nettie, who watches the man she loves drives to the arms of an Oriental bride by her fanatic father. And an excellent portrait of old Jeremy Ammidon, whose ships sailed 'round the world, is given by Edmund Gwenn.

Unhappily the transference of the Ammidons from Salem, Mass., to Bristol, England, has caused most of the cast to suffer acutely from an over-attack of British diction. However, once you get on to the broader than Boston A's it proves a decidedly interesting and well acted film play.

Bette Davis on Scollay's Bill

even can now buy a fur coat or cloth coat with absolute assurance of dependability. Find out why! The news is COMING SOON! Scott Furriers—Winter St., New England's Largest Fur Establishment.

Save your solutions until the end of the week and then send them to the "About Faces Editor," Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

Be sure to use the title-letter and the dramatic page of the Boston American as guides. The lucky entrants will be announced in this column tomorrow.

Besides the grand swim suit prizes, we will present you often you the opportunity of winning 15 dollars in cash each week.

The Big Three!

Today the "About Faces," the daily feature of the Boston Evening American takes you to the neighborhood theater where the most popular of twin-bills is playing. Managers Lew Newman of the Rivoli Theater in Roxbury, William Hartnett of the Embassy Theater in Waltham and Maurice Corkery of the Central Square Theater in Cambridge, are all presenting beginning Saturday, "Under the Pampas Moon" and the hit of all hits "No More Ladies."

The Boston Evening American through its "About Faces" feature is giving away 100 Winship swim suits to those readers who submit the correct answers to this contest. All that has to be done is to fill in the squares opposite the drawings above and answer the questions.

Nazi Persecution of Jews and Catholics Blot on Civilization

Foreign Onslaughts on Freedom, Whether by Nazism or Communism, Are a Warning for Our Liberty-loving People to Heed

THE savage and senseless persecution of Jews, of Catholics and even of liberal-minded Protestants by a certain element of the Nazi oligarchy in Germany is a blot on civilization.

Originally based on racial antipathy, it seems to have developed into a bitter war against religion itself—or at least on all religions which refuse to bow to the modern "paganism" of fanatics in the German Government.

This group of zealots out-Hitlers Hitler.

The land which produced a Goethe and a Schiller, and which has contributed so generously to literature, to science, to art and music, has fallen on evil days indeed when it can be represented—or MIS-represented—by barbarians of the stamp of Frick and Goering.

For the victims of Nazi brutality, right-thinking men and women everywhere have the deepest sympathy.

And NOWHERE is that sympathy more genuine and spontaneous than among the people of the United States.

Persecution on racial or religious or any other grounds is UTTERLY ALIEN TO THE TRUE SPIRIT OF AMERICANISM.

This nation was founded on the principle of freedom of speech, freedom of worship, complete equality of opportunity for all.

That is the spirit of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution.

Acts of tyranny anywhere, in any guise, are repulsive to this pirit.

The atrocities perpetrated on German Jews, the rule of iron over German Catholics, the strangling of dissent from liberal German Protestants—all these contravene and insult the ideals of liberty and equality on which civilization rests, and on which this country has been builded.

'Americans can feel nothing but sorrow as they view the ordeal through which the oppressed in Germany are passing.

But they can feel nothing but renewed pride in their own cherished and hard-won rights as they contrast them with the reign of terror which now grips a once great and enlightened land.

Foreign onslaughts on freedom, whether by Naziism or Communism, are a portent and a warning for our own liberty-loving people to heed.

NO SIMILAR MOVEMENTS CAN BE OR WILL BE TOLERATED HERE.

Whatever storms may rage abroad, let us highly resolve that our historic institutions shall ever be preserved and strengthened—firm in the knowledge that while they last, government of the people, by the people and for the people, will not perish from the earth.

Spare the Tears, Please

They Don't Stop Crime

AN ever hopeful public trusts something USEFUL may come out of the Crime Conference being sponsored by Governor Lehman of New York.

There is some reason to think that it may prove less of a "flop" than the usual pious, innocuous, resolution-passing meeting which gets nowhere.

Membership of the conference includes J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, and Sanford Bates, who left Boston to become director of Federal prisons.

These and some other notables do not fall into the category of crooked politicians, male sob-sisters, or stuffed shirts.

These gentlemen are well qualified to draw up a genuine anti-crime program—one that even Legislatures full of political-lawyers cannot afford to ditch completely.

And let us hope that they succeed in shifting some of the various States' tender care from the poor dear thugs and murderers some tender souls weep over to the public which provides victims for these same poor dear thugs and murderers.

The criminal can almost always count on the aid of some shyster to show him a legal loophole through which he can crawl, or a political friend to furnish valuable "pull" somewhere along the line, or a sweetly sentimental parole board to let him out of prison if by some miracle he gets in.

The Lehman commission, we trust, will concentrate on these points rather than on some such crime cures as a golf course, air-conditioned cells or private baths and radios for lawbreakers.

ALL States should watch AND STUDY this Crime Commission's proceedings.

"The Circle Supper"

New Church Art

Chatham will see unveiled on August 3, Alice Stallknecht Wight's painting "The Circle Supper."

It shows Christ in modern garb blessing an old-fashioned New England baked bean supper.

Rather than "The Last Supper," the original inspiration for the mural may have come from:

"Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them."—St. Matthew 18:20.

The painting, 15 by 24 feet, includes at the meal more than 50 residents of Chatham.

A Cape Cod waitress is painted holding a bowl of baked beans, while a Coast Guardsman is carrying brown bread on a tray with coffee cups.

If competent critics find the painting to have ARTISTIC merit—as they have in other examples of Mrs. Wight's work—Chatham will have added to its numerous distinctions.

The Supreme Court

Of Massachusetts

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts, like that of the United States, is shown as the defender of ALL THE PEOPLE in a finding by counsel for a big Boston bank.

A ruling of the Bay State's high court is cited by the bank's lawyers in declaring the Newburyport City Council's recent $60,000 bond issue invalid.

The city's need of the loan is unquestioned.

But to get it LEGALLY the emergency will have to be declared BY THE COURT.

This GOOD rule prevents possible treasury raiding by politicians, though in this instance it may work hardship on some of the citizens of Newburyport.

Caretaker of Goldfish

Anyway, It's a JOB

Fitchburg comes into the limelight with a new "odd job."

It's "caretaker of goldfish."

Established under the ERA, of course.

The caretaker also has the task of distributing the excess goldfish from Mirror Lake.

"Caretaker of goldfish" may NOT be the MOST IMPORTANT post under the ERA.

But anyway, it's a JOB.

And that's a LOT these days.

Caution Is Needed

On Leaving Buses

In the past few weeks news dispatches have told of the deaths of several persons alighting from buses.

The plain lesson is that both autoists and pedestrians need to be more CAREFUL.

While the person afoot has the RIGHT OF WAY, that right will avail him nothing if he gets injured or killed.

And punishment of the autoist who may be held responsible will be slight, if any, solace for a bereaved wife or orphaned family.

Yes, let us ALL be MORE CAUTIOUS in the motor ways.

Plenty of Rope

By Nelson Harding

New York Day by Day -:- By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 26—Thoughts while strolling: The blondes will wear red hats. Railroad station clocks always a bit fast—to fool the laggards. Bradock never takes a drink in despair was a fine epic of adversity. Steve Hannagan with Hildebrand could almost pass for John Bull.

O. O. McIntyre

Grand name for that new bar: The Twitter Room. A Negro Normandie docking still throws the police force out of gear. Ray Noble appears to be the only left-handed orchestra leader.

Gold diggers' jargon of their pluckings: "A fast five," "a slow twenty" or a "taxicab ten."

Looks alikes: Burton Rascoe and Fred Astaire. The head that artists would like to sculp: Clara Bell Walsh's. Ward Morehouse's puckish grin. All the Juleses seem to have just popped out of the bandbox—Glasenter, Bache, Brulatour. And Charles E. Mitchell's lapel flower is as jaunty as ever.

Newest high-salaried calling—cocktail hour singing! Such as by Dwight Fiske and Bobby La Branche. A thousand a week and better. And be lionized by the ladies to boot. Lee Shubert in one of those detached wanders. Sees no one. Plump Anna Held, Jr., in a cherry roadster.

Nobody can express that wounded faun look like Jimmy Savo. What became of Lloyd Nolan, the hit of "One Sunday Afternoon"? Didn't John Barrymore whisk off page 1 in a jiffy? Most vivid movie character: Charles Laughton in Henry VIII. Sudden thought: Will the Empire State building outride the storm?

Bruce Barton's daughter Betsey, after a 10 months convalescence in an auto crack-up that injured her spine, had her first day at the family dinner table recently.

To celebrate the occasion, she presided at a dinner of her father's close men friends. In the party were Grantland Rice, Frank Crowninshield, Lou Wursburg, Dr. Benjamin Farrell, Rex Cole and Lou Maxon. And Miss Barton was the life of the party.

Janette Hackett has become the last of the glamorous and vanishing vaudeville troupers.

Her flash dancing act has been playing almost continuously since the glory of the Palace days in the surrounding suburbs—Jamaica, White Plains and the like.

The astute statisticians of variety say that in another six months this form of entertainment will be completely extinct. It hangs on now because of the big movies that sprinkle a few turns between films. The number of these lessen weekly and it is predicted all will abandon them shortly.

Bronx express interlude. He was a neatly-dressed, middle aged J. M. Barrie looking man. Ensconced in the only available subway seat, he drew a folded napkin from his pocket, spreading it carefully on his lap.

Next he got out a pearl-handled knife and, quite oblivious of fellow passengers, fished from another pocket a partially whittled cake of scented soap.

Then he proceeded to carve toward its logical conclusion—a duck. The chips fell daintily on his napkin. When he reached his uptown station the only thing missing about his adventure in art was the quack.

And high up in a down-town office building Dr. Arthur Corby gives way to his hobby of collecting penny banks. He now has more than 1600 carefully indexed on shelves in his eight room office.

He has gathered them from every corner of the world and is said to be the only collector of this sort. As a child he longed for a certain penny bank he was never able to acquire.

What was once New York's Automobile Row, between 53rd street and Columbus Circle on Broadway, is only a shell of an opulent strip. Its windows, salons and salesmen were the most fastidiously dressed in any area. Its pavements flush with the most stylish shoppers.

Even Jandorf, the first of his kind, became a millionaire selling used cars. Today three of the big motor buildings are starkly empty. Sales forces are shucked to a minimum. Everything has a marked-down air. The business has moved further up-town.

George Gershwin was standing nearby when a neatly dressed, white haired man bent over one of those spurt-ups along the sidewalk edge for a drink. In leaning his hat and glasses fell off. In retrieving them his fountain pen and cane clattered to the ground. "I seem to have joined the general collapse!" he cackled.

Envying No Man

By Edgar A. Guest

I envy no man's right to smile,
But as the days go speeding by
Along the rough and dusty mile
I pity every groan and sigh.

No time have I for men content.
They do not need me where they play.
It is the backs with burdens bent
That want assistance on the way.

One more or less where all is well
Nor dime nor adds to glory's touch.
But one where bitter heartaches
dwell
In times of doubt may mean so much.

I envy no man's right to play,
By every triumph am I stirred,
But it's the strugglar on the way
Who really needs a cheering word.

I'd rather have it said of me
When I shall reach my journey's end,
Friend to the few I've tried to be
Who otherwise had lacked a friend.

The Comstock Lode

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

John J. Raskob, Senator Key Pittman and Bernard Baruch again let light into the deep, dark, abandoned shafts of the Comstock mother lode properties in Nevada.

Through complicated deals with other financiers in the background, the main properties of the lode are being merged.

Ample funds are available, and the world may now learn whether Edwin C. Hill that romantic dream of decades can come true—endless wealth in silver and gold requiring only modern machinery and scientific processes to get it out.

STORY OF DISCOVERY

More than 75 years have passed since a couple of happy and footloose Irishmen sluiced out a bit of curious black sand in the valley of the Carson, in Nevada, on the flank of a lone, barren peak of the Washoe Range.

They didn't know it was virtually pure silver at the time, but they learned later on.

They traded for a team of mules the mine which saved American credit in the Civil War, which sent four men to the United States Senate; which created a new state; which made an American girl an Italian princess and which built a great cable and telegraph system.

They were happy-go-lucky prospectors, Patrick O'Reiley and Peter McLaughlin. It was in 1859 when they found that heavy black deposit in their pan. They thought they might have something valuable but weren't sure about it.

They traced out-croppings of rock from which the disintegrations had come and staked out quite an expanse of ground up and down the mountain-side. A hard winter drove them off the job.

By the next year other out-croppings had been discovered, and miners' picks were sampling the rock, up and down the valley!

WALKED OVER RICHES

The westward-bound gold-seekers had literally tramped over the Comstock vaults of silver and gold. There was a restless flux, back and forth, across the waste of chaparral and malapai rocks in the late fifties.

In the late spring of 1860, strangely impelled, as if Destiny were starting a sweepstakes with many starters admitted, there was a swarm of rowdy, be-whiskered, fighting, bellowing hard-rock men moving toward the valley of the Carson.

But there had been no sensational discovery to attract them. O'Reiley and McLaughlin had the best claims, but weren't doing much about it.

In such elemental affairs, Fortune has a way of jerking back her largess, if the beneficiary doesn't get action.

Along came one H. T. P. Comstock, a tall, boisterous Canadian fur trader, with a tangle of black whiskers and grim, shaven upper lip.

With him was the roystering James Finney, known by no other name than "Old Virginia."

They knew something about rock formations and they found that the Irish lads had what looked like the hub of the great ore deposits of that region.

GAVE UP EASILY

Comstock told O'Reiley and McLaughlin that he had staked out a fermeite on this locality two or three years before and that, with riparian rights on the stream, and this and that, he therefore had a prior right to all the claims.

The good-natured Irishmen were sorry to have intruded, but insisted they had some rights and were entitled to a consideration for withdrawing.

So Comstock bought them out with a team of mules and some later small payment in cash which provided them with a grubstake.

Comstock, who was known as "Old Pancake" because he made the heaviest and least edible flapjacks in all the Nevada hills, knew more about mining than did the Irishmen, and he gouged out some rock of sufficient gold and silver content to attract attention down in San Francisco.

Quiet, keen and sagacious agents of San Francisco financiers began appearing in the valley.

When Comstock turned up what later became the "Big Bonanza" of the mother lode, there were on hand the shrewd John W. Mackay and James Fair, who already were on the way to their fabulous mining fortune.

'Dear Govt.' -:- By Winston Norman

Hon. Herbert Hoover
c/o Republicans
Wash., D. C.
Dear Mr. Hoover:

I RUN into a man trying to cross the Street this morning, with a long White Beard that come down to about his middle.

He was all mixed up in the Traffic, on acct. he was Old & didn't see very good, so I grabbed ahold of his arm & rescued him.

He says to me, "Thankee, Sonny, it looks like you saved my life."

"Don't call ME Sonny," I says, "because I am the Father of two children, age 5 and 7, and a Wife by the name of Mabel."

"Well, well," he says, "You sure been cuttin' up, ain't you? And if such is the case, you are almost old enough to be a Young Republican like me, so why don't you come to the Rally we're havin' up at the Old Peoples Home?"

I took a look at him & says, "Good Gracious, is all of the Young Republicans as old as you are?"

"No, they ain't," he told me, "because I am the youngest one. I was took into the Movement just after Garfield was shot."

So then he begun to get excited, Mr. Hoover, he held in his Store Teeth with one hand & waived his cane with the other, says, "Us Young Republicans has swore to beat Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936, and by Gum we're a-goin' to do it if enough of us lives that long."

I grabbed ahold of him again, his knees was beginning to wobble, & I says what Youth was they going to nominate to beat Mr. Roosevelt with?

"Well," he says, "we got Herbie Hoover for instance, he's a promisin' young Whipper Snapper of about 60, & if the Worst comes to the Worst we got Frankie Lowden, he's only been runnin' for Office about 40 years or more."

So that is where I says Goodbye to him, Mr. Hoover, because I seen where his Youth Movement wasn't nothing but a 2nd childhood.

Us Democrats don't need to worry none. We got the Youth of this nation behind us, because the New Deal is the kind of a thing that goes over with children about 7 years old and up.

Besides that, Mr. Roosevelt has formed a Youth Branch of the Govt. & out of all of our kids, which makes him the Stepfather of His Country.

Our kids is going to get Expense Money out of the U. S. Treasury, and also a Higher Education, such as what the letter X stands for, & where to put it on the Ballot.

So it looks like the New Deal is here for good, Mr. Hoover, because if these Young Republicans gets very thick ye will vote them an Old Age Pension & they will be Democrats too.

Yrs. truly,
W. Norman.
